March of Dimes Rally Saturday

A rally, marking the kickoff for the 1950 "March of Dimes" campaign in Marion county, featuring bands, speakers and an exhibition of an iron lung, will be held at the Armory Saturday at 11 a.m.

The rally had been scheduled for the courthouse lawn, but because of inclement weather has been transferred to the Armory.

Color guard for the ceremony will be provided by the Salem Marine Corps reserve, reports Howard Ragan, county chairman for this year's fund raising campaign.

Music is to be provided by the Salem Indian drum and bugle corps, and bands from Salem high, Willamette university, Jefferson, Stayton and Woodburn.

A "Talent Discovery" show, slated for two presentations—Monday and Tuesday nights—will feature next week's portion of the campaign. The show will be staged at the high school auditorium beginning at 8 o'clock each night.

Next Wednesday night's professional boxing card at the armory has been designated a "March of Dimes" benefit.

Apprenticeship Ceremony Held

Certificates of completion of apprenticeship were presented a large group at the monthly meeting of the Salem apprenticeship committee Thursday night with Herbert E. Barker, who made the presentation, complimenting the men upon the completion of their course.

Receiving the certificates were Everett R. Butler, machinist at the McLauchlan machine shop; Patrick J. Ebner, butcher at the Mt. Angel Meat company; Luke J. Schmidt, meat cutter at the City meat and grocer, Mt. Angel; Allan C. Dillabaugh, glass bender for Martin Bros. Sign company; John O. Saur, auto painter at the Valley Motor company; Elmer Goertzen, material clerk for the Walton-Brown company; and Edsel M. Bakke, upholsterer for the Arthur Rieck company.

All members of the Salem committee attended the meeting. These are Harry Scott, Monroe Cheek and A. B. McLauchlan, alternate, for the employers; William Entress, Herb Barker and D. W. Burroughs, alternate, represented the employes. Frank B. Bennett is chairman with Burroughs secretary of the committee.

Others attending were D. G. Ellis, assistant director of apprenticeship for Oregon; L. K. Pierson and William J. Bender, of the vocational training division of the Salem public schools; Charles West, of the International Association of Machinists; L. Schwaling, of the Salem Auto Mechanics; Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hintz, of Detroit, and James Blackwell, Salem.

Express Rate Rise Allowed

An order issued by George H. Flagg, state public utilities commissioner, grants a petition by Pacific Greyhound Lines to increase the express rates in their local interdivision.

Conclusions reached in the hearing were that the volume of express business now being handled at Greyhound terminals places a hardship on passenger service; that the congestion affects the convenience of the passengers; that the volume of express has grown to such an extent that it can no longer be considered as an incidental part of the passenger service; that to a great extent rates account for the large volume of express shipments rather than a need for fast service; that the present express rates and charges do not produce enough revenue to be self-sustaining for the service given, and therefore are not compensatory.

"In almost all cases," says the order, "motor carriers of property have a minimum charge of $1.25 on which pick-up and delivery service is rendered. This is considerably in excess of the Pacific Greyhound Lines' minimum charge of 45 cents."

Christian Ethics In Labor Relations

James T. Landye, Portland attorney, and Walter A. Durham, associated with the lumbering industry, will discuss "Christian Ethics in Labor-Management Relations" at the First Congregational church next Sunday night at 8 o'clock.

The discussion will be one of the church's forum sessions in which vital subjects are often on the program.

Durham, speaking for management, is secretary-manager of the lumbermen's industrial relations committee, and is a member of the First Congregational church of Portland.

Landye, speaking for labor, is a Welsh-born Portland lawyer. He has long been active in promoting better relations between labor and management.

Youths Questioned — Two young suspects were questioned by Salem police Thursday night upon complaint of Bernice Halbeisen to the effect that they could be involved in the theft of $15 from her young brother. The money had been collected on a newspaper route. Both of the youths questioned denied knowledge of the theft, but one admitted being under a suspended sentence.

Lt. Kerr Receives Decorations

Decorations earned during World War II were presented this week to First Lt. Kerwin D. Kerr, USMCR, at the regular meeting of "C" battery, 4th 105-mm Howitzer battalion at the Naval and Marine corps training center.

Making the presentation was Lt. Col. Richard Davis, commanding officer of the 4th 105-mm howitzer battalion.

Decorations presented Lt. Kerr included the Distinguished Flying Cross, Gold Star in lieu of a second Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with five gold stars for heroism, meritorious and extraordinary achievements in aerial flights against the enemy.

The flights were made against Japanese forces in the Philippine Islands during the period of January 17 to July 9, 1945. At this time he was attached to Marine fighter squadrons 218 and 313. Kerr completed a total of 40 missions against the Japanese force in the vicinity of the Philippine Islands.

The officer, now a civil engineering student at Oregon State college and affiliated with Naval Aviation Unit No. 13-1, USNR, enlisted in the Marine Corps at McMinnville, Oregon, in 1942. He spent three years in the service with 14 months of that service overseas, two months of it in China and 12 months in the Philippine Islands. Parents of Lt. Kerr are Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Kerr of route 2, McMinnville.

State Board

The motion adopted unanimously by members of the joint boards provides that the board of control negotiate with Coates to determine a reasonable price for the lot with a view of putting the proposal up to the emergency board at a future meeting.

Due to the emergency of the situation Walsh said that the board could meet again in a week or 10 days and asked Roy Mills to notify him as soon as the negotiations had been completed.

"As long as we can get a reasonable offer for the lot I believe we can find a legal way in which to buy it," said Walsh. "And so far as I am concerned I would be willing to proceed, regardless, because I don't think anyone will enjoin us."

Lions Hear Rossman — Judge George Rossman, of the state supreme court, spoke on "Our Heritage" at the Friday luncheon meeting of the Portland Lions club.

Some 10,000,000 gallons of frozen concentrated orange juice were produced in the 1949 season.

Mr. Ulvin Has 95th Birthday

A. A. Ulvin, who celebrated his 95th birthday Thursday afternoon at his residence, 555 Rose street, was born in Norway in 1855, came to the United States at the age of 15 and has been a resident of Oregon since the turn of the century.

For many years Mr. Ulvin was a Silverton merchant associated with the firm of Thompson & Ulvin. He has been living in retirement for a number of years and since 1946 has been a resident of Salem.

Friends attending open house in celebration of Mr. Ulvin's birthday found the nonogenarian in good health and mentally sharp. When asked what explanation he had for his longevity Mr. Ulvin facetiously started to reply, "Whis—"

"He doesn't use it at all," countered his housekeeper.

"It would be too bad to worry about bad habits so late in life," rejoined the reporter.

"Worry, that's it!" exclaimed the nonogenarian. "I never worry. I think, maybe, that's why I've lived so long."

Mr. Ulvin's nearest kinsmen are Henry and Louise Ulvin, grandchildren.

Wilson Rites Held at Orting

Funeral services were held at Orting, Wash., January 11, for Roscoe H. Wilson, 60, former Salem resident who died at Madigan Veterans' hospital at Fort Lewis, January 8.

The Orting American Legion post was in charge of the military services and interment followed in the Washington Soldiers Home cemetery in Orting.

Wilson, a veteran of World War I and member of the Orting American Legion post, had resided at the Soldiers' home in that city.

Surviving are four sisters, Mrs. Jessie Taylor of Olympia, Mrs. Esther Weihrdt of Oakville, Wash.; Mrs. S. G. (Mattie) Hinkle of Salem and Mrs. William Schaffer of San Francisco, and one brother, Austin H. Wilson of Salem.

Hop Control Board Elects

Ray Kerr was re-elected to the joint growers' advisory committee of the U. S. Hop hop control board at a district meeting held Thursday at the Senator hotel. The meeting was sponsored by both organizations.

Homer L. Goulet, Jr., was elected alternate committee member.

The hop growers attending discussed various problems of the industry as they affect both the control board and the association, and advanced plans for the fourth annual convention of the Hop Growers convention to be held in Salem February 9 to 11 inclusive.

Paul Rowell, manager of the hop control board, left Salem for Albany where a district meeting will be held Friday afternoon. He will go on to Eugene for a meeting Friday night and to Grants Pass for a meeting Saturday.

Growers of the Independence district met Thursday night.

Winter's Most

If the predicted cold front moves in, Portland and nearby areas would be paralyzed.

All Oregon had new snow Friday morning. Corvallis reported six inches, Astoria six inches, and new heavy falls came down in the Grants Pass area.

80 Mile Winds

The coast wind storm, with gusts registering up to 80 miles an hour, tore out all telephone lines from Newport and caused other damage there.

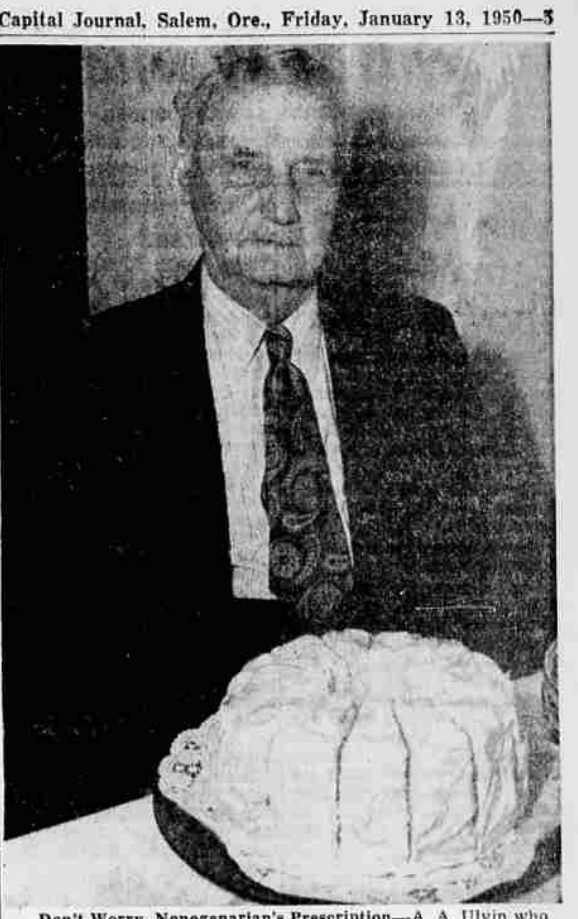
Highways everywhere throughout the state continue dangerous and officials are urging motorists to travel only when necessary, with chains needed on most roads.

Throughout Friday morning the strong wind whipped over Salem, being clocked at 40 miles an hour in minute averages and up to 80 miles in the gusts, several in the 70s.

Reports from all sections of the county stated snow was piling up in the outlying districts.

The wet snow, mixed with rain, took off much of the snow lying on the ground in Salem, Friday, but caused a slushy mess on the streets—and the situation might become dangerous with below-freezing temperatures tonight and tomorrow morning.

Super Market Files—An assumed business name certificate for the Big Y Super Market was filed with the Marion county court Thursday by three Medford men, L. A. McCormick, M. O. Bessonette and W. A. Graff.



Don't Worry, Nonogenarian's Prescription—A. A. Ulvin who celebrated his 95th birthday at his residence, 555 Rose street, Thursday afternoon, prescribes freedom from worry for longevity.

Two Announce Intentions to Run for State Legislature

Mrs. Joe Rogers of route 1, Independence and Lloyd Girod of Idanha are seeking to serve in the house of representatives in the 1951 legislature.

Mrs. Rogers, who is seeking the republican nomination for representative from the 10th district in Polk county and Girod, who missed the republican nomination for state representative from Marion county by less than 200 votes two years ago, is again a candidate.

Girod, 39, a veteran of World War II, is a graduate of Salem high school and holds a BA and MA degree from Willamette university.

He spent his boyhood days in the Fruitland district, and formerly was a teacher. He was principal of the Richmond school in Salem when he retired from the teaching profession to purchase a general store at Idanha.

Mrs. Rogers lives on the Polk county dairy and grain farm that has been operated by the family continually for the last 70 years. The parents of Joe Rogers, who died several years ago, have farmed since the death of the latter and with Mrs. Rogers, the son and his wife added a dairy herd.

Mrs. Rogers is the mother of four children, three sons and a daughter, who lives in Albany with her family. Earl Rogers was an instructor in Ashland high school for eight years and at present is teaching near Medford. Hugh Rogers is the farmer of the family and Joe Rogers, Jr., the dairyman, both near Independence.

Mrs. Rogers intends, if elected, to give her full time to her office and serve with the best interests of both the county being taken into consideration.

Fitzpatrick Funeral Held Friday Afternoon

Funeral services were held at the Howell-Edwards chapel Friday afternoon for William Andrew Fitzpatrick, former grocery store operator in Salem, who died at his home at 3241 Liberty road Tuesday. Interment was at the City View cemetery.

Fitzpatrick, who came to Salem in 1920, worked for a short time for the state highway department and later established grocery stores on South 25th street and Market street. He was born in Canada June 19, 1875. He came to eastern Oregon from Canada in 1890. There he engaged in mining and grocery activities.

After retiring from the grocery business in 1930 Fitzpatrick engaged in farming until his death.

Surviving are his wife, the former Carrie E. Meyer to whom he was married December 26, 1906, at Dundee; two daughters, Mrs. Loring Grier and Mrs. Max Allen; a son, Ermel R. Owens; and four grandchildren, all residing in Salem.

Shriners' Dance Will Help March of Dimes

The Marion County Shriners will hold their semi-formal midwinter dance for the benefit of the "March of Dimes" fund Saturday night at the Marion hotel.

Elmer J. Church, president of the Salem Shrine club, announces that Guy Albin and his Tophatters will play from 9:30 to midnight. The "oasis" and snack bar will operate from 8 to 9:30.

All proceeds will be used in the fight against polio.

Taxicab

On that single occasion, she sat straight up in her chair, obviously poised to make an open announcement to the court and onlookers.

She then broke into tears as she stated, "I just want to say this: I didn't want any of the men I was involved with to get into any kind of trouble at all." The last few words were forced out through a choking sob.

Her voice was clear and her manner calm as she explained in detail how she had met Clark on a night late last October, and how he had taken her to his apartment and had immoral relations with her.

Clark Issues Denial

Clark denied that the girl had ever been inside his apartment or that he had ever touched her. In previous questioning by police, he had also denied knowing the girl intimately.

The girl testified that she had made a habit of loitering about the taxi stands in front of the Greyhound bus terminal, many times remaining in that vicinity or in cabs all night.

Howard Taylor, a cab driver called as a character witness for Clark, caused raised eyebrows all over the courtroom when he stated from the witness stand that he had observed "more than a few" police officers talking to the girl near the taxi stands on several occasions before she was taken into custody.

"Smutty Jokes" Cracked

Taylor said he did not eavesdrop on the conversations between police and the girl, but that he overheard them talking occasionally and that they were telling "smutty jokes" to each other.

The spectators on hand for the trial included grinning bobby-soxers, gasping ladies, policemen, taxi-drivers, and a group of several attorneys who were on hand to take notes, apparently picking up a few pointers.
