Dr. Jenz Talks Sex Perversion

In a frank and matter of fact manner, Dr. Ruth Jenz, member of the medical staff of the Oregon State hospital spoke concerning the problems of hypersexualism before members of the Salem Kiwanis club Tuesday noon.

Dr. Jenz spoke of her experiences with five cases which came to her attention at the hospital, most of whom were self-committed because they realized their predicaments. The benefits to be derived through medication are already well known said Dr. Jenz and there is great hope for over-sexed men in this connection she stated. The remedy is given in huge volume over a period of three days, with a tapering off in dosage thereafter.

In many instances men involved have glandular disturbances that throws them out of physical balance. Re-education along sex lines should be carried on extensively advised Dr. Jenz, who added that the mere killing of the so-called pervert does not solve the problem.

Branigan Home Storm Damaged Extent of $2000

Woodburn, Jan. 31—After spending two weeks at the beach, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Branigan returned to Woodburn to find their home here water soaked from top to bottom by broken water pipes, which had frozen. Damage to the walls, floors and furniture is estimated at around $2000. The Branigans were working on a summer home at the beach.

McClure Talks On Traffic Plans

The two long range planning commission proposals for solving the east-west flow of auto traffic in Salem and the 12th street railroad problem were presented Tuesday to the Salem Junior Chamber of Commerce by G. A. McClure, engineer for the commission.

The engineer first explained the most favorable solution would be a tunnel for the main line of the Southern Pacific railroad under 13th street, but the cost of that project has been estimated at six and a half million dollars.

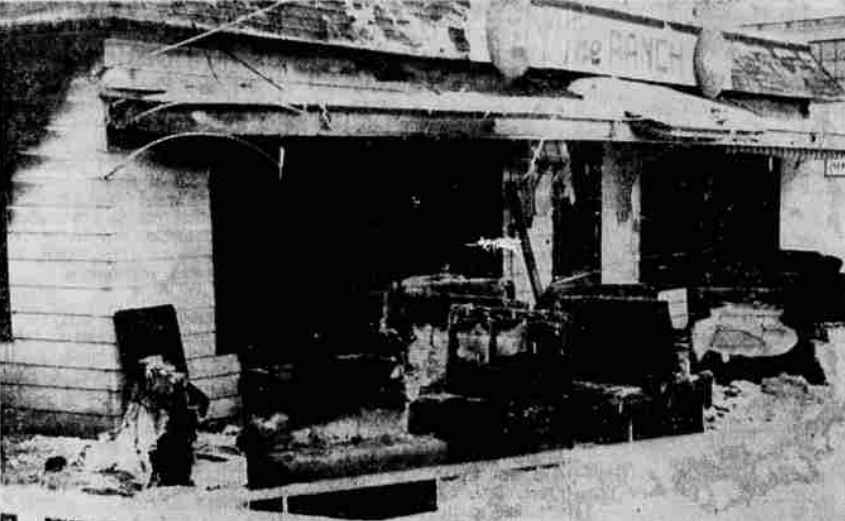

The second proposal dealt with a plan to raise the railroad and tunnel for several intersections. The cost of that approach to the problem was about one quarter of the estimated cost of the tunnel.

Prior to his talk, the Jaycees heard reports relative to the Harlem Globetrotter basketball game Monday night at Willamette gym which had been sponsored by the Junior Chamber. The game was arranged by a committee headed by Gordon Keith.

Mrs. Simmons, Woodburn, Dies

Woodburn, Ore., Jan. 31—Mrs. Annetta Simmons, 82, resident of Woodburn for 45 years and of Oregon 70 years, died at the hospital Monday following a short illness. Her husband, Willard D. Simmons, died in 1941.

Mrs. Simmons was active in women's affairs for many years and served on the board of directors for the library. She was a past president of chapter J, PEO sisterhood, member of Evergreen chapter, OES, the WCTU and the Methodist church.

Fire Destroys Ranch Resort

Fire that reached several thousand dollars in damage practically destroyed the interior of The Ranch, dining resort at 3260 Portland road, early Tuesday morning. It was operated by Dave Byerley and Del Williams.

The fire department was called at 3:10 a.m. Firemen believed the blaze was caused by an overheated oil stove that recently showed some defect. No one was in the building when the fire started.

Most serious damage was to the front part of the building and the attic, but there was serious smoke and heat damage in the kitchen. Booths and their furniture were ruined.

Firemen reported that the fire was difficult to fight because of intense heat from the blaze and outside the building firemen had to handle hose in below-zero temperature.

Another fire occurred Tuesday forenoon at the Truman Cummings Machine shop at 598 South 18th street, but with damage probably under $1000.

The Cummings fire was caused by thawing out water pipes in the bath room with an electric heater. Some stock was destroyed and walls and ceiling charred.

Several chimney fires were reported during the day.

Cancer-Patient's Metal Jawbone

Philadelphia, Jan. 31 (AP)—Surgeons at a Philadelphia hospital disclosed today that a cancer victim has been given a metal jawbone as a substitute for diseased bone.

"Unless something unusual happens," the surgeon said, "the patient stands an excellent chance of suffering no recurrence of the disease."

The operation, described as one of the most complex of its kind ever undertaken, was performed at the American Oncologic hospital more than a year ago. Until now, however, the surgeons have not disclosed it in detail.

Surgeons and patient alike declined use of their names. After the three-hour operation the patient's head was set into a cast to prevent movement.

All surgery was performed inside the mouth. No scars are apparent, doctors said. Risk of infection was reduced by use of new antibiotics such as penicillin and streptomycin.

Insane Hospital Escapee Captured in California

Marion Watson, who escaped from the criminally insane ward at Oregon state hospital here December 2, was captured by sheriff's officers at Stockton, Calif., Monday night, Oregon state police were advised.

There was a possibility that Watson might be left in California as a mental charge of that state, under an unwritten agreement among the states of Oregon, Washington and California according to Dr. C. E. Bates, superintendent of the Oregon hospital.

The agreement is that a mental charge less than two years out of any one of the three states shall be considered a resident of that state. Watson was only five months out of California when first committed to the Oregon hospital.

However, District Attorney E. O. Stadler said he would attempt to extradite Watson on the automobile theft charge that has been lodged against him.

Watson, who engineered the four-man break here in which two attendants were knocked out in the bath room with an electric heater. Some stock was destroyed and walls and ceiling charred.

Several chimney fires were reported during the day.

How Capital Treats Bunche

New York, Jan. 31 (AP)—Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, United Nations official and an American negro, tells in a magazine article how racial discrimination in Washington, D. C., hits him.

"If I visit Washington today," he writes in the American Magazine, "I can't buy a meal, order a drink, see a movie, or, with very few exceptions, rent a hotel room, except in the negro section of town."

Bunche, after completing his work as U.N. mediator in Palestine, rejected an offer of a post as U.S. assistant secretary of state last year. He is director of the United Nations trusteeship department.

In his magazine article Bunche said the American Negroes have made gains, but still are at a heavy economic disadvantage in job opportunities and standard of living.

Supreme Court Orders New Trial

The state supreme court today ordered the Multnomah county circuit court to hear a $3,150 damage suit which resulted from a collision of a car and a train.

Circuit Judge James R. Bain, Portland, had thrown the case out of court. The high court, in a 4 to 2 decision by Justice Harry H. Belt, ordered that the case be heard.

Allan T. Finn and the Employers Mutual Liability Insurance company of Wisconsin sued the Spokane, Portland and Seattle railway for $3,150.

On Jan. 17, 1947, Finn's automobile struck a freight train at Northwest Vaughn and 22nd avenue in Portland. Finn, who was injured, claimed that weather conditions made it impossible to see the train, which was on a rarely-used spur track.

Finn claimed the railroad was negligent because it didn't have a flagman for the train, which was stopped on the crossing.

The high court also reversed Circuit Judge Frank C. Howell of Multnomah county in a condemnation suit by the state highway commission.

To obtain right of way for the new Columbia River highway west of Troutdale, the highway commission offered $3,000 for land owned by Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Cerruti and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Fisher.

The offer was refused, the commission going to court. Judge Howell's court offered $4,000, so the commission appealed.

Today's decision, by Chief Justice Hall S. Lusk, orders a new trial in the case.

70-Day Truce

"In making this proposal, I do not wish to interfere with any bargaining conferences that may assist in the settlement of this dispute. I would appreciate your informing me by 12 noon Saturday, February 4, 1950, if the normal production of coal will be resumed on Monday, February 6, 1950, without reference to this proposal.

"If production will be so resumed this proposal may be disregarded.

"If you can not inform me that normal production will be resumed on Monday without reference to this proposal, I would then want your reply to this proposal by 5 p.m. Saturday, February 4, and I urge your acceptance in the national interest."

The telegram was sent to Lewis, and to George H. Love, operators' spokesman for the national bituminous wage conference, Pittsburgh Consolidation Co.; Harry M. Moses, president of the H. C. Frick Coal Co.; and Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers association.

Mr. Truman told them that the coal dispute visits "severe hardship upon the miners and their families and severe economic loss upon those who have invested in bituminous coal mines." He said continuous production of an adequate soft coal supply is essential to the nation's economic stability, progress and security.

Still, that much of a boost would have tremendous effects. The bombs which destroyed two to four square miles of Hiroshima and Nagasaki also killed more than 100,000 persons and injured about that many more.

Salem Schools Again Reopened

Salem's public schools reopened Tuesday following closure the previous day although in some instances attendance was considerably below normal.

Pupils at Liberty were sent home when it was found impossible to operate the heating plant. A succession of blown fuses in the power line leading to the heating plant caused the failure.

Temporary power failures at Swegle and Auburn resulted in closure of those schools. The power company remedied the situation during the forenoon but by that time temperatures had gone so low that it was felt pupils and teachers could not operate to advantage.

All Salem district buses made their routes Tuesday morning after being given an additional supply of anti-freeze. In two or three instances radiators froze up after the machines had started.

The Keizer school sent the youngsters home when it was found some of the rooms could not be brought up to a reasonable temperature. The administration hopes to operate Wednesday if higher temperatures prevail.

Jones Wins

Agreed to a year ago, the Co-op about to pay Jones $30,000 as payment for his services in supervising the 1942 harvest, and also as a medium of rent adjustment for 1946-48 the years during which Jones charged $100 rent.

The Japanese claimed that the $30,000 should have been paid to them instead of to Jones. They accused Jones of assuming control of the situation without proper authority to do so.

The Japs got a surprise in court Tuesday. Not only did Judge Kimmell award his decision to Jones, but he also decided that the Japanese had been paid $17,574.18 more than they were entitled to. This amount is one-half of the total bonuses paid to the workers in 1942.

There will apparently be no attempt to recover the $17,574.18 from the Japanese. Bruce Spaulding appeared as attorney for Jones, while Kaneko was counseled by three Portland attorneys, one of them Japanese.

10 Below Zero

Pop-eyed Salem folk could hardly believe what they saw as they read their thermometers Tuesday morning.

"After all, the weather man should remember this is the Willamette valley. We just don't have weather like this," was the general wail.

The Arctic Air began to be bitter about mid-afternoon Monday. The day's maximum was reached at 2:30 p.m., 23 degrees, and from then on the mercury kept right on with its downward march.

Forest Grove apparently was the coldest spot in western Oregon this morning, press dispatches reporting a minimum of -18 degrees there!

Portland listed 2 below—but the weather bureau will not recognize the Portland and Seattle readings as records since the weather stations used to be in downtown areas and now are at the airports and minimums run lower in the downtown regions.

Military Men and Veterans

Wednesday, February 1

Headquarters and Headquarters company, 318th replacement depot, army reserves, at army reserve garrison here.

Simplified Form Used
Thirteenth Naval District Headquarters this week announced that a simplified procedure for extending enlistments of members of the inactive Naval Reserve whose enlistments expire during the next 15 months has now been adopted.

Under the procedure reservists sign only one form agreeing to extend enlistment for four years. This eliminates the current recruitment procedure of filing discharge and reenlistment papers, physical examination, execution of a new oath, and new office records.

The single forms will be mailed to volunteer reservists by navy district commandants about three months prior to the expiration of their enlistments. Members of organized reserve units will be given the extension forms by their unit commanders.

The privilege of reenlisting, however will be extended to any qualified reservist who prefers to reenlist rather than extend his current enlistment period.

Another directive provides for training duty with pay and allowances for volunteer reservists under certain specific conditions. The principal condition is that attendance at scheduled drills for the volunteers not fall below 75 per cent.

At the same time that he announced the directives Hill also stated that the volunteer Seabee unit here is initiating a series of meetings at which Seabee reserve officers seminar courses will be held and that meetings will be held every Friday evening at 8 p.m. at the Naval and Marine Corps Reserve training center.

Reservists will receive point credits for their attendance at these meetings with the points counting toward the needed each year for eventual retirement pay.

A. L. Bell With Yeater Store

Manager of the new sewing machine clinic at the Yeater Appliance company is A. L. Bell.

The clinic is designed to help Salem women with their sewing problems through courses in art needle work and in use of new developments in sewing machines.

The courses in art needlework are by Shirley Kau, nationally known sewing artist, and the home tailoring courses by Harriet Gaskins, noted sewing educator. Also, the courses include pointers for repairing and renovating services.

Mr. Bell, formerly with Ralph Johnson Appliance company, has resided in Salem for 12 years and is an air force veteran of World War II. He and Mrs. Bell and their three children reside at 3825 Monroe street.

70-Day Truce

Chief government prosecutor F. Joseph Donohue asked Kenny with whom he had discussed the honesty and integrity of Bridges. Kenny said "with various groups."

"Name them," said the prosecutor.

"Well, with Justice Rutledge of the United States supreme court," Kenny answered.

"Now dead," Donohue added. Kenny said "yes."

Donohue wanted to know "Did you sponsor a dinner of the American Youth for Democracy, which was the successor to the Young Communist league, in 1945?"

"Yes, I remember that dinner," Kenny testified. "I went with Gen. Evans Carlson of the U. S. marine corps."

"Now dead," Donohue snapped.

"Yes," said Kenny, "and with Frank Sinatra, now alive."

Donohue inquired if it had been correctly reported that Kenny had been acting with counsel in defense of William Schneiderman, California communist party secretary, in 1939.

"Yes," said Kenny, "that counsel was Wendell Willkie."

Atomic Board

Still, that much of a boost would have tremendous effects. The bombs which destroyed two to four square miles of Hiroshima and Nagasaki also killed more than 100,000 persons and injured about that many more.

Those bombs were officially described as comparable in blast power to more than 20,000 tons of TNT. Since they were dropped in 1945, the uranium-plutonium bombs have been stepped up in power six to 10 times.

Double their power and you would have a weapon equivalent to 120,000 to 200,000 tons of TNT.

If the hydrogen bomb turns out to be many times more potent than "ordinary" atomic bombs, it may turn out to be the "absolute" weapon military men have talked about but hardly expected to see.

Freeze Causes

The same is said to be true of cane berry bushes, although continuation of sub-zero weather in the valley, would result in heavy damage to both fruit and berry trees and bushes.

Riches also reported that the protracted cold spell, preceding the sub-zero weather, had kept many fruit trees dormant.
