Fancy Pants for Small Fry

New Look Diapers—These fashionable babies are wearing the last word in diaper styles. At far left, a gauzy oblong shaped model, light weight and non-bulky; next, the hourglass style in a knitted softy; right, the pin-free diaper which snaps on.

Waterproof Creeper—The pants of this soft creeper are lined in waterproof plastic film, so that it may be worn over diaper for complete protection.

By DOROTHY ROE (Associated Press Fashion Editor)
While the fashion world is seething with news of the latest Paris silhouette for Mama, Baby has been making news of his own, stylewise.

It's no longer correct for the well-dressed nursery set to wear the same old design in diapers. As all up-to-date baby sitters know, the three-cornered style went out a couple of decades ago, and the oblong fold has been the thing since then.

Now come a whole flock of innovations, shown at a recent convention of the National Baby Institute, with the hourglass diaper the last word in fashion for small fry. This "smooth look" garment is a softy made of a knitted brushed yarn and Now prepare the carrot, celery, onion and parsley, and add along with 4 cups boiling water. Add 1 teaspoon of salt first and more when soup is cooked if needed, along with pepper to taste. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and allow to simmer until peas are tender, about 45 minutes. Remove hambone. Put through a sieve or food mill. Reheat to serve. Makes 6 servings.

cut in hourglass shape, which eliminates unnecessary bulk and adjusts to fit babies of different ages.
New also is the pin-free diaper, which uses snaps instead of safety pins and has an ingenious snap tab for fastening it to the shirt.
Waterproof baby pants also are turning up in models worthy of a streamlined age. One of the most efficient is a style called the "boater," which consists of a plastic diaper with

The Carpenters were married shortly before coming to Silverton. Their children attended the local schools.

Convention Continues

Portland, October 25 (Special)—Miss Ruth Fedder of Doylestown, Pa., assistant superintendent of schools in Bucks county, Pa., and noted child psychologist and author, addressed the general leadership session of Camp Fire Girls National Triennial conference this morning at the Hotel Multnomah, Portland.

Speaking to a large audience of Camp Fire leaders, sponsors and field directors from all sections of the country, Miss Fedder talked on "The Meaning and Value of Group Experience."

Emphasizing the significance of group experiences of three girls, Miss Fedder said: "At the start of the project they were individuals, each intent on going her own way. Although the grouping was loose, the responsibility for each job rested with each one of them. As the work progressed, they came to realize that they depended upon one another for the total success of the production."

Miss Fedder went on to say that the goal of group experience is the development of the individual, but of an individual bound up with groups of different kinds—of an individual who has become what he is because of his relationship with other individuals and groups—of an individual who ultimately will have a relationship to and a responsibility for the affairs of his group, his community, his nation and his world. "In a democracy," she pointed out, "the individual is not the passive agent of group authority. Quite the opposite—the primary responsibility for group, community and national development is on the individual."

Other leadership sessions this morning included a panel discussion on "Implications for Camp Fire," chaired by Miss Ruth Teichmann, national program director of Camp Fire Girls, Mrs. P. J. Hoffstrom of St. Paul, Minn., presided at a session on "How the Local Council Operates." Organization and financing of area councils, also structure and function of the district council within the area council, were chaired by Mrs. W. H. Weaver, Jr., president of the Seattle, (Wash.) Camp Fire area council.

Afternoon workshop sessions were highlighted by a panel discussion on Blue Birds, Camp Fire's junior members, at which Mrs. Neville Woodruff, a Blue Bird leader in San Francisco, presided. In the discussion, "What Blue Birds Are Like," it was pointed out that this age group is composed of the war babies of yesterday and that the many personal and social disturbances of the war years have left their marks on these young people; that they are a speeded-up group in interest, awareness and even maturity—a challenge to teachers, group leaders and parents. The Blue Bird program is devoted to helping these seven-, eight- and nine-year-olds become true members of a group, giving each girl status as a potential homemaker and member of a community.

Earle W. Brailey of Cleveland, Ohio, chairman of the national board of Camp Fire Girls, is to preside at the evening session at which C. B. Stephenson, vice president, First National bank of Portland, is to speak on "Voluntary Agencies and Voluntary Giving—Symbols of Democratic Living."

It's Tops—from the bottom up!

Fact to remember: When you look at a car, any car, you only see about 40% of what you pay for.

That's why—when experienced buyers come in to look at a Packard—we often invite them to take a "road's-eye view." We like to show and describe hidden values such as these:

Double-solid-panel body construction—over a frame that looks husky enough to be the backbone of a battleship!

Special alloys that make the engine almost "wear-proof." Fact: In fast, 25,000-mile endurance runs, Packard cylinder wear is less than the thickness of this page!

Extra ball and roller bearings—more than you'll find in any other car in Packard's price class. Like the jewels in a fine watch, these costly bearings guard vital parts against wear.

The list goes on and on, and on—and it covers all the big reasons for Packard's superior safety and comfort . . . and Packard's amazingly, long lasting thrift.

And how consistent has Packard quality been—in the hidden features, as well as the on-the-surface features? Answer: Of all the Packards built—in the last 50 years—over 50% are still in service!
