Canned Corn in Festive Fall Dish

A golden corn pudding patch inside a sausage fence is the kind of harvest-time dish that reaps lots of compliments for the cook. Both the pudding, which is made from a can of cream style corn, and the sausage links can be baked together in the oven. Place the sausage links in a shallow baking pan, and put in the oven a half hour before the pudding is done.

Cream style corn, good in puddings, cream soups and souffles, is produced by cutting off the top portions of the kernels and scraping the remainder from the cob to produce a rich creamy mixture. Since the cooking is done after the corn is sealed in the can, vitamins and minerals are retained.

An easy, interesting accompaniment to Corn Patch Pudding is pickled beets, which can be served either hot or cold. For the hot version, cook two sliced onions in 3 tablespoons of butter until tender; but not brown. Add 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon powdered cloves, 3 tablespoons vinegar and 1 No. 2 can drained whole, sliced or cubed beets with 1/2 cup of the liquid from the beets. If the beets are to be served cold, omit the butter and do not cook the onion slices. Heat the beets in the spiced liquid, add sliced onions and cool.

The Corn Patch Pudding is made as follows:
Corn Patch Pudding
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1/4 cup milk
1 No. 2 can cream style corn
2 eggs, well beaten
Melt butter, add flour, salt and sugar. Stir to a smooth paste. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Stir in corn and well-beaten eggs. Pour into greased casserole 4 x 10 inches and place in pan

WILLAMINA—Mrs. Winifred Reinbold and Tilman Turnidge, both of Willamina, were married Sunday, October 30, in Port Angeles, Wash., by the Rev. Albertson, a Methodist minister, who is a son-in-law of the bridegroom.
