Salem's McNary field prepared Saturday to take the United Air Lines flights scheduled to land in Portland but in the end got only those making regularly scheduled Salem stops.

The Salem United station early Saturday morning received word from the Denver office to prepare to handle the Portland stops, the Portland airport at that time having a heavy covering of snow on its runways.

United in Salem called employees normally on other shifts in to work in event that the flights were forced to stop here and arrangements were made to charter buses for transportation to Portland.

Only about three inches of snow blanketed McNary field, while in Portland, according to the report given the UAL in Salem, there were drifts of between 18 and 19 inches of snow on the airport.

Portland runways, however, were cleared enough by the time of the first flight from the south arrived to be used by the plane. Seattle still was not open to operations.

Forest Industry Gets Directory

An authentic directory of the Forest Products Industry of Western North America has just been released for distribution by The Timberman, an international lumber journal, Portland, Oregon.

The 456-page Forest Products Industry directory is issued in an overall size of 8 3/4 x 11 1/2 inches. Its main listings include basic production organizations such as sawmill, logging, shingle, plywood and veneer, box factories, pulp and paper mills and wood preserving plants.

It will be of particular interest to equipment manufacturers serving all segments of the forest products industry, industrial advertising agencies, school and public libraries and to the industry itself.

Other western officials, however, said they believed the two countries would soon complete agreements on defense, trade and friendship.

Extensive details on the reported negotiations for new Russian bases in China were not forthcoming from the informant.

Chinese communist leader Mao Tse-tung has been in Moscow for several weeks, presumably to discuss every phase of his country's relations with the Soviet union.

Radio Moscow announced about two months ago that Mao's regime intended "to review all treaties concluded by the Kuomintang (nationalists) with foreign powers and, according to their nature, revise, annul or recognize them."

The services are different in that they are based on the promises of the Bible to fasting and prayer. Rev. Hanson is said to follow his own preaching in this connection and frequently induces as many as 200 persons to fast with him.

Fir Tree Crashes Simning Home

Two winters in a row now disaster has struck at the Sid Simning family at 850 Bever drive.

Shortly after 5 o'clock Friday evening a fir tree nearly 150 feet high, weakened by the storm, fell across the Simning house and crushed the roof on two sides.

On November 20, 1948, a tree toppled and crushed Simning's automobile.

The house is badly damaged, both inside and out, but the family of four is still making it livable. Plaster and glassware suffered most. No furniture was damaged.

Simning was up all night working to get the tree off his roof, but it was still there today.

Bever drive, where the Simnings live, is just north of the city limits between Cherry avenue and North River road.

New County Map Complete

You can find almost anything in Marion county, except your keys or your spectacles or something you've lost out of your pocket by consulting a new map at City hall.

The fire department, the engineer's office and some other offices have the map. It's a big one for the wall—2 1/2 inches to the mile by scale.

If you want to locate Welch street in Silverton, or John street in St. Paul, or Hardcastle street in Woodburn, all you have to do is move a tape indicator that operates by numbers and your finger is on the street.

All cities and towns in the county are on the map. Other things shown include highways, county and market roads, railroads, parks, postal routes, schools, churches, cemeteries, rivers and creeks.

All boundary lines are defined, and distances from Salem shown.

It's called a Polyconic Projection map and it is made by Hearne Bros. of Detroit, Mich. The map is in colors. All property owned by city, state, county or federal government is indicated in green.

Rev. E. H. Becker leaves Monday evening for Chicago to meet with district presidents and executive officers of the International Lutheran league, youth organization of the Lutheran church-Missouri Synod. The Rev. Beck is the advisory pastor of the Oregon district. The purpose of the meeting is to work out a plan to make the league program more effective.

Youngsters Coast On South High

It's a pretty good country after all. No burly cops appeared Saturday to tell the kids they couldn't coast on Fry's hill.

Instead city authorities decided to turn the hill over to the youngsters, and the police barricaded South High street from Mission to Oak. So if you're driving to or from south Salem you'll have to go by another street.

M'Kay Speaker Jaycee Banquet

Governor Douglas McKay was announced Saturday as the guest speaker for the annual Junior First Citizen banquet to be held in Salem Tuesday night under the sponsorship of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The banquet, which will honor Coburn Grabenhorst this year as Salem's Junior First Citizen, is open to the public. It will be held at the Senator hotel at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Frank Lockman, professor of speech at Willamette university, is scheduled to act as toastmaster for the evening affair and Mayor R. L. Elfstrom is slated to make the official award to Grabenhorst.

For more than a decade, the Salem Jaycees had honored one young man between the ages of 21 and 35 for his contributions to the community at the annual banquet.

Governor McKay has not announced a topic for the speech he will give Tuesday night.

Woman's Club Scholarship

A one hundred dollar scholarship to the Oregon College of Education in Monmouth will be awarded to a Salem high school senior girl by the Salem Women's club, it is announced by Mrs. George Webster Alling, president. The winner of this award will be announced at the close of the 1949-50 school year.

The award of this scholarship is one of the Salem Women's club projects in the Build a Better Community contest being sponsored by the General Federation of Women's clubs. One of the purposes of this contest is to make the work of local clubs of maximum service to their communities. This project was adopted because of the critical shortage of elementary teachers in the state.

The Salem club has assisted in the state federation's scholarship loan project and in the award of a yearly $1000 fellowship by the state federation to a Pan-American woman student to continue higher education in Oregon, but this is the first time the club has offered an award to a Salem high school student.

Another state award to which the Salem club contributes is the $150 art scholarship to the University of Oregon which is given each year to a worthy student.

2 Little Kiddies Freeze to Death

Ritzville, Wash., Jan. 14 (AP)—Two small children, who tried to walk home with their father after the family car stalled on a country road, froze to death in a field yesterday at the height of a howling blizzard.

Sheriff Frank Lucas said the victims were Frederick (Donnie) Stumpf, 6, and his sister, Eileen, 10. The father, Fred Stumpf, was taken to a Ritzville hospital in serious condition.

Lucas said Stumpf was in Ritzville yesterday afternoon when schools were closed at noon. He picked up the children but apparently stayed in town for a time before heading home.

He started out about 3 p.m. with the children, the sheriff said. They drove 14 of the 15 miles home when the car stalled on the road in heavy drifts.

Lucas said Stumpf and the children got out and started across the field. The children were unable to make it. Stumpf kept going for help, shouting as he staggered along in the blinding storm.

His wife found him 200 yards from the house and led him inside. They have no telephone and it was hours before they could get word out.

State of Siege Rules Bolivia

La Paz Bolivia, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Bolivian government said today it has imposed a state of siege to guarantee public order in the face of "subversive plotting."

The plotters were not named. Presumably the government was aiming at elements of the national revolutionary movement (MNR), who led a revolt last August which was put down after weeks of civil war.

The MNR would have no place in the proposed broadened cabinet. The decree followed a cabinet meeting last night.

A government communique said the nationalist revolutionary movement (MNR) which has engineered several recent revolts, was trying to create "a situation of unrest" by spreading false reports.

The MNR had falsely reported fights between police and government troops in several cities of Bolivia, the communique added.

The communique said quiet prevailed throughout the country.

Day Wasn't Lucky for State Prison Guard

Roy Basley, who wasn't even driving an automobile, faces a traffic charge in justice court at Oregon City.

This is because Basley is a state prison guard from Salem. He was returning to the penitentiary with a prisoner. The lines were torn down and windows shattered. Gusts exceeded hurricane velocity of 75 miles an hour and reached as high as 90 and 95 miles an hour in places.

Hoskins to Head Friends Service

Philadelphia, Jan. 14 (AP)—The American Friends service committee announced today that Lewis Hoskins, present director of personnel, will succeed Clarence E. Pickett as executive secretary.

Hoskins, who is 33 years old, will take over when the internationally known Pickett's resignation becomes effective April 1. The 65-year-old veteran served as executive secretary of the Quaker welfare organization for 20 years.

He asked to be relieved so a younger man could take his place. The Nobel peace prize went to the committee two years ago.

Hoskins was born at McMinnville, Ore. He received a doctorate degree from the University of Michigan in 1943, and has other degrees from Haverford college and Pacific college. He taught history at Friends university, Wichita, Kas., and was dean of the faculty at Pacific college.

From 1945 through 1948 he worked for the Quaker organization in China, was a teacher and hospital manager. During the last five months of his stay there he was in communist territory, negotiating with the communists about Quaker work in China. He became personnel director in 1949.

Protest Closing Nome Airbase

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—Governor Gruening and Congressional Delegate Bartlett of Alaska said today they would make "a vigorous protest" against the air force closing of the Nome air base.

The air force announced yesterday that it will be closed out by next November, with the process to begin soon.

Gruening and Bartlett said it was "a blow at morale" for the air force to "pull out of the only air base in northwest Alaska."

The base is directly across the Bering sea from Siberia. Bartlett said the protest would be made at once to Defense Secretary Johnson and Air Secretary Symington.

The air force announcement yesterday said the inactivation affects only the Arctic survival school, which will be transferred to Ladd field, and the airways detachment unit, which was reported to include only 12 men for handling air traffic at the base. They are the only units at the base.

Reports from Nome for several weeks had told of local residents' concern over closure of the base, but an air force spokesman in Washington had denied twice that there was any plan to close it.

Bartlett declared that the closing of the base will leave all of the northwest of Alaska, an area larger than New England, without air defense. He said it would bring Alaska's air defense 575 miles inland and strip the nation's Bering sea front line to nothing.

and as she was carried out on a stretcher she cried: "Oh, dear God, don't let me die! Dear God, save me! Don't let me die, dear God!"

The audience was one of the largest to hear the 31-year-old Los Angeles evangelist since he came here about 10 days ago to conduct revival meetings.

Rev. Graham's sermon last night was based on the thesis that "no matter how deep in sin you've gone, there's still somebody who cares."

Earlier, nearly 100 Protestant ministers met to decide whether Rev. Graham's revival should end Monday night with a mammoth rally in Boston Garden.

They decided a day of public prayer would be held Monday to ask God's guidance on whether he should remain.

Meanwhile, Rev. Graham said he had been invited to give the opening prayer at 2 p.m. Monday before a joint session of the Massachusetts legislature.

Prior to that he will lunch with Gov. Paul A. Dever and legislative leaders.
