

Bridges Perjury Trial Recessed

San Francisco, Jan. 19 (U.P.)—The perjury-conspiracy trial of CIO longshore leader Harry Bridges and two other union officials was recessed until Monday to allow the defense time to organize its case.

Federal Judge George B. Harris granted the recess yesterday on the request of Chief Defense Counsel Vincent Hallinan.

Hallinan admitted that the sudden end of the government's case had caught the defense off balance. He said that unless the delay was granted he would not be able to call his witnesses in orderly fashion.

Hallinan said that the three defendants would all take the stand during the defense's case.

Bridges, Henry Schmidt and J. R. Robertson, all officials of the CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union, are charged with falsely testifying at Bridge's 1945 naturalization hearing that the labor leader had never been a communist.

FFA and 4-H to Compete Again

Future Farmers of America and 4-H club boys and girls from all parts of the west exhibiting at the 1950 Grand National Junior Livestock Exposition in San Francisco April 1-6, will compete—for the third consecutive year—for $8,000 in sweepstakes scholarships posted by Standard Oil Company of California.

The awards were announced by Porter Sesnon, chairman, who said that several more scholarships in varying amounts are to be posted soon by other organizations.

The Junior Grand National will be held at the San Francisco-San Mateo Cow Palace and is expected to attract more than 1,500 FFA and 4-H club members.

The scholarships will be allocated in the same manner as at the 1948 and 1949 exhibitions:

Future Farmers of America—One $2,000 four-year scholarship and two $1,000 scholarships.

4-H Clubs—One $2,000 four-year scholarship and two $1,000 scholarships. At least one of the 4-H awards must go to a girl contestant.

Rules provide that contestants must be either seniors in high school, or not have graduated earlier than 1949. Recipients must enroll at any recognized college or university they may choose for the fall semester of 1950.

Only one application will be accepted from each Future Farmer chapter or 4-H club. FFA applications must be signed by the applicant's high school principal and agricultural instructor; 4-H applications by the principal and county agent or local club leader.

To be fully qualified, an applicant should be in the upper 40 per cent of his entire class—not just in agriculture; should be an individual who would benefit most from advanced schooling; supervised projects and agricultural program should be outstanding. Personality, qualities of leadership and interest as shown by participation in community and club activities also will be considered.

Pan American Offers Holy Year Pilgrimages

A two week Holy Year all expense trip for $582 using both southern and northern gateways to Europe and including stopovers in three countries was announced today by John A. Moller district sales manager of Pan American world airways.

Mr. Moller said that Pan American is the only airline able to offer this low cost tour of Rome, Nice, Paris and London all in the space of 15 days.

Mr. Moller added that the present tours which expire on March 16 have nothing to do with the Pan American agreement with the Felix Roma organization to provide year around low cost Holy Year tours through a charter arrangement. The latter is still awaiting approval of Civil Aeronautics board. Guaranteed hotel reservations are provided throughout the tour which is offered in cooperation with leading travel agencies and is effective until March 16.

Marion, Polk Cherry Growers Will Meet

The Marion-Polk cherry growers meeting will be held Friday, January 27, at 1:30 p.m. in Mayflower hall in Salem, according to N. John Hansen and D. L. Rasmussen, county extension agents in Polk and Marion counties respectively.

The meeting will deal with problems in disease and insect control confronting cherry growers in the two counties.

Scheduled on the program are Adin Steenland, extension plant pathologist and Robert Every, extension entomologist. The professor's viewpoint on disease and insect control will be presented by a representative of the cherry industry, Hansen states.

Recreation Theme for 4-H Leaders Meeting

Recreation leadership and new games are to be the feature of the meeting of Marion county 4-H club Local Leaders' association set for January 21 at the Mayflower hall.

The short business meeting is to convene at 1 p.m. with Miss Theresa Dehler of Mt. Angel presiding. The business session will be followed by talks by C. W. Smith and Miss Jessalene Malinlieu.

Smith, assistant director of extension service, Oregon State college, will talk on the Marion county 4-H program. Miss Malinlieu, extension recreation specialist, in her talk will stress the types of games for small groups and games not requiring a lot of activity.

During the afternoon there will also be a meeting of the Marion county delegates to the Western Oregon 4-H local leaders conference.

Covering Cover Cuties' Cage Crew Is No Work!

By OSCAR FRALEY (United Press Sports Writer) New York, Jan. 19 (U.P.)—

Wotta racket! Fearless Fraley covered the cover girls today, and got paid for it, too!

Ordinarily sports is a market where the movement is on muscles, the bigger the better, with the premium on perspiration. Sound effects are supplied usually in grunts and groans, whether the characters involved are busting a ball or just getting busted.

But not the cover girls, a basketball team which perspires Chanel number five and draws involuntary cheers of "oohs" and "aaahs." These kids cannot only plop the ball through the basket but they look sharp doing it, and it's the skill, not the smiles, which bedazzle the opposition.

There is, for instance, blonde Audrey Erickson, a slick chick who models women's pretties, howls an average of 160, and displays a toothpaste smile and a classy chassis. She bounces around the American girls baseball conference like a hopped-up Ty Cobb, yet was picked by a national magazine as the All-American girl and generally makes the All-American average man feel like a muscle-bound Methuselah.

Siding here on this quintet—where beauty outweighs the beast but science is as necessary as pigs in a sausage factory—are four armfuls of pulchritude who can pitch as well as they can pose.

You have to get better than B plus in the beauty department to even get a tryout with this club. Dot Whalen, a brunette honey who hails from Springfield, Ill., and now lives in Chicago, qualified easily in the classical section but she also ranks as one of the world's greatest women cage performers.

"Teeny" Petras is another of the classic converts who in the good old summertime slide around the girls' baseball diamonds of the midwest. "Teeny" is modestly advertised as the "world's greatest defensive infielder." That may be a slightly exaggerated statement. But old Fearless will say one thing for the little one. She's a lot prettier than Slat's Marion, Pee-Wee Reese or Phil Rizzuto—and their batting averages aren't so hot either.

The center of this curvaceous crew is Ellie Mullen, a six foot school teacher from New York.

Basketball aside, with something like this teaching the readin', writin' and arithmetic, the old little red school house might have turned out something besides wacky sportswriters.

In between the halves of their some 40 odd games the cover girls put on a show that has Minsky's and Larry MacPhail's pregame model shows backed right off the boards.

Take Miss Erickson, a past-time which, I assure you, comes under the distinct heading of pleasure. She twirls the baton, tap dances while skipping rope, pitches baseballs and puts and dropkicks a football over the backboard—with or without shoes.

Can they play basketball? Last year they beat the Georgia Tech football team by three points. Just in case anybody cares!

Funds Requested for Access Road Work

President Truman has requested congress to provide funds for a substantial access road construction program, for reforestation and stand improvement and for an expanded forest management program on the O & C lands in western Oregon administered by the Bureau of Land Management, it was announced this week by Daniel L. Goldy, regional administrator.

Goldy stated that the President's budget calls for an appropriation of a million dollars for new road construction in the fiscal year 1951. He stated

Safety Group Meets Jan. 20

Initial meeting of the governor's industrial safety advisory committee will be held on January 20, starting at 9:30 a.m. in the Gold room of the Hotel Portland, Portland.

Purpose of the meeting is to acquaint the members with the nature and extent of their new field and to perfect an organization to spearhead a campaign to eliminate accidents in industry.

All members of the committee are expected to attend. They are: Prof. William Engesser, Corvallis; Elmer McClure, Milwaukie; Mrs. R. H. Walter, Gust Anderson, Ray Carr, E. H. Crosby, Manley Wilson and Otto R. Hartwig, all of Portland; W. E. Kimsey, commissioner of labor, and R. M. Evenden, director, accident prevention division, both of Salem.

Paul E. Gurskie, chairman of the state industrial accident commission and ex-officio chairman of the committee, will preside. T. Morris Dunne, chairman, state unemployment compensation commission, and L. O. Arens, commissioner of the employment and industrial accident commissions, will participate.

JELLY JUDGES SAY...

... no difference between beet and cane sugar

Let's face it. Many years ago there was a difference between beet sugar and cane sugar. But that was over a generation ago. Today's beet sugar can't be surpassed by any other sugar—in purity, sweetness, whiteness or fineness. Here's what one jelly judging expert says: "I've been judging prize winning jellies for 25 years at state and county fairs. Beet and cane sugar give exactly the same results in jelly making. I've found some of the nicest jellies I've tasted have been made with beet sugar."
