Amity High School Holds Yule Program

Amity—The second annual Christmas program by the Amity high school music department was presented at the high school gymnasium.

The building was arranged to represent a pine forest. And the title of the program was "The Christmas Service At The Chapel in the Pines." The altar of white on the stage carried the legend "Peace on Earth" flanked with tall white baskets of flowers with candelabra, and suitable painted background.

The school band presented several numbers; Rev. Paul gave the invocation and Rev. Bruce Wakeman, gave the doxology, followed by the Christmas story with Robert Watts, narrator. Appropriate music was by the school band during the story.

Soloists were Richard Martin and Carolyn Wilcox. The high school girls chorus, sextet, augmented by members from the band sang the closing numbers. Rev. Wm. F. Morse pronounced the benediction.

Santa Claus gave out treats to the children.

Linn Families Will Receive Yule Cheer

Albany—Christmas will be brought to the homes of no less than 50 Linn county families through the kindness of 13 or more Albany clubs and organizations and a score of more individuals, all working through the Linn county public welfare department.

Outstanding contribution to the Linn county Christmas cheer movement was made by the students of Albany high school Wednesday, when at a school assembly 25 baskets filled with food, clothing, and, in some cases games and toys, were turned over to Mrs. Ruth Cotter, public welfare administrator, for distribution among families in need.

The Christmas baskets and gifts will be taken to all parts of the county, including Sweet Home and Lebanon, and Albany and vicinity.

Before your doctor writes a prescription he has questioned you and examined you. Then he selects the drug that will do you the most good. He determines how much and of what strength it must be to correct the condition which exists. He then writes the prescription.

The pharmacist takes the prescription and from his shelves selects the drug the doctor has ordered. He carefully checks and weighs all the ingredients and compounds them. A reliable pharmacist uses only quality drugs fresh, pure and potent, thus assuring the desired results.
