Mrs. Swift, Mrs. Paulson Are Honored

A large group called during the tea given jointly Thursday afternoon by the Oregon State College and University of Oregon Mothers clubs to honor the two state presidents who live in Salem—Mrs. Oscar I. Paulson, head of the state OSC mothers, and Mrs. George H. Swift, state president of the UO mothers. The tea was at the home of Mrs. Glenn S. Paxson.

Receiving with the two honorees were the two local club presidents, Mrs. Austin H. Willson, Sr., of the OSC mothers unit here, and Mrs. Grant B. Falin, president of the Salem UO mothers group.

Five women from Corvallis were among the callers—including Mrs. T. J. Starker, state recording secretary of the OSC mothers; Mrs. John Kierzak, Mrs. Sanford McHugh, Mrs. John Gorman, Mrs. H. A. Schoth.

Violet colors and suggestions of Valentine time featured the spring-like tea table decorations, arranged by Mrs. Merrill D. Ohling, assisted by Mrs. Wallace Bonesteel. Violets and small red rosebuds with trailing smilax were arranged in the two silver candelabums holding violet and deep lavender tapers. At the base of one of the candelabums was a heart-shaped pin cushion that had belonged to Mrs. Ohling's grandmother.

It was of white linen embroidered with violets, and had a satin and net frill interlaced with violet satin ribbon. On the other side of the candelabums was an amethyst hen of early American glassware, belonging to Mrs. Bonesteel. The table was covered with a cut work cloth.

Pouring were Mrs. Douglas McKay, wife of Oregon's governor, and Mrs. G. Frederick Chambers, whose husband is a member of the state board of higher education, for the first hour; Mrs. Walter L. Spaulding and Mrs. John H. Carkin, both past presidents of the local clubs, during the second hour.

ABOUT 35 attended the meeting of Pi Beta Phi alumnae last evening at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Sprague. The group discussed plans for a rummage sale in March.

Mrs. Merrill D. Ohling was chairman for the committee, assisted by Mrs. Vern W. Miller, Miss Lelia Johnson, Mrs. Lawrence Feldschau, Mrs. Paul Morse, Mrs. Berkeley DuVall, Mrs. Carlton J. McLeod, Mrs. Sprague, Mrs. Peter Gunnar and Mrs. Dona Woodfield.

Campus Clippings

By MARILYN HILL

The shocking realization of the shortness of winter term came into full view this week as mid-term examinations came to a close. Dads left the campus a slight bit wearier than when they came with the host of activities they found waiting for them.

Wednesday night Gill Coliseum was again crowded. This time to hear the singing of contralto Marion Anderson. Her presentation of classic compositions, opera arias, and simple spirituals proved her talents to the audience and earned the admiration of all gathered there.

A large pink octopus clinging to the hull of a ship and shell-shaped dance programs will help carry one the theme "Undercurrent" for the freshman class dance Friday night. The Memorial Union ballroom will be turned into a fantastic underwater scene with sea horses, deep-sea fish, and all types of aquatic monsters in metallic copper, silver and turquoise paper completing the decorations for the pillars, walls, and ceiling.

Oregon State received its much-sought undergraduate major in physical education last week. Even though the plea for a graduate major in physical education was turned down, this first step is a good start. Previously students interested in physical education were required to major in human biology.

The big question put before Staters now is over the controversial tradition of non-fussing at the college athletic functions. Students from the pro-fussing side urge students to follow the removal of "race segregation and religious segregation with the ending of sex segregation." On the other side of the fence non-fussers say that dating at games will dampen the spirit and cause a drop in attendance. With a senatorial election coming up next week and the big student body elections right around the corner, this question will be more than well debated.

More than 300 students and faculty members left the Red Cross mobile unit less one pint of blood each, Tuesday as "donor day," the climax to the campus blood drive, came and left. Mixed emotions of anxiety, wonder, and pride came over the faces as the donors entered the unit.

One hundred and forty miles away from the book-burdened campus of OSC will be the Alpha Tau Omegas and their dates on a week-end holiday to Timberline lodge, February 18 and 19. The two-day trip to the mountains is to be organized as a regular scheduled house function, complete with closing hours and chaperones, but minus the decorations which for this dance will be the genuine atmosphere.

In the recent initiation of Pi Beta Phi sorority Suzanne Barnes, Shirlee Newbery, Lorraine Welling, and Barbara Zumelewalt became new members. Election time is here for the sororities and fraternities. Kappa Sigma fraternity choose Frank Deckebach as president, replacing Jack Slater; and Bob Macy will hold the job of vice president.

The speech department has two plays on schedule this term with the production of "The Bat" coming up February 16, 17, and 18. George Bernard Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion" with Mary Jo Ogle and Bill Rock in the cast will be given March 2, 3, and 4.

With a vicious circle! With finals now just a gorgotten memory, except for the semester grades soon to be released, this week brought registration and the resumption of classes, and a deluge of assignments, as evidenced by the crowded library.

But it also brought the beginning events of a packed spring social calendar, and all the fun that goes with it. Of course, glee has already been heralded even though it is over a month away. During Tuesday chapel, the freshman class challenged the upperclassmen to competition in the annual songfest, and plans for the big affair are already underway.

What a vicious circle! With finals now just a gorgotten memory, except for the semester grades soon to be released, this week brought registration and the resumption of classes, and a deluge of assignments, as evidenced by the crowded library.

But it also brought the beginning events of a packed spring social calendar, and all the fun that goes with it. Of course, glee has already been heralded even though it is over a month away. During Tuesday chapel, the freshman class challenged the upperclassmen to competition in the annual songfest, and plans for the big affair are already underway.

The Willamette varsity basketball squad continued its winning path this week by downing the Oregon College of Education in a well-attended game. Prospects for another win over Linfield College tonight at McMinnville are anything but gloomy.

A good way to put finals completely out of the mind has been suggested by Ralph Bolliger, chairman of the campus YMCA book drive. The organization is sponsoring a book collection until February 10 in order to obtain books to be sent overseas to add to libraries in several of the European countries—a fine means of spreading democracy and checking the spread of communism.

A new tradition was instigated Thursday morning with the first observance of the annual founders' and benefactors' day chapels at the First Methodist church. Jason Lee, a distant descendant of Willamette's pioneer founder, spoke on the founders of the university, and Jack Gunn of Monmouth, recipient of a Collins scholarship, talked on Everett Stanton Collins, a noted benefactor of the school whose name was given to the science building on the campus. This convocation was highlighted by a processional and recessional of the faculty in academic costume.

With Cupid's Day just around the corner, several parties have been scheduled for the weekend. The Pi Beta Phis have planned their annual Valentine formal for Saturday evening. The decorations will center around a "Hearts in Wine and Blue" theme, with wine hearts bearing the couples' names in silver suspended from a ceiling woven of silver blue and white. Wine punch with Valentine cookies and candy will carry out the theme, and all alumnae have been invited to attend.

The women of Mu Phi Epsilon, womens' national music honoraria, have asked all music students to their "Valentine Villa" party in the recital room of the music hall tonight. The affair will be stag or date, and students will spend the evening playing cards, games, or just dancing.

Bishop hall will offer a "Night of Knights" at "Ye Ole Bishop Castle," with decorations carrying the medieval theme throughout.

After a "dead" month, stripped of social functions, the student body obviously is making up for it, if the agenda for the remaining part of the month is any example.

Salem Man Wed At Clatsop Plains

Miss Helen Jandrall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jandrall of Seaside, was wed to Wilford G. Beard, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Beard of Salem, Saturday evening, February 4, at the historical Gray Memorial chapel, Clatsop Plains, Ore. Rev. H. T. Mitchelmore officiated at the 8 o'clock service.

Tall baskets of white carnations, stalk and snapdragons and white tapers tied with white satin streamers decorated the altar for the ceremony.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. William McCammon of Salem sang, accompanied by Miss Marjorie Logan of Seaside. Miss Logan also played the wedding marches.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a brown wool suit and matching accessories. Her corsage was of large white orchids.

Miss Geraldine Jandrall, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a green suit with beige accessories, and a corsage of pink roses.

Monty ontgomery of Corvallis was best man. Harry Hendrick of Salem and Keith Jandrall of Portland, brother of the bride, were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Jandrall wore a gray crepe dress and hat. The bridegroom's mother wore a black wool suit and hat. Both mothers wore corsages of pink rosebuds and bouvardia.

The reception was held in the church parlors. Mrs. M. T. Montgomery of Corvallis poured, and Mrs. Fred Walsh of Gearhart cut the cake.

After a wedding trip in Canada, the couple will live in Salem, where Mr. Beard is a draftsman in the state traffic department.

Birthday Party

Judy Ohmart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ohmart, will observe her ninth birthday anniversary, Saturday. Birthday refreshments will be served at the home, the group later to form a line party for a show. Mrs. A. Roethlin, grandmother of the honoree, will be assisting at the party.

TO HAVE AND TO HOLD
To have plenty of drawer space to hold your precious heirloomed linens, and all your other living, and personal accessories, is one of the major problems of the small home or apartment. The simplest way to relieve this problem is to select as many pieces of furniture with drawer space as your room will stand. Living room chests... lovely and pieces in both Contemporary and Period designs... have great appeal for the efficient home planner. They can be made a complement to almost any decorative treatment. Later on they can be used in other rooms as your home grows. In the room sketched above, low living room chests, each with three deep, roomy drawers... assume importance when used as lamp tables at each end of the day-report. The Bachelor's Chest in the corner furnishes added storage space (four drawers) and opens into a writing desk. The shelf in the generous-sized hospitality table takes care of overflow of books. The chairside table, though small, offers space in its single drawer for sewing needs. Good chests are treasures today... heirlooms for your grandchildren. Comfort, Beauty, Utility. These have been our watchwords when making our furniture selections. Come in and look them over. We're confident you'll agree.
