

MacArthur Is 70 Today; Warns of World War III

(Editor's Note: Some of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's beliefs on the atom bomb, communism, and the results of any third world war are set forth in the following dispatch by a United Press correspondent who has covered his headquarters ever since the occupation of Japan began. The general is 70 on Thursday.)

By EARNEST HOBERECHT

Tokyo, Jan. 26 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur is convinced that a third world war would destroy civilization as we know it. That conviction and some others held by the Supreme Commander can be set forth with assurance on his 70th birthday anniversary by this correspondent who has been around his headquarters for four and a half years.

Among these convictions are the following:

1. Modern war is so destructive that it must be outlawed completely.
2. A ban on individual weapons such as the atomic bomb and other more fearful forces is not the answer.
3. The answer lies in liberty, Christianity, democracy.
4. Communism is the biggest threat in the world today, and there is no mission more important than meeting this challenge.
5. Civilization as we know it will be destroyed if world leaders fail in their responsibility to find a solution to the problems and permit a third world war.

In contrast with the very definite ideas he holds on a number of important subjects not concerned with his private life, MacArthur came up to his birthday Thursday disinclined to be specific about any plans he might have for the long-range future.

He plans to keep right on at his present job until it is finished. After that? Rumors are heard that he might take a job in private industry, or that he might retire completely.

Asked about it, he replied good-naturally: "I am no prophet to foretell the future."

The birthday celebration will not be elaborate. Aside from his work, he will spend his birthday with his wife and their 12-year-old son, Arthur.

The general will go to his office as usual. The only break in his seven-day-a-week routine were expected visits by a few top members of his staff and a handful of diplomats and others calling to extend greetings.

It is his conviction that he has done pretty well here, and that there is hope for Japan's returning to the world family of nations as a remade country following the pattern accepted by the democratic nations. Regardless of how history measures him, the general feels that he first is an American and second a soldier. He will be pleased if he is remembered as a good American and a good soldier.

On the Job in Tokyo—MacArthur personifies authority.

A MEALTIME TREAT—MISSION NOODLES with CUBE STEAKS!

And here's CHEF MERLINO'S OWN RECIPE FOR NOODLES 'N CUBE STEAK

- 4 individual cube steaks (1/4-lb. each)
- 4 tbsp. any spreading sharp cheese
- 1 to 2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 8-oz. pkg. Mission Egg Noodles

Cook noodles in boiling salted water till tender yet chewy. Drain well, place in pan beneath broiling rack. Blend cheese with Worcestershire sauce as desired. Broil steaks allowing steak juices to drip on noodles. When steaks have been turned and are nearly finished, spread cheese on them. Return to broiler until cheese is melted and drips freely on noodles below meat. Serve at once, each steak on a bed of noodles. Serves 4.
