4-H Cooking Club Formed

Girls attending Bush school recently formed a 4-H cooking club with Mrs. Francis Wonderly as club leader.

Officers of the club elected were Kay Hardin, president; Nancy O'Neil, vice-president; Connie Pursley, secretary; Lucille Wonderly, reporter and Nancy Klumpp, song leader.

Parents present were Mrs. R. L. Klumpp, Mrs. Freda Seiber, Mrs. Paul Boney, Mrs. R. T. Hardin, Mrs. M. E. O'Neil, Mrs. F. L. Wonderly and Mrs. R. O. Sickles. James Bishop, city 4-H extension agent explained cooking club requirements and assisted the organization of the club.

The members will prepare two foods at least twice in each of the following groups: toast, cereals, milk, quick breads, eggs, fruits, breakfast meats, sandwiches, cookies and small cakes, breakfast or school lunch.

Another first year cooking club is being organized for Bush school girls under the leadership of Mrs. S. P. Houser.

Both boys and girls nine years of age and older and living within the city limits are eligible to join the city 4-H club program. Young people and parents interested may contact their school principal or James F. Bishop, city 4-H extension agent, at 475 N. Church street, Salem.

Fourteen girls and several mothers met at Washington school Thursday to consider organizing a 4-H cooking club. Mrs. Harvey Page explained the purpose of the meeting and introduced James Bishop, city 4-H extension agent, who explained 4-H club work and the requirements of the first year cookery project.

Young people present for the discussion were Judy Pahl, Jeanette and Darleen Goodman, Judy Larson, Carla Henderson, Patricia French, Darleen Clark, Roberta DeWeese, Barbara Rawlins, Imogene Thomas, Judy Ann Powers, Darleen Werrenza, Mary Clark and Carolann Whitman.

Beelzebub Gets Chance to Appear In Bridges Case

San Francisco, Dec. 14 (AP)—Spectators at the Harry Bridges perjury conspiracy trial enjoyed a laugh-filled interlude today when a defense attorney suggested Beelzebub, the Biblical name for the devil, be "properly identified as a government witness."

The serio-comic incident occurred during testimony of Manning R. Johnson, a Negro ex-communist who was trying to explain why he left the party ranks in 1940.

"One cannot serve two masters any more than a man can serve both God and Beelzebub," Johnson pronounced it "Beelzebub."

Bridges' attorney, Vincent Hallinan, immediately objected.

"Beelzebub," he said, mocking the witness' pronunciation, "hasn't been identified as a member of the communist party's national committee. I ask the government to identify him."

"Is he going to be a witness?" he demanded.

"Well, maybe he was the uninvited guest," District Judge George B. Harris said, carrying on the gag.
