First Federal Buys Building

The First Federal Savings and Loan association, for many years located at 142 South Liberty street, announces purchase from Leo N. Childs of the building at 129 North Commercial that once housed the old Capital National bank.

The First National was later located there, and the most recent occupant was the Huggins Insurance agency, now in its own building on North Church.

Expansion of business made a new location necessary for the savings and loan association, which formerly was known as the Mutual Federal Savings and Loan association. Directors of the association said they liked the location of the old bank building, and that its facilities, including vaults, are in good condition.

Remodeling will start at once, including removal of the historic and impressive stone front, and a more modern front will replace it. The association expects to occupy the location by July 1.

It was built in 1892 by the late Fred Erixon, contractor, and was designed by Stanford White, New York architect who designed the Portland Union depot and the Portland hotel. The turreted front of the building has long been a landmark of Commercial street and a decorative feature is a large replica of the old Beaver gold dollar that was current in Oregon in provisional government days.

Predecessor of the new owner of the building was the first federal and loan association in Salem. Assets now total $1,800,000. Officers are: John H. Carlin, president; J. C. Perry, vice president; Fred B. Keeler, secretary-treasurer; who are all board members, and others on the board are Frank E. Brown, L. O. Clement, E. Max Page and Harry W. Scott.

Sen. Downey to Run
Washington, March 2 (U.P.)—Sen. Sheridan Downey, (D-Cal), announced today that he has decided to run for re-election to the senate.

Birth of Son Fools Couple

Hollywood, March 2 (U.P.)—Italian film actress Alida Valli was seeking a name today for the 7½-pound son born Tuesday night at St. Johns hospital in Santa Monica.

Miss Valli, wife of musician-painter Oscar De Mejo, had picked out a name for a girl but had made no arrangements to name a son. She and her husband are parents also of a five-year-old son, Carlo.

Her next picture with Producer David Selznick will be: "The Third Man."

Europeans Study U. S. Paper Mills

Washington, March 2 (U.P.)—Thirty-five European pulp and paper experts were making U. S. field studies today which they hope will help them sell the folks at home 10 pounds more of paper and paper board products in the next two years.

Europe's present rate of consumption is 56 pounds per person per year. Current United States' per capita consumption averages 350 pounds.

The visitors, divided into three teams, are making a nine weeks study of American know-how in an effort to increase sales. They plan to visit U. S. plants, laboratories and trade association offices in 11 states.

The group is the largest ever to come to the United States as a unit under ECA's technical assistance program to spur European recovery.

The visitors come from Austria, Belgium, Denmark, France.

John H. Hall to Run for State Senate

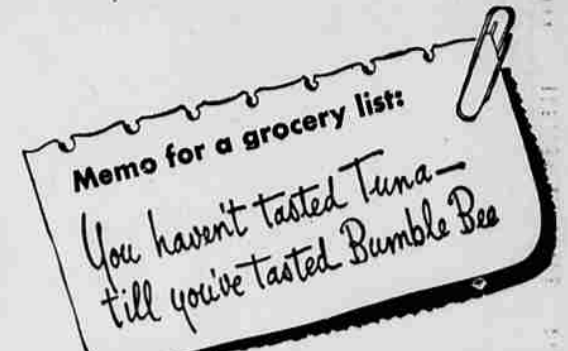

Portland, Ore., March 2 (U.P.)—John H. Hall, governor of Oregon between the death of Earl Snell and election of Douglas McKay, re-entered the political arena today.

Hall said he will be a candidate for the republican nomination for the state senate seat now held by Irving Rand. This seat is for the joint district of Multnomah, Clackamas and Columbia counties.

Hall has been practicing law in Portland since he relinquished the governorship to McKay. He previously served several terms in the house of representatives and was elected speaker in the 1947 session.

Berry Growers Meet Friday

Program for the strawberry growers meeting in the Mayflower building on Friday, March 3, has been completed with the announcement by County Extension Agent D. L. Rasmussen that Earl Genzer and Irwin Schlegel of Banks will appear on the program.

Strawberry growers Genzer and Schlegel are scheduled for 1:30 p.m. They will show motion pictures and discuss their strawberry growing operations.

The second part of the program will feature a progress report on the strawberry variety improvement program at Oregon State college by George Waldo. Waldo is a United States department of agriculture horticulturist stationed at Corvallis. "My Experiences in Growing Marshall Strawberries" will be discussed by Stanley Sneed, strawberry grower from the Hayesville district north of Salem. Sneed's fields averaged about five tons of Marshall strawberries per acre last year, one of the highest yields reported in Marion county in 1949.

La Grande Seeks Air Force Academy

La Grande, Ore., March 2 (U.P.)—Gene Killion, manager of the La Grande Chamber of Commerce, has flown to Washington, D.C. to confer with the air force's site selection survey board in connection with the proposed $300,000,000 air force academy.

Killion will seek information to be used to support La Grande's bid for the academy. The air force is considering numerous proposed sites.

Unemployment Benefits High

Unemployment benefits in Oregon set a new monthly record of $4,893,205 during February, the state unemployment compensation commission said today.

The total was $500,000 more than the previous record, which was set in the preceding month. It was 21 per cent greater than the total of February, 1949.

The commission, however, forecast that the amount of benefits would drop rapidly. It said that 72,691 claims for jobless benefits were filed in the first week of February, but that this has dropped to 58,500 now.

Unemployment benefits in the past eight months totaled $18,608,554. The commission said this might pass the $25,000,000 mark by the end of the fiscal year next July 1, or twice the amount that had been estimated.
