Flax Co-op Warned Against Wrecking Valuable Industry

Jefferson, Feb. 9.—Lack of cooperation between members and of uniformity of the product could wreck an industry that brings millions of dollars into the state, speakers at the seventh annual meeting of the Santiam Flax Growers' Cooperative, told the membership here.

Support of the state flax industry as long as members cooperate with each other was pledged by Harry Dorman, state budget director, but he warned that the state will go its own way if this is lacking. Dorman spoke at the luncheon meeting. "Flax processors are unable to make good products out of poor quality flax," he warned. "When the state flax board lays down its grades and when these have been accepted and honestly administered, the Oregon flax industry faces a great future."

He also expressed the hope that the services of Alfred Lentschner, manager of the cooperative plant at Jefferson for 12 years, would be retained. Lentschner recently announced that he was leaving for France in a few weeks. C. E. Brown, Leebanon, plant fieldman will take over the management for the present.

217 Acres Signed
Lentschner reported that the entire product last year had been sold with the final shipments of tow made to Mexico this month. He said that though 400 acres had been contracted last year, about 350 acres had been planted but not all harvested. The crop was turned over to the state because of its small size and one-third of this was rejected as too poor quality to process and was returned to the plant.

Brown told the group that 217 acres representing 18 growers had been signed for 1950 but more were expected. J. E. Hammond, senior agricultural engineer, USDA, Corvallis, described new processing and pulling machines developed by his department, several of which are now in operation. Charles Stark, Pacific Supply Cooperative, spoke on fertilization and weed control and Harley Libbey, association secretary, made his official report.

New Men on Board
Elbert Chambers and Carl Harnish, both of Albany, were named to the board of directors to succeed Harry Asbahr, Corvallis and Paul Drushell, Scio. Other members are Walter Shelby, Albany, president of the association; Harley Libby, Jefferson and James Trolling, Scio. Approximately 75 growers of the district attended the meeting.

Scout Wins Medal—Governor Douglas McKay will be in Springfield Thursday night to present a gold life saving medal to Life Scout Leroy D. Mann, 14, of Sultan, Wash., a former member of Springfield troop No. 37. Last June the boy rescued Gerald LaPlant, 15, from drowning in a slough. Prior to the ceremony Governor McKay will be guest at a dinner at the school.

Women Will Appear—Women of the Brush College community will present the Friday night program of the Brush College Community club. The program will be held at the school house and starts at 8 o'clock.

Lions Plan Trip—A delegation of Salem Lions club members will visit Medford this week to inspect arrangements for the state convention to be held in that city in June. Making the trip will be Merrill Ohling, Harry Scott, Robert M. Fischer, Jr., R. W. Land, all of Salem and Hollis Smith, of the Dallas club.

Hopmen

Dean William A. Schoenfeld of the school of agriculture, Oregon State college, was the principal luncheon speaker, reviewing the present foreign trade situation which he held was none too favorable due to the confused conditions existing in many parts of the world.

During Thursday afternoon session the several hundred delegates heard talks by E. L. Peterson, director, Oregon State Department of Agriculture; S. R. Smith, director of the fruit and vegetable branch, production and marketing administration, U. S. department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., Lowell Steen, president of the Oregon Farm Bureau and Steve Tabachi, brewmaster of Sick's Brewery in Salem.

Acting executive in the office will be Mrs. Milton Hartwell, who is a field director now, and Mrs. John Syme is the other field director, living in Corvallis. There are about 2000 girls enrolled in the Camp Fire program for this area.

Thursday evening the hopmen and their wives will be entertained with a twilight garden party at the Crystal Gardens where the convention sessions are being held. The entertainment committee, headed by Romeo W. Gouley, have arranged for Dutch lunch to be followed by music and dancing.

Youths Arrested on $15 Larceny Charge

Two youths one a juvenile, who had been sought by Salem police for several weeks on charges of larceny were taken before district court Thursday.

A preliminary hearing was set for Saturday for Gerald Bowen, 18, of 1160 Chemeketa street. The 17-year-old juvenile arrested by police was ordered sent to juvenile court.

The two, along with a third youth who had been apprehended earlier in the case were accused of stealing $15. The complaint was signed by Mrs. Lena Halbeisen, 298 North 23rd street.

Fact-Finders

Cole said the board, which sat in on negotiations, learned "many interesting and cogent facts" about the dispute.

But, Cole added: "They will have to make an agreement and they will have to make an agreement through their own devices."

Cole said little about the negotiations except that the "posture" of the parties as of last night "was not too unfavorable."
