Mrs. London Dies in Canada

Mrs. George F. Rodgers Friday night received word of the death that day in Vancouver, B. C., of her cousin, Mrs. Zulette Holman London, former Salem resident and member of an old Oregon family.

Mrs. London, who had been in ill health for the past year, died at her home in Vancouver.

A native of Salem, Mrs. London was born here in March, 1871. Her father was George P. Holman, the first male white child born in Oregon, and her grandfather, Joseph Holman, one of those present at the meeting at Champeog at which it was determined that the Oregon territory would become part of the United States.

The grandfather of Mrs. London built the old Holman Block in Salem and Mrs. London, as a girl, lived on Court street in the location of the home of the late C. P. Bishop. Later with her parents she moved to Portland to reside.

Surviving are the husband, P. W. B. London of Vancouver, B. C.; two daughters, Mrs. Zulette Boyd and Mrs. Winifred Abbott, both of Vancouver, B. C. and a son, Tampion London of Vancouver, B. C.

Christmas Spirit Pictured At Garden Club Greens

By MARIAN LOWRY FISCHER

You must not miss it—and it the Christmas spirit hasn't taken hold yet, it soon will after seeing this show.

That sums up the reaction in viewing the Salem Garden club's annual Christmas greens show which opened at noon Saturday in the Valley Motor company's display room. The show will be open until 9 o'clock this evening and through Sunday and Monday between noon and 9 p.m., each day.

The array of Christmas decorations practically fills the big display room and a perfect background for the event is the ceiling-high silvered Christmas tree set up by the company in the southeast corner.

Wreaths have a special spot in the greens show—wreaths of every type. There are holly ones, ones made from natural greens, etc. Then there are the Del Robia type, including berries, crabapples and many other articles arranged in them; silvered and frosted ones with lilac ribbons and balls, bronzed ones with chartreuse ornaments, etc.

Table settings are a big feature of the show, too. One is set with a gold satin cloth with a Christmas tree featuring chartreuse colored ornaments in the center and chartreuse candles in gold holders. Another is an effective arrangement of a purple cloth, varying shades of orchid and lilac and silver featuring the decorations. Another is set with a red cloth, green glassware, and a huge white candle for the centerpiece, greens and striped green ribbon surrounding the candle.

A punch table drawing much comment has ornaments made from wild rose haws encircling the round table in wreath affect, with blue glassware used.

Another table is set with an old-fashioned fringed white linen cloth, English ware dishes in green design carrying out themes from Dickens' books, while the centerpiece is a tiered one with holly and greens at the base, green gum drops and Christmas cookies on the second tier and a red candle topping the arrangement.

The table sets beside an old-fashioned Christmas tree which is decorated with popcorn strings, gingerbread Santa Claus and other gingerbread men, tiny candles set in cranberries with the old-fashioned snap holders, apples, pastel-colored paper chain strings, etc.

A very gay table in the middle of the display carries out the New Year's theme. The tartan cloth has multi-colored metallic stripes and the centerpiece is a branched arrangement of balloons in color matching the stripes in the cloth.

Madonnas are arranged in a special section, featuring one in a setting of Belgium, one from Mexico and another from Sweden, as well as Americanized versions. Especially effective is the Swedish setting in gold with the straw figurines. Several of the madonna settings feature blue and silver backgrounds.

New Business

As arranged the operation will be on a production line plan. In addition to the cost of the building about $30,000 will be spent for new and modern equipment, making it a project of at least $54,000. Presses will be air-operated. As part of the operation an emergency service will be offered, Nordstrom said, whereby a suit of clothes can be cleaned and pressed in 32 minutes.

Came From Nebraska

The Nordstroms have been cleaners and laundressers for two generations. It began with N. O. Nordstrom, father of Clyde Nordstrom and Mrs. Smith, who learned the tailoring trade in Stockholm, Sweden. He came to the United States, and 56 years ago founded the Nordstrom Cleaners & Launderers in Central City, Nebr. He died in 1938, and the business was bought by Mr. and Mrs. Smith, who had previously been connected with it. Mrs. Smith as office manager for 30 years and Mr. Smith for 22 years. They retired two years ago.

Clyde Nordstrom in the meantime had bought the Nu-Way Cleaners in West Salem from Frank Wallace. He owns the Nordstrom Cleaners of Gering, Nebr., and also a shop in Scottsbluff for 21 years, and has managed several of the largest plants in Oregon and Washington. He says the new Salem plant will be one of the biggest and most modern in the state.

Mrs. Smith is a past matron of the Eastern Star and has served on the advisory board of Job's Daughters. Clyde Nordstrom is past master of Scottsbluff lodge No. 201, AF & AM, past patron of Eastern Star lodge of Scottsbluff No. 133, and for 10 years served as Dad of the DeMolay.

Smith is past master of Lone Tree lodge, AF & AM of Central City, a past commander of the American Legion, and a member of the Lions club.

Nordstrom said the new building is to be ready for occupancy in 90 days. The plant will employ 15 or 20 persons. Five are employed in West Salem.

The remainder of the quarter block, Leo Childs said, will be made into a car parking lot. It is 166 by 148½ feet. All trees have been removed in the last week and the ground is now being filled in with dirt from the state highway office building excavation.

Ration for Lambs Discussed At Sheep Breeders' Meeting

By CLAUDE STEUSLOFF

Wood sugar molasses might be used to supplement grain in rations for lambs being fed short periods only, according to preliminary test results at Oregon State college, Joe Johnson, sheep specialist, told the Oregon Purebred Sheepbreeders association meeting in Corvallis recently.

The particular molasses tested was produced in Wisconsin but the wood products laboratory at Springfield says similar material can be manufactured here for about $17 to $20 per ton.

Where wood sugar molasses was substituted for 20 percent by weight of the grain ration lambs gained .525 pounds per day for the first 30 days of the test period. During the second 30 days they gained only 1 pound per day. Using only 10 percent molasses in the grain, lambs gained .5 pound per day at first and made no gain during the last 30 days. Check lots receiving no molasses in their grain gained .32 pounds and .28 pounds for the two periods.

Johnson said some inhibiting substance, possibly resinous, evidently had a cumulative toxic effect after the first excellent gains. Health of the animals remained good. Similar preliminary results have been obtained with swine.

Carcase grading of the lambs fed 20 percent molasses was slightly better than either the 10 percent or check lot. There was no appreciable difference brought out by the cooking test and cooking moisture loss was also parallel.

Activity of the breeding ram resulted in 19 pounds more weight per lamb at weaning time and this activity is carried on to the second generation, indicate genetics experiments being carried on by Dr. Ralph Bogart and George Cadmus of the Oregon State college animal husbandry department. Semen from one ram was 85 percent alive, had a motility rating of 9 and his service per conception was 1.3. Another ram had semen only 35 percent alive, motility of 4 and he required 2.6 services per conception. Lambs from the first ram weighed 74.3 pounds each at weaning time while the second ram's offspring weighed only 55.3 pounds average. Similar results are being obtained from ram lambs of the second generation.

For three years purebred rams of four breeds have been used on crossbred ewes at the college hill pasture experimental area. Lambs from Hampshire sires have averaged 76 pounds, of which lambs 54 percent were graded fat. Cheviot sired lambs were 74 pounds, 52 percent fat; Border Leicester sired, 73 pounds, 41 percent fat; Romney sired, 71 pounds, 23 percent fat.

Breitenbush Hearing Monday

A petition filed with the county court a few weeks ago asking for the abolition of the Breitenbush justice of the peace district which has been set for hearing next Monday will probably be given a further continuance when it comes up court members indicated Saturday.

When the December 19 date was set the reason for its continuance at that time was given as the situation then existent in the canyon with some strife developing over the proposed incorporation elections for Idanha and Detroit. Court members said that they thought these issues should be settled and the date for the hearing moved over until after the elections were over.

The reason given for further continuance now that the elections are settled with Idanha victor and Detroit loser, is to allow the folks up the canyon to get better organized and the situation clarified.

With Idanha on the way to be incorporated it is assumed some provision will be made for a local police force, probably a municipal court and the matter of need for a justice district there will be more clearly defined.

There was not much secret about the proposal seeking to have the district done away with was in a measure aimed at Edison Vickers, justice of the peace, who was an active champion for the incorporation of Detroit. In fact, it was known there was some discussion among its backers as to whether the proper step to be taken would be the launching of a recall or the action asking for abolishment of the district.

In the meantime the county court has canvassed the vote on the latest election for the Detroit incorporation and has issued an order officially declaring it failed by a vote of 113 in favor to 163 against. That election was held December 13. The court had previously issued its order declaring the city of Idanha incorporation proposal had carried as of an election December 9.

The weather was colder and wetter than a week ago, with a brisk wind besides. But that kept few people at home. Stores were crowded and trade was in volume. People didn't fill the stores merely to find shelter, for in the larger places all floors were crowded. Waitresses at the lunch counters were overworked.

Only four of the stores that had Santa Claus on the streets reported no winners. Some stores did not get the names of the winners. Among winners listed were:

Mrs. Marty Krug, address not given; Mrs. Dolores Bradbury, 1040 Park; Roland Lee Finn, 712 Lavens; Vesta Schroeder, address not given; Mrs. H. A. Biskie, 2382 State; Fred Hildebrandt, 3375 Maywood drive; Mrs. Cody Evans, 1770 Lee; Eva Rush, Glendora apartments; Glen Savage, 410 West Rural; Elaine Morrow, 1465 State; Mrs. Nolan, Detroit; Helene Snyder, 745 Belmont; Mrs. Bud Peterson, 437 Pine; Mr. and Mrs. H. # Volers

Walter Norblad, congressman from the first congressional district, will probably have no opposition at the primaries. There will likely be several democratic candidates for congress from this district.

Already L. T. Ward, publisher of the Benton County Review, has announced his candidacy and with it pronounced opposition to the Columbia valley administration bill, the pet of the 'Fair Deal' followers. As a result a more liberal candidate will likely be trotted out by the democratic high command to oppose Ward at the democratic primaries.

Both Rex Putnam, superintendent of public instruction and William E. Kimsey, state labor commissioner, are expected to run for re-election and are not likely to encounter any serious opposition.
