The 73-year-old woman underwent surgery Monday morning at Salem Memorial hospital. She was listed as still suffering from shock. She sustained a broken pelvis, leg and ribs.

Washburn, listed as 71, sustained two broken legs and a possible fracture of the pelvis. His condition was fair, but slightly improved, according to Salem General hospital.

A car driven by Emery E. Hendrickson, 140 Mabel avenue, was listed by police as the vehicle which struck Washburn in the 600 block on Center street. Ethel A. Ready to Talk With Russia

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—Assistant Secretary of State John D. Hickerson said today the United States is ready "at any time to sit down and talk" with Russia on the control of atomic energy.

Hickerson made this response to a charge by Russia's Jacob A. Malik that the United States and other western powers are responsible for the Soviet walkout from the United Nations atomic energy commission. The Russian delegate quit this and other UN agencies over a demand for expulsion of the Chinese nationalist representatives.

Hickerson declared at a news conference that the "Soviet Union and the Soviet Union alone is blocking the agreement."

In saying the United States is ready to discuss the subject "at any time" he made it plain he was referring to discussions within the United Nations.

Hickerson was U. S. representative on the six-nation atomic commission when Malik walked out of the group. The Russian left when the commission refused to act on Russia's demand that the Chinese nationalist delegate be replaced by a representative of the new Chinese communist regime.

Mine Workers

In Indiana, where all 8500 UMW diggers are idle, President Louis Austin of UMW district 11 said:

"Apparently the miners are angry because they have no contract."

In West Virginia, the Norfolk and Western and the Virginian railways said no mines are reported working along their lines. About 14,000 miners are idle in Logan county, West Virginia.

No mines are operating near Harlan, Ky.

Time Required
The government indicated it will not seek contempt of court citations if all the diggers fail to report immediately. An official explained this is because of the time required to get the back-to-work orders to the fields.

An indication of sentiment came as overnight crews failed to report at six mines in West Virginia and two in Pennsylvania. The mines employ 6190 diggers.

While the soft coal strike continued, some 80,000 anthracite (hard coal) miners continued to work in eastern Pennsylvania under the three-day work week imposed by Lewis on the industry at large. And about 30,000 miners covered by new contracts secured by Lewis with minor soft coal operators also were working.

There has not been much call for agricultural workers as yet, Baillie reports. However, a few drying days will revive this line of activity and at least 1000 workers will be absorbed. Then by March 6, if weather conditions are normal, approximately 2000 men and women will be needed for work in the hop yards, setting posts, replacing trellises, and doing other necessary chores.

MacArthur

In response to questions, Sherman also said he believes that American naval forces in the western Pacific are equipped and deployed to cope with any threat from Soviet Russian submarine strength.

Before the news conference, Secretary of Defense Johnson told reporters the chiefs had a "grand story of unification" in the Pacific. He also said he believed they had accomplished savings of $6,000,000 to $10,000,000 by on-the-spot consolidations of military activities.

Sherman related that while they were at Tokyo the joint chiefs ordered a change in the Pacific command structure to "reaffirm and clarify" relations between naval forces and General MacArthur's occupation headquarters.

The tribunal refused to review a complaint by Rose W. Shain that Massachusetts courts improperly recognized a Reno decree obtained by her husband, Mark Shain.

Speakers Stress Need of Christian Ethics in Politics

By HELEN SCOTT ROSS

Discussing "Christian Ethics in Social Action," three speakers at last night's Congregational church forum emphasized the need for a more active interest in social and political life on the part of America's church people.

The speakers were Dr. George Hoffman, professor of political science at Vanport college, Phil Hitchcock, state republican senator of the 17th district and moderator of the Oregon Presbyterian church synod, and Dick Neuberger, state democratic senator from the 13th district.

Dean Robert Gregg of Willamette university, who acted as chairman of the forum, commented in introducing the speakers that the topic was a particularly timely one for an election year.

Hoffman pointed out that today's bi-power world presents a unique situation, in which the main questions are, "Can we exist?" and "What comes next?"

The only answer, he said, lies in Christian ethics, and the Protestant church is placing more and more emphasis on the social aspect of Christianity.

After presenting some historical material concerning religion in government, Hoffman declared that the state must recognize not only the challenge of creating the general welfare, but also moral obligations.

The organized church is the basis of modern Christianity, Hitchcock told listeners, and has two essential missions. It must uphold to the nation the standards of God's moral law, and it must teach Christian ethics by example and precept.

Stating that we cannot legislate morality, Hitchcock added that the most important responsibility we have is following up voting by continued political action in the interest of Christian justice.

Neuberger believes a good public servant puts principle above expediency. He said that, since Charles Sprague was governor, no governor has committed himself, and that "we do not have much idealism in the Oregon government." He mentioned Secretary Dean Acheson's defense of Alger Hiss, and said those who would condemn Acheson should re-examine their attitudes.

First audience question, "Should we make the hydrogen bomb?" was discussed by Neuberger, who said "we took the initial step when we dropped the atom bomb," and Hitchcock, who said the bomb presents only the question of degree of murder. He added that "we must resolve whether we have killed conscience, which is worse than taking life."

Other questions and answers, serving to expand the ideas brought forth in the main speeches, brought out that Christian action in government should work toward helping the economically weak.

Neuberger, admitting he spoke from a partisan standpoint, said the democratic party is the only possible vehicle for improvement of state government at this time.

Hitchcock, while he feels a competitive economy does make it more difficult to love our neighbors, feels that the difficulty is diminishing. He urged that individual letters influence a legislator more than form telegrams.

The next forum, under the sponsorship of the Congregational young adult group, will be March 12, with the topic "The Christian Appraises World Government Plans."
