The Holidays End

By MARIAN LOWRY FISCHER

Another holiday week-end—and then it is all over for another year. With school starting following the Christmas vacation and club groups getting back on their routine schedule, the new week finds Salem adjusting to a normal pace again.

But it has been a gay and happy holiday time and rounding out the period of festivities will be a long list of informal at home and open house affairs tonight, Sunday and Monday as local folk greet the new year.

For this evening Mr. and Mrs. Gene Vandenberg will be among those entertaining informally this evening for a group of friends, a late supper to be served.

Among those entertaining friends at informal New Year's eve parties this evening are Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Guild at their Cascade drive home. They have invited a group of friends for a watch party and late supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam F. Sperastra are among those entertaining at a watch party this evening for a group of friends, a late supper to be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Peery T. Buren are entertaining a group of 10 for an informal New Year's eve party this evening at their home, the group going later to Chuck's Steak House for the midnight supper. Their guests include Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Felton, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles LeRoy Mink and Mr. and Mrs. William L. Phillips, Jr.

Among others entertaining this evening are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Chambers who have invited 30 friends to call for the New Year's eve and a buffet supper.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Ryan are to entertain this evening at a watch party at their home.

Parties Before Dance
Several parties are planned in conjunction with the Carousal club's New Year's eve dance this evening at the Merlan dance studio.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Foss and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Post are entertaining a group preceding the Carousal dance this evening at the Shaw home.

Following the dance the three couples will entertain at a supper for a group of 18 of their friends at the Post home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Heiserman will be among those entertaining a group at their home preceding the dance, as will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hynd, who have invited a group to their home, and Mr. and Mrs. George I. Patterson who have asked guests to their home.

Following the dance, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene E. Laird are to be hosts at a New Year's breakfast to honor Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Graham who are moving soon to Portland to live. In the group will be Mr. and Mrs. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Smith French, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thornton of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Todd and Mr. and Mrs. Laird.

For New Year's Day
Among New Year's day at home affairs, tomorrow afternoon, will be the one for which Miss Nellie Schwab is to entertain at her new home at Grandview Place.

Guests will be members of the Salem Lions club and their husbands, guests to call between 3 and 6 o'clock. Miss Maxine Buren and other members of the club will assist Miss Schwab during the various hours.

Hosts New Year's afternoon for an open house affair will be Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Yeater, guests being invited to call between 3 and 6 o'clock at their Virginia street home. Assisting will be Mrs. William Haskin, Mrs. Douglas Yeater, Jr. and Miss Betty Russell.

A Wedding of Interest

A wedding of interest to a wide circle of friends took place in St. Paul's Episcopal church chapel last evening when Mrs. Louise Ruth Robertson was married to Richard D. Barton.

The Rev. George H. Swift read the service at 8 o'clock in the presence of members of the families and a few close friends.

Ronald Craven sang and Miss Ruth Bedford played the organ.

Alan Robertson escorted his mother to the altar. The bride was attended by her daughter, Mrs. Paul H. Hauser, Jr., of Portland, and Mr. Barton was attended by his son, Richard P. Barton.

The bride wore a green suit with matching hat and accessories, and a corsage of tube roses and white roses.

Immediately following the service a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Law. The table was set in white, silver and red, and Christmas greens featured the room decorations.

Mrs. Philip W. Allison and Mrs. Paul Larson poured. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. George H. Swift and Mrs. Roy Lockenour.
