Auto Industry Breaks Record But Adds to Traffic Problem

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—The auto industry today breaks another record, and adds a little more to one of the nation's problems—traffic.

Today the 3,358,421st vehicle of the year rolls off the production line. This tops, two months ahead of time, the output record for any one full year, standing since 1929. About 4½ million of these vehicles have been passenger cars.

The new one today will join the 32,787,100 others which R. L. Polk and Company, auto statisticians, report were registered in the country as of two weeks ago.

If you don't think there are that many on the streets and highways, just try taking your family out for an auto ride in or near any big city on the next sunny Sunday. Or try to park in almost any city business district.

Traffic jams are now so much a part of our lives that one of the service radio stations offer their metropolitan listeners is a periodic report on just where traffic conditions are worse during holiday rushes.

This is unlikely to endanger in any way the sales chances of today's new record car. But it is a headache to a lot of people besides traffic officers: to city merchants, to the oil industry, to the railroads, to city planners, and to city dwellers and suburbanites alike.

In some cities parking is not permitted in the districts where most of the biggest department stores cluster. In others parking is a time-wasting puzzle. Department stores try to solve this by building branches in the suburbs where many of their customers live and, more and more, shop.

The oil industry is selling more gasoline every year, but some of its leaders worry because traffic snarls increasingly tend to take the pleasure out of pleasure driving. Many cars that could be using gasoline are in garages because city driving is increasingly unpleasant, and because getting out into the country over the week-end means a bumper-to-bumper strain on the driver's nerves.

The country folk don't like it either. Hordes of city Sunday drivers lead many a suburb to try to close its parks and beaches to any outside cars. And many a country resident gripes because it is no longer much pleasure to take his family for their usual evening or Sunday afternoon drive—their roads are crowded with city folk he regards as intruders.

Railroads worry because more and more intercity hauling is being done by private automobiles, and less by train. The roads rail at the trucks for using tax-built highways, but there isn't much the iron horse boys can say against the family car toting the folks on their trips. There are too many car owners for that, and most railmen own and drive cars themselves.

ice. Others consider offering attractive rates for shipping cars on trains, so that you will have the family bus for pleasure use at the end of long trips. And still others already are arranging for rail passengers to get drive-yourself cars at the end of the train trip.

Highway engineers offer varied and intricate schemes for solving the traffic problem—most of them expensive. City planners see the growing number of cars almost as a Frankenstein's monster. Some are tearing up and widening chief arteries. Others plan huge and expensive city parking garages.

San Francisco a few years ago tore up a city park, built a large garage under it, and put the grass and trees and park benches back on the roof. New York has some elevated through streets, talks of more, and builds vehicle tunnels under its waterways. That 32,787,101st car on the highway had better watch its fenders.

National Guard Must Be Ready

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 27 (AP)—Gen. Omar H. Bradley said today that "war could strike us suddenly," and that the National Guard must be ready to move quickly into overseas battle areas.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the Guard's annual convention, he said the nation's military chiefs are planning for "immediate retaliation in kind to offensive blows struck against us" or against our allies.

Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, said that "we are forced to be prepared to defend ourselves if our attempts to preserve the peace founder upon the obstacle of Soviet ambition."

The craft can travel on the surface at a speed of more than 20 knots. She will carry a crew of 70.
