East Salem Notes Change In Ownership of Property

East Salem, Dec. 2—An acreage sale in Auburn community the past week is of special interest to the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Husselman whose home was destroyed by fire two weeks ago. The Husselmans at one time owned a large tract of land just east of the city limits which has been sold off for new homes along the street, new homes along the street. Monroe avenue. The street was given the name "Monroe" from that part of his name. The last five acres have been bought by Mr. and Mrs. Everet Roemhildt, who will re-build part of the home at its present location at this time. Mr. and Mrs. Husselman are staying at 2420 Lee street and may be visited by their friends. Several Monroe avenue fami-lies entertained guests over the street. Sgt. 10-Year-Old Girl Asks Paper To Pray to Save Right Hand Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 2 (P)—All 10-year-old Betty Mar-bury wants for Christmas is her good right hand. And a great many folks in this area are out to save it for

And a great many locks in this area are out to save the her—if prayer will help. Doctors say she may lose her hand by amputation because of a malignant lesion now being ireated by X-ray. But the little Brownsville, Tenn., girl says she knows the Lord will answer prayers. So she wrote the Commercial Appeal for help: "I want those who read this letter . . . to pray that I may not lose my hand and that I may soon completely recover." Today the newspaper put its own prayer in print: "O Lord, who healed the leper, and raised up Lazarus from the dead heal too and protect this believing scattle abild."

the dead, heal, too, and protect this believing, gentle child." The newspaper wasn't alone. Its office was flooded with telephone calls when the letter was published Thursday. And the Baptist church in Betty's home town plans special prayers Sunday. Ministers here and in other cities and towns hereabouts say she'll be remembered in special and private prayers.

Before advising a change of climate for reasons of health a competent physician takes into account many other factors that influence your health also.

Financial security, family ties, your ability to adjust to new surroundings are important con-siderations. No one understands better than your physician how much your health depends upon them

So if you are considering a change of climate better have a serious talk with your doctor.

Medicine should be taken only when a physician prescribes it and a thoroughly qualified phar-macist compounds it.
