UO Mothers Set Afternoon Meetings

University of Oregon Mothers club of Salem is to start a new program of meetings, the mothers planning an afternoon session in the alternate months between the joint dinner meetings with the Dads club. First of these afternoon meetings will be on March 6 at the home of Mrs. John R. Caughell, at 2:30 o'clock. At that time there also will be a white elephant sale.

The Mothers and Dads clubs met last evening for their joint dinner in Mayflower hall. Dean Karl W. Onthank of the university faculty talking to the group.

Mrs. John H. Carson, Mrs. Paul A. Ficke and Mrs. A. E. Archibald were named the nominating committee for the Mothers club.

Next joint meeting for the two groups will be the second Monday in April.

State Board Event Earlier in the day the state board of the University of Oregon Mothers clubs met for luncheon at the Marion hotel, Mrs. George H. Swift, state president, presiding. Twenty-three officers from Portland, Eugene, Lebanon and Salem attended the gathering.

The group voted to change the name of its revolving scholarship fund to the endowment and revolving scholarship fund. It is hoped to augment this sum to $15,000, there now being $14,211 in the fund. Interest from the fund eventually is to be sufficient to supply three $300 scholarships.

Until that time the mothers clubs supplement the amount of interest to provide for the three scholarships.

The group also voted to purchase 20 copies of the Oregon student yearbook at the university, to place in high schools.

Mrs. J. Allan Wickham, dean of women at the UO, was a guest at the meeting to discuss the needs for scholarships.

Dean Karl W. Onthank, who is executive secretary for the mothers' state organization, told the group about students holding scholarships provided by the mothers clubs. He administers the scholarships and keeps records on the students. This past year the mothers have assisted 15 students, three of them with $300 scholarships each, the other 12 with $100 scholarships. Of the 15, 10 made a grade average of more than 3 point, and three others were above average. Twenty students now on the campus have been assisted or are being aided now with the scholarships, Dean Onthank said.

The Portland unit invited the board to hold its next session in conjunction with the Portland group's meeting on the third Thursday of March.
