

Tricky Weather—John J. Unsinn, 24-year-old insurance clerk, can attest to the fact that weather plays tricks on motorists. While driving his new car through a driving rain storm in San Francisco's Golden Gate park, he turned into what looked like a road. The road turned out to be his fly-casting pool. The storm was part of the massive blizzard which buffeted the entire west coast. (Acme Telephoto)

These Things Will Help Get You a Job as Census Taker

By RUTH GMEINER

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—Want to be a census-taker? Sturdy legs, tact and a high school education will help you get a job. Being a democrat won't hurt.

You'll have to go to training school. If you pass a test, you may be one of 140,000 who will start nose-counting in the 1950 census on April 1.

The pay will be as little as 7 cents a person for an interview, but the average will be $8 or $9 a day during the two to six of employment.

If you ever breathe a word confided in interviews — as for instance the answer to that controversial income question — the penalty could be two years in jail and a $2,000 fine.

You may be asked to babysit, or settle family arguments. You're almost sure to be chased by dogs. Doors will be slammed in your face. But you will have to ring the bell again, and explain patiently that the law requires all census questions be answered.

Still want the job? File an application with your district census bureau office. It's not on the application form, but the "right" politics, in this case being a democrat, will be an important qualification.

If the district supervisor thinks you a likely candidate, you will be given an intelligence test, dealing with simple arithmetic problems and map-reading among other things.

If you're selected, you'll be in a classroom by the last week in March. In city areas, the classes will go on four hours a day for four days. In small areas, 24 hours of instruction will be spread over six days. The pay is a flat $16 for the training period.

There'll be lectures and movies on how to dress, how to persuade suspicious house-holders to answer questions, and how to ask a woman's age.

A final test will decide whether you're fit to be an official enumerator for the 17th decennial census.

Kiwanis Club Will Observe Anniversary

The Salem Kiwanis club will observe the 35th anniversary of the founding of Kiwanis International through the medium of a half hour variety show to be aired over radio station KSLM from 8:30 to 9 o'clock Wednesday night.

Russell Pratt, Salem club president, will make the introductions.

The local observance will be a part of the larger one that extends across the country with participation by more than 3000 clubs.

Kiwanis International was established January 21, 1915, and since then has grown to a membership of 200,000 men throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii and the Yukon Territory.

New Courthouse Plans Ready

Members of the Marion county courthouse commission will study a new set of plans for the proposed new courthouse when they meet with Pietro Belluschi, Portland architect, at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the courthouse.

A similar meeting was held two weeks ago. At that time, commission members asked Belluschi to make specific changes in the plans he presented then. Belluschi reports that the modified plans are completed.

Last week the architect sent a copy of his new floor plans to Harlan Judd, commission secretary. The opinion of the floor plans was favorable among county officials.

Wednesday's meeting will be in regard to the building's exterior. Members of the commission are Grant Murphy, Roy Rice, E. L. Rogers, Charles A. Sprague, Karl Steiwer, Ray J. Glatt and Judd.

Directors Named For Fruitgrowers

Woodburn—The annual meeting of the Woodburn Fruit Growers Cooperative association was held Saturday afternoon at the Bungalow theater building on Front street with a good attendance. Harry Wilkins presided.

Directors elected for three year terms were: Oscar Gregerson, re-elected, Howard Rogan and Charles Dean. Holding over are Alfred Aicher, Leonard Larson, John Kinns and Frank P. Adelman. Rogan and Gregerson were elected to represent the association on the Oregon Cane Fruits control board.

Report of Mrs. Jan Mills, secretary-treasurer, on the year's business was read.

A meeting of the directors to organize will be held within the next ten days.

Los Angeles, Jan. 17 (AP)—Mrs. Iona E. Watkins, 53, charged today in a divorce suit that her husband drove her to a railroad crossing, parked on the track, waited until a train came, jumped out and left her.

Vickers Case Up Wednesday

Edison Vickers of Idanha, justice of the peace for Breitenbush district, will appear in Marion county circuit court at 11 a.m. Wednesday to be arraigned on a corrupt practices act charge.

Last October, just prior to an election on the proposed incorporation of the city of Idanha, Vickers allegedly mailed anonymous political literature to Idanha residents, favoring the incorporation measure.

St. Joseph
IS ASPIRIN AT ITS BEST

An Oregon state election law prohibits any person from distributing unsigned election literature.

Vickers was recently arrested on a secret indictment from the grand jury. He bailed out on the charge, and was to have appeared for arraignment Monday. Road conditions between Idanha and Salem prevented him from appearing Monday, so he was cited to appear Wednesday instead.
