

Holy Cross Eyes Coach Problem

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Holy Cross athletic authorities are waiting to hear from Bill Osmanski whether he's ambitious to undertake another season of coaching after the one he just had . . . one report on Bulletin Bill's difficulties is that the athletes got into so many disputes in the huddles that one player claimed he had to stop three fights before plays could be run . . . Anyway, there's not much chance that they'll buy up Bill's contract. The alumni don't want to pick up a $36,000 tab for a guy who makes a pretty good living as a dentist and only coaches in his spare time . . . Babe Dildrikson Zaharias is hoping to make a six-weeks golf tour of England next summer.

Safety Measure
Lloyd Jordan, who ranks as a professor as well as a coach at Amherst, claims he probably is the only football coach who ever enjoyed a sabbatical leave . . . "That was in 1943, so I should have another next year." Lloyd mused. "And with the material I have coming up, maybe I should take it . . . on second thought, my assistant might do so well I'd be out of a job when I got back."

Jack Gardner, Kansas state coach, tabs basketball's current two-minute rule as "the worst piece of legislation we ever put on the books." . . . Jack argues that it reduces basketball to a 38-minute game and too many people walk out in the last two minutes . . . Bob Stebbens, Indiana U. football center, is definitely "off" formal parties at his fraternity house . . . After one of those affairs recently, Bob complained: "I washed dishes for three and a half hours—and didn't even have a co-ed to help me."

Cleaning the Cuff
In case you hadn't noticed, the Southeastern conference has adopted a "rotating" basketball schedule, grouping natural rivals with only single games against the other teams. The conference tournament, if it is held, no longer will decide the championship. Stan Musial will be one of the principal speakers at Joplin, Mo., Jan. 19 when a street will be named after Gabby Street . . . Lynn (60 minute) Chandrois, Michigan State halfback, actually played 60 minutes in two games this year and 55 minutes in four others . . . Tom Hamilton says he thinks Pitt football will remain "up" next season even with Notre Dame, Michigan State, Rice and Duke on the schedule . . . that's optimism for you.

tickets than they had sold. Doyle said members of the ring usually would buy tickets on the No. 1 horse. They collected, of course, if the No. 1 horse won. They also collected if the No. 1 horse lost. Doyle explained the numbers on the tickets held by member of the ring were altered by means of a small metal stamp to the number of the winning horse. Tickets usually were bought at the $10 and $50 windows, Doyle said.

Mammouth Gill Stadium To See Utes at Debut

Oregon State College, Corvallis, Dec. 14 — Oregon State's basketball team is preparing for its home openers against highly touted Utah in mammoth new Gill Coliseum Friday and Saturday nights after returning home Monday from a 10-day tour of the midwest and east on which the Beavers broke even against four top-notch quintets.

The Utah series will launch a six-game pre-conference home schedule in the Coliseum, newest and finest basketball palace west of the Rockies. The huge hoop emporium will comfortably handle 10,200 fans with 85 percent of the seats on the sides. Although the main floor will be practically 100 percent finished by this weekend, offices and basement dressing rooms will not be completed for several months.

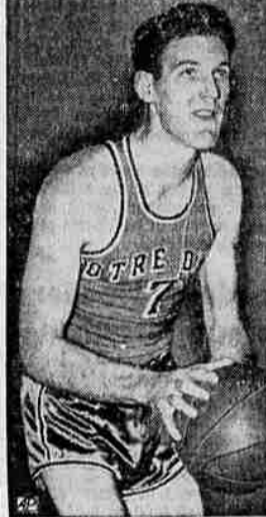

In addition to Utah, Indiana will be here December 20 and 21; Minnesota, the 27th; and Stewart Chevrolet of San Francisco, the 30th. All home games will start at 8 p.m. A new parking lot with facilities for 900 cars is located directly south of the Coliseum.

Utah, perennially a top ranking national hoop power, undoubtedly will offer the Orange

Notre Dame Quintet Lacks Sure-Fire Material

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY (AP Newscast)

South Bend, Ind. — Notre Dame is in the basketball campaign with only three monogram winners on hand.

KEVIN O'SHEA Trick Knee Cured?

O'Connor — are available. The gaps will have to be filled by new men of a quality that can't be gauged accurately until they are tested on the courts.

Thus, Coach Ed (Moose) Krause faces a future that involves a lot of hard work and a good deal of uncertainty.

O'Shea, a guard, is the new captain. He scored 232 points last season despite the handicap of a trick knee. He underwent surgery to correct the trouble last spring for the second time. How he fares this season depends on how well the knee functions.

Foley, who scored 119 points in the 1948-49 campaign, probably will start at center.

The rest of the positions are open to any and all lads who can prove their qualifications.

Among the forwards are O'Connor, who got into 20 games last season, and Dan Bagley, a junior with a fine high school record. He is making his first try in varsity competition.

The Irish won 17 and lost seven games last season. Whether they do better or worse depends on how the sophomores play. One is six feet, six; three are six, five; and three others top the six foot mark in height. They're short only on experience.

Majors Envision Increased Night Baseball Games

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—Just to prove that baseball played under lights is more popular than ever, the majors not only are envisioning a heavier night game schedule next season but a plan is afoot to turn on the lights for all day games threatened by darkness.

Following the action taken by the American association, the big leagues, at their meeting here, are almost certain to vote for such a step.

Ford Frick, president of the National league, feels confident the move will get the support of the majority of the clubs.

"We have the proposal up for consideration," he said, "along with the plan to eliminate the 12:50 a.m. curfew on night games. I don't believe there will be much opposition to it. I cannot see any reason why all games should not be completed except in the case of rain."

Police Nab Six Accused Racing Ticket Forgers

Philadelphia, Dec. 12 (AP)—Police have seized a sixth member of a ring authorities say defrauded eastern race tracks of more than $150,000 by altering tickets.

Police arrested John M. Smith, 40-year-old Philadelphia yesterday on charges of forgery, grand larceny and conspiracy.

Inspector Richard C. Doyle said Smith agreed to waive extradition to New York where five others were arrested on similar charges.

The race track fraud was discovered by ticket sellers who reported cashing more winning
