

Birthdays Greetings to the Leathernecks — Marines, who celebrate their 174th birthday Thursday, are shown here in landing maneuvers at Quantico, Va. The Marine corps has been a pioneer in amphibious operations.

McKay Endorses Orchid Sale On 174 Marine Anniversary

Two hitches in the army haven't dimmed Douglas McKay's admiration for the United States Marines.

The governor, calling attention to the 174th anniversary of the Marine corps tomorrow, said that "No American should forget the grand war record of the men and women of the Globe and Anchor."

Morse Says Not Campaigning

Portland, Nov. 10 (AP)—Senator Wayne Morse told an audience last night he would have plenty to say about CVA when he campaigns for re-election.

"I expressed my views on pending CVA legislation in my October 14 speech. In my campaign I will enlarge on those views, but I have not yet begun my campaign," he said.

Earlier, other speakers before the banquet session of the 37th annual Oregon reclamation congress had opposed the Columbia valley administration proposal. They were applauded.

Morse talked primarily on economy in some services. He said he thought national defense budgets could be trimmed three billion dollars without harming security.

La Selle Coles, Prineville, said Oregon should push water resources development. He said if this wasn't done, California might demand use of the moisture, particularly in the Klamath area.

Senator Morse will make his first fall public appearance in Salem Thursday night when he speaks at Waller Hall at 8 p.m. His talk will follow the senators appearance at an informal dinner at the Senator hotel at 6:15 p.m. The dinner is sponsored by the Marion county chapter of the Young Republicans.

Second Body Taken From U of W Cave-in Seattle, Nov. 10 (AP)—The body of the second of two men trapped in a cave-in of a 60-foot shaft on the University of Washington campus, was recovered last night.

Last to be removed was the body of Ed L. Olson of Seattle. He and a companion worker, James McNabb of Auburn, were buried beneath tons of dirt and timber Tuesday forenoon. McNabb's body was recovered yesterday.

The cave-in, in tunneling designed to carry heat and electricity conduits to university buildings, was blamed yesterday by C. B. Jacobs, state mine inspector, upon "inadequate timbering" in the shaft.

Four other shafts were ordered closed until work has been done to strengthen them.

More than 39,000 wells are drilled in a year in the U.S. oil industry.

Naval Reserve Officer Says, To Unify, Start at Bottom

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

Washington, Nov. 10 (AP)—John P. Bracken is a navy man who believes in unity in the services. He's big enough to back up his beliefs.

Bracken, a commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve, is 6 feet, 4 inches, and has the brawn to go with it.

He is president of the Reserve Officers association, composed of officers from all branches of the reserve services — only organization of its kind. Bracken's main purpose in life at the moment is dedicated to the "attainment of national security through a strong military reserve program."

John Bracken has had many a "main attainment."

He's a lawyer of only 37 who can, like few others, boast 19 years in politics.

In high school and in college, he was a star debater and dabbled in school politics for practice. He was born in Carnegie, Pa., and attended the University of Pittsburgh. In 1939, he received a degree in law at the University of Pennsylvania.

The last war wasn't very old when the restless navy man volunteered for active duty. He helped navigate the crippled USS Marblehead 9000 miles back to New York after she had been nicked badly in the battle of Java Sea.

After a tour of anti-submarine duty in the Caribbean, Bracken returned to the Pacific in time to take part in the invasion of the Philippines, Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

The other night in Pittsburgh, the navy man-orator-lawyer had a chance to spout on his favorite subject — unification of the armed forces.

"While real unification would be one beneficial result of the officer procurement plan," says he, "we now are more interested in the fact that, at far less cost to the taxpayer, it would provide a high caliber of regular career officers and a steady input of trained, young reserve officers."

Bracken feels that the last is the most important. Our most potent military strength, he says, lies in our ready reserve and not in the standing forces.

"In the last war," he puts in for emphasis, "nine out of ten officers in the navy were reservists and the proportion was even higher in the army and air force."

Bracken believes that high school graduates who spend a year as enlisted men should be picked competitively for two-year college scholarships. They'd take a normal course — with emphasis on the military.

At the end of their second year, two-thirds of them would be given additional two-year scholarships, picking their own service. Plus summer months at camp, at sea, or at an air base.

Upon completion of the last two years of college the kids again would be screened — one third to do the graduate work.

They must, he says, start from the bottom.

He got a little rougher than that. The reserve commander went so far as to suggest a plan which eventually would make Annapolis and West Point post-graduate schools.

While real unification would be one beneficial result of the officer procurement plan," says he, "we now are more interested in the fact that, at far less cost to the taxpayer, it would provide a high caliber of regular career officers and a steady input of trained, young reserve officers."

Bracken feels that the last is the most important. Our most potent military strength, he says, lies in our ready reserve and not in the standing forces.

"In the last war," he puts in

for emphasis, "nine out of ten officers in the navy were reservists and the proportion was even higher in the army and air force."

Bracken believes that high school graduates who spend a year as enlisted men should be picked competitively for two-year college scholarships. They'd take a normal course — with emphasis on the military.

At the end of their second year, two-thirds of them would be given additional two-year scholarships, picking their own service. Plus summer months at camp, at sea, or at an air base.

Upon completion of the last two years of college the kids again would be screened — one third to do the graduate work.

They must, he says, start from the bottom.

He got a little rougher than that. The reserve commander went so far as to suggest a plan which eventually would make Annapolis and West Point post-graduate schools.

While real unification would be one beneficial result of the officer procurement plan," says he, "we now are more interested in the fact that, at far less cost to the taxpayer, it would provide a high caliber of regular career officers and a steady input of trained, young reserve officers."

Bracken feels that the last is the most important. Our most potent military strength, he says, lies in our ready reserve and not in the standing forces.

"In the last war," he puts in

Pinocle Is Played

Dayton—The Peninsula club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Willard, Sr. There were four tables at play during the evening, with high scores being held by Mrs. Vedah Willard and Wayne Owens. The low scores were held by Mrs. Arthur Sohrweid and Harry Fortner. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Veatrice Willard.

Husbands! Wives! Want new Pep and Vim?

Thousands of couples are weak, worn-out, exhausted, listless, try Petri Wine. You'll love it, you'll see, you'll find it, you'll buy it. Low cost! Introducing size only $1.00! At All Drug Stores everywhere—in Salem, at Fred Meyer's.

Roofing Material Sale

United States Gypsum line warehouse stock only. Must reduce our stock before inventory. Sale includes our special run of blended Staggeredge, Thickbutts and Giant Dutch Lap.

Willamette Valley Roof Co.

30 Lane Ave. Salem

It started with this...

SAY, THIS CALLS FOR A CELEBRATION!

It went over big with this!

When the occasion calls for a great wine—choose Petri Wine. Its richer, more satisfying taste results from three generations of wine-making skill. Enjoy Petri Wine often!

PETRI WINE CO., SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.

Dr. S. A. Wheatley
OPTOMETRIST
725 Court St. Ph. 2-4469

$$$ MONEY $$$

FHA
4 1/2% Real Estate Loans
Farm or City
Personal and Auto Loans
State Finance Co.
153 S. High St. Lbr 8-216 M-223

there's a new taste in BEER!

today's Blitz Weinhard has it

Distributed by GIDEON STOLZ CO.

Whirlpool Whirlpool Whirlpool

The World's BIGGEST DOLLAR VALUE

SEE THE MODEL 25 at VINCE'S ELECTRIC 157 So. Liberty St. Salem, Ore.

TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THIS SPECIAL LIMITED TIME OFFER!

NEVER BEFORE SUCH OUTSTANDING FEATURES AT THE RIDICULOUSLY LOW PRICE OF

89⁹⁵

"THE BIGGEST WASHING MACHINE VALUE OF THE AGE!"

- BIG SEVEN POUND CAPACITY TUB FULL GLEAMING WHITE FINISH
- BIG POWERFUL OVERSIZE ONE-THIRD H.P. MOTOR
- BIG 21 1/2 GALLON PORCELAIN ENAMEL TUB HIGH SPEED DRAIN PUMP

157 So. Liberty St. Vince's Electric SALEM, OREGON

with the exclusive, new Surgiflow ACTION THAT GIVES THOROUGH TOP TO BOTTOM WASHING

PAY ONLY $5.00 down

FREE DELIVERY Within 50 Miles

u-m-m-m what Wonderful Flavor

Schilling Drip Coffee

TWO KINDS DRIP OR PERCOLATOR

One sip of Schilling tells you—here is richer, better-tasting coffee. Thermo-Regulated roasted for uniform goodness, always delicious, always satisfying.

Schilling Coffee has it!

Buy Whirlpool—SAVE WORK! SAVE CLOTHES! SAVE MONEY!