

Elder Offers to Serve Brother's Prison Sentence

Denver, Jan. 14 (AP)—A Seventh Day Adventist elder who practices what he preaches was turned down today on his offer to serve a life sentence in prison in place of his brother.

The 33-year-old Joplin, Mo., church leader, George Sherbondy, offered to go to prison if the state of Colorado would free his brother from the life sentence.

Natives Taken in Army by Chinese

Taipei, Formosa, Jan. 14 (AP)—Chinese nationalists are giving Formosans a chance to fight in defense of this rich island.

By the end of May, 35,000 natives between the ages of 20 and 21 will have been conscripted.

The first batch is already being recruited. It consists of 14,000 middle school (high school) graduates who will become army sergeants.

The remaining 31,000 will start as privates.

A new wrinkle has been introduced into the Chinese conscription. Nobody will be allowed to buy their way out of conscription. That was a common practice on the mainland.

Conscription is by lot drawing. Families deprived of wage earners will get compensation from the government both in cash and rice.

Every day farewell parades are held for those going south for training. Trucks with loud speakers blare "Yankee Doodle" and other light airs. Firecrackers are discharged by the thousands.

Altogether the scene is one of gaiety.

The fact some conscripts are driven around in limousines by their rich families has convinced the public the lot drawing is without favor.

Kills Wife Because She's Late Returning

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—A pretty young bride was killed by her jealous husband, police said Friday, because she got home 15 minutes late.

The victim was brunette Ann Taylor, 21, a bride of three months.

Her husband, Thomas, 28, was booked on a homicide charge after he voluntarily gave himself up late last night.

Police said he told this story: He and his wife had moved into a one-room Brooklyn apartment a week ago. Yesterday, at her insistence, he permitted her to go visit her foster mother. She promised to return by 3:45 p.m.

When she didn't return until 4 p.m., the husband, in a rage of jealousy, beat her with a hammer and then strangled her with his belt.

"I thought I was going to lose her," police quoted him. "I was insanely jealous."

Reds Return Death Penalty

Moscow, Jan. 14 (AP)—The death penalty returned yesterday to Soviet Russia's statute books after an absence of almost two years.

The local press published an edict by the presidium of the supreme Soviet decreeing revival of the penalty for "traitors to the homeland, spies and saboteurs." For other crimes the death sentence still will not be given.

(Speculation at once arose in London that the return of the death penalty presaged new prosecutions similar to the 1937 Moscow treason trials.)

The presidium abolished capital punishment on May 26, 1947, because, its edict then said, it was "no longer necessary in peacetime conditions." This, the decree explained, was because Russia's World War II victory had demonstrated "the exceptional loyalty of the entire population of the Soviet Union to the Soviet country and the Soviet government."

"At the same time," the presidium's edict said, "the world situation during the past period since the surrender of Germany and Japan demonstrates that peace may be regarded as secure for a prolonged period of time in spite of attempts of aggressive elements to provoke war."
