

Lebanon Methodist Church Now Observing Centennial

Lebanon, Feb. 2—Opening event of Lebanon Methodist's centennial year was an all-church family dinner Wednesday in the supper room of the church. Costumes of a century ago were worn by many attending the affair.

The Methodist organization of Lebanon is 100 years old in 1950, according to research begun by Rev. Thomas Yarnes, pastor here in 1920, and continued by Rev. Henry Atkinson. Their records place the beginning at 1849 or 1850 when John McKinney of Brownsville held the first services in a log cabin near the present location of the Lebanon high school.

"Father" Wilbur, early Methodist circuit rider, organized the congregation in 1850. For several years the church was linked with Brownsville and served by pastors from that center. From 1857 to the present, records of the Oregon conference give a complete list of the ministers.

The church has occupied three buildings, the log cabin first, for a short time only, after which it was merged with the Santiam Academy and used both for school and church purposes. A church was built in 1887 and served until 1910 when the present massive stone structure was erected.

Leader — Dr. Heinrich Leuchtgens (above), an aged banker who was leader of the German Right party, is one of the leaders of the new German Reich party that has been formed in western Germany by the merger of two right-wing groups. The new party appeals frankly to nationalists and militarists. It flaunts the black, white and red flag of the Kaiser's Reich and favors the song, "Deutschland Uber Alles" which German soldiers sang in two world wars. (AP Wire-photo)

February is the first month in a year of centennial celebrating. Next event is scheduled for February 10 when former pastors and members will return. That week-end is highlighted by the 11 o'clock service on February 12, when Bishop Gerald Kennedy of Portland is to speak, his topic being "A Man Named Wesley."

The centennial book of the church is to be available on June 1. Publications editor is Oliver Larson, assisted by Anna D. S. Pratt, editor of history. Documents and pictures for the book are now being collected by the present pastor, Rev. Carl Mason.

Hereford Breeders Will Hear McKenzie

Oregon Polled Hereford breeders will hear Dr. Fred McKenzie of Oregon State college when they meet in the Senator hotel in Salem at 7 p.m. Monday, February 6.

R. B. Sears, Salem, president of the breeders, has arranged for a banquet and program that will be of interest to all beef producers, whether Hereford or other breeds.

A new moving picture on hoof and mouth disease will be shown by Ben A. Newell, Salem, secretary of the association.

Westlands Grandparents
Woodburn — Mr. and Mrs. Dave Westland have received word of the birth of a grandchild, Milo Andrew Trussel, to their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Trussel of Chicago, January 25. This is the first grandson of the Westlands and the first child born to Mr. and Mrs. Trussel.
