By EDWARD STREETER. Illustrated by Guyas Williams

Then Kay would embrace him dramatically.

BANKS BECOMES A BIT PANICKY

(Installment XI)

In the pre-engagement days it had been Mr. Banks' pleasant custom to give out a cheerful "Hi" each evening as he entered his front door. And from somewhere in the house there was sure to come an answering "Hi." It was comforting and warming after an embattled day in the city.

Now, as he entered the house, he was more apt to be greeted by a din of youthful voices. They were all so polite they embarrassed him. The young males rose in a body and mumbled something ending in "sir." Then Kay would embrace him dramatically, one foot raised behind her, and say "Pops! We were waiting for you to make us a cocktail."

It was no time to protest. It seemed to him that each night another empty went into the garbage pail, where Della had observed it glumly, brooding obviously on her rather meager salary.

Sam, of the Fairview Manor Wines and Liquor Company, became steadily more enthusiastic. "Nice wedding you have," he would remark cheerily, his deft fingers wrapping up another three bottles. "Sure I charge. Against law. You bet. Come again."

In the front hall someone was always sitting at the telephone table making a long-distance call. As far as Mr. Banks could observe none of Kay's friends had any local acquaintances. Occasionally he would find a dime and several odd pennies beside the phone.

Each day there were frantic messages from Buckley's family about V.I.P.s who had been overlooked and must be invited immediately. It was Mr. Banks' job to get these belated invitations into the mailbox on the corner before going to bed. It seemed to him that he was always struggling through violent rain and sleet storms on these profitless errands.

Since the invitations had gone out, the arrival of the morning mail had become a matter of top priority, although there didn't seem to be much family agreement on the information it contained.

"Oh, what a shame," the Landley Davises can't come," exclaimed Mrs. Banks.

Mr. Banks' face beamed with pleasure.

"Mr. and Mrs. Throckmum Nesbitt accept with pleasure. Who in the world are Mr. and Mrs. Throckmum Nesbitt? And they say if we don't mind they're bringing their daughter."

"Never heard of them. They've got the wrong wedding," Mr. Banks was fumbling with the card file. "My God, they're some people from Pittsburgh! We had them down as 'P.N.C.' Haven't they ever been asked to a wedding before? I'd—"

"The Crumptions are coming—oh, and the Lewises—and the Quincys Browns—and the Gaylords and—oh, how nice—"

"What's the matter? Somebody refuse?"

"No. The Whiteheads were asked to another wedding and they're giving it up because the date was too miss. How sweet of them."

Mr. Banks buried himself in the morning paper. The news from Europe was more cheering.

Each day an increasing number of people, known and unknown, accepted with pleasure. The Banks—

I DON'T DARE SPILL THIS. MR. ROPER / THESE SMALL TOWN PHONE OPERATORS WOULD BE BEAMING IT IN ALL DIRECTIONS A MINUTE AFTER I HUNG UP!

THEN MAIL ME A MEMO, RIBBER!

THERE ISN'T TIME / WHEN THE NEWS GETS OUT, THIS DROWSY VILLAGE WILL BE AS FAMOUS AS OAK RIDGE, OR DUNKIRK, OR STRATFORD-ON-AVON! I'M SITTING ON THE LID—BUT IT COULD BLOW SKY HIGH ANY SECOND!

WAIT A MINUTE, "RIBBER"—DO YOU HAVE THE LITTLE GIFT HAMP? THAT WE SENT ALL OUR CORRESPONDENTS AT CHRISTMAS?—GOOD!—NOW—DO EXACTLY AS I TELL YOU—

HENRY!

DON'T MAKE SO MUCH NOISE! I HAVE A CAKE IN THE OVEN!

SLAM

BAKERY?

COURSE, PAPA DIDN'T MEAN TO MAKE ANY MISTAKE—NOBODY SUES HIM—BUT EVERYBODY SUES UNCLE GEORGE—SOMETHIN' 'BOUT TAXES AN' OVERTIME AN' ALL SORTS O' THINGS—

HOW'D IT COME OUT?

TERRIBLE! PAPA LOST HIS JOB—

PAPA WAS AWFUL SORRY—

OH, HIM ALMOST PUT HIM IN PRISON—BUT THEY DIDN'T. THEY JUST TOOK HIS FACTORY—

AND HIS HOUSE, TOO—

AND ALL THEIR MONEY—

HM—SO NOW HE'S A LITTLE MAD AT "PAPA" EN? TCH-TCH-TCH!

MISTER FINNEY, WHERE WAS SHERIFF WESTCOTT MURDERED?

OUT AT HIS RANCH, 'BOUT FIVE MILES FROM TOWN, HOPPY.

WHO DO YOU THINK DID IT?

TH' LITTLE WESTCOTT BOY CLAIMS HE SAW TH' MURDERER, BUT NO ONE BELIEVES HIM. I THINK HE'S TELLIN' TH' TRUTH. I BELIEVE IT WAS—

THEM KIDNERS HAS GOTTA GO! WIF PESTS LIKE THEM ARROUND, TOLKS STAY FIGHTIN' EACH OTHER—AN' THEY THROWS LAWYERS, GENERALS AN' UNIMMENT MAKERS OOTA WORK!—

AFORE THEY GOES, PAPPY'S GONNA GIVE 'EM A FEW LAST SENTIMENTAL SPINE-RATTLIN' KICKS—BLESS HIS THOUGHTFUL LIL' HEART!—

WORKS WIF THESE POINTED SHOES!—

USSEN T' THEM HEART-RENDERIN' THUDS!—LUCKY ITS KIDNERS!—NOTHIN' HOODUM COULD STAND SECH PUNISHMENT!—

YO' KIDDIN'!

FOR THE LOVE OF MIKE! THERE'S JEFF SITTYN' ON THAT POST AGAIN, SOUND ASLEEP!

SO FAR EVERY NIGHT THIS WEEK HE WALKS OUT THE BACK WAY IN HIS SLEEP AND PERCHES HIMSELF ON THAT POST!

GOSH, CAN YOU DO ANYTHING TO STOP ME, DOOP?

HM—I THINK I CAN!

SO, STOP WALKIN' ON A SLEEPER'S HEAD!

IT WAS USED FOR CONCRETE FORMS AND SCAFFOLDING WHEN MR. MILES BUILT A STOREHOUSE—AND THERE'S A COUPLE MORE LOADS!

WHAT'L YOU HAVE, MAC?

WHAT'S THE USE OF ASKIN' IF YOU NEVER HAVE ANYTHING BUT FRIED EGGS OR 'CHEESE ON RYE' AND THOSE PIES! OH, BROTHA!

WHY DON'T YOU GET WISE, DANNY, AND TRY GETTIN' FOOD FOR THREE MILES EITHER WAY, YOU DON'T EAT!

WHY SHOULD I WORRY? I GO THE ONLY PLACE FOR THREE MILES EITHER WAY, YOU DON'T EAT!

GREAT GUNS, KIDS! WHERE IN SAM HILL DID YOU GET ALL THIS GOOD LUMBER?

MEANWHILE, A MILE DOWN THE STATE ROAD.

WHY DON'T YOU GET WISE, DANNY, AND TRY GETTIN' FOOD FOR THREE MILES EITHER WAY, YOU DON'T EAT!

WHY SHOULD I WORRY? I GO THE ONLY PLACE FOR THREE MILES EITHER WAY, YOU DON'T EAT!

HOLD ON TO YOUR HEADPIECE, AUNT MARY! THIS HOT-ROD IS ABOUT TO WHOOSH!—LINK IS GRILLIN' THE SUPER STEAKS AND THEY AREN'T THE ONLY THING THAT'LL BE BURNED UP IF WE'RE LATE!

FORGIVE ME IF I STARE, BRICK—BUT YOU LOOK SO UNFAMILIAR—NOT WEARING GLASSES!

MAY I INTERJECT A CORRECTION?—I AM WEARIN' 'EM!

YUP! IF I CAN BELIEVE THE STACKS OF LYRICAL COPY I'VE PUNCHED OUT FOR OUR ADVERTISING AGENCY'S PET CLIENT, I AM WEARIN' THE ONLY EYE AIDS A LOVELY LADY SHOULD BE SEEN IN!
