The early spring finds many Salem folk planning extensive trips.

Mrs. Robert L. Elfstrom and her sister, Mrs. Elvin Herr of Silverton, will be leaving in mid-April for a trip taking them to Europe and Ethiopia. They will sail from Montreal, April 21. In Ethiopia they will join Mrs. Herr's son-in-law and daughter, who are in a mission there. Mrs. Herr plans to spend the coming year there with her family. Mrs. Elfstrom plans to be gone about three months.

Among others planning trips this month are Mr. and Mrs. Floyd W. Shepard, who will leave March 20 by plane for New York City, Washington, D.C., and Miami, Fla. In Miami, Mr. Shepard is to attend a business meeting, after which the couple will go on to Havana and Nassau, then home by New Orleans. They will be gone three weeks, flying all the way. During their absence, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hayward are occupying their home.

Interesting a large group for Tuesday evening is the concert of the Salem Senior high school orchestra and chorus, at the high school auditorium.

Miss Edna Marie Hill, talented pianist, is to be soloist with the orchestra numbers.

Mrs. Douglas McKay, wife of Oregon's governor, will observe her usual Tuesday afternoon at home, local and out-of-town friends being invited to call that afternoon.

For Patronesses

Patronesses of the Salem Spinners club are to be honored at a dinner to be given by the club next Tuesday evening, March 7, at the American Legion club. The dinner will be at 6:30 o'clock, followed by bridge.

Miss Patricia Viesko is chairman of the committee arranging the party.

The patronesses to be honored include Mrs. Henry V. Compton, Mrs. Curtis B. Cross, Mrs. Daniel J. Fry, Mrs. Douglas McKay, Mrs. Robert E. Shinn, Miss Betty Holt, Mrs. Homer H. Smith, Mrs. Linn C. Smith, Mrs. Frank H. Spears, Mrs. C. S. Hamilton and Mrs. George A. White, the latter of Portland.

Miss Childs Bride This Afternoon

Miss Betty Louise Childs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo N. Childs, was an attractive bride this afternoon, her marriage to Frederick Gale Bradshaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick O. Bradshaw, being solemnized at 5 o'clock in Salem's First Presbyterian church before a large gathering of friends and relatives. Dr. Chester W. Hamblin read the vows.

An all-white setting was arranged at the church for the service. There were Calla lilies and white stock at the church front and altar, softened with the light from the tapers in tall candelabrum; while white nosegays decked the pews down the processional aisle.

Mrs. Daryl Drorbaugh was soloist, singing "I Love Thee" and "Ave Maria." Mrs. Ralph Dobbs was at the organ.

The blonde bride was a quaint picture in her old-fashioned designed gown. The bodice and long sleeves were of Chantilly lace set off with a marquisette yoke encircled with a lace ruffle, and a panel of the ruffled lace extended down the front of the dress from the waistline. The very full marquisette skirt was fashioned with the padded hips. The two-tiered fingertip veil was of French illusion, arranged from a cloche of the illusion. For her flowers the bride carried a fan-shaped bouquet of bouvardia, China lilies and stephanotis, tied with wide white satin ribbon. Mr. Childs gave his daughter in marriage.

Two Attendants

Mrs. Rodney Taylor of Eugene was the matron of honor. Her gown was of pale yellow organdy, in ballerina length, with a purple velvet sash tied in back. With the dress she wore a headpiece of the yellow organdy and purple satin pumps, and for her flowers carried a nosegay of yellow Pincocchio roses surrounded by white gladioluses.

Miss Frances Bennett of Portland was the bridesmaid, and her gown and flowers were identical to those of Mrs. Taylor.

Donald Bower of Portland, formerly of Salem, was the best man and ushering were Raymond Farmer, Warren Ling, George Tomlinson and Ted Ogdahl.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Childs wore a rose crepe gown with iridescent beading and a corsage of purple orchids. Mrs. Bradshaw, mother of the bridegroom, wore a green crepe gown with corsage of white orchids.

Plan Book Carts

A project to furnish two complete library carts, one for each of the local hospitals, is being launched by the auxiliary to the Marion-Polk County Medical society.

To assist with the project, the auxiliary members are planning a benefit bridge luncheon the afternoon of Thursday, March 16, at the American Legion club, the luncheon to be at 1 o'clock.

Featuring the benefit will be a free children's fashion show, presenting Easter-time styles for youngsters. Models will be children of auxiliary members and the fashions are being presented by Margwen's shop.

Co-chairmen for the benefit will be Mrs. Harmon Harvey and Mrs. William Crothers.

In charge of reservations are Mrs. Robert F. Wulf, 35532, and Mrs. Carl W. Emmons, 38365.

The library carts for the hospitals will be complete with books for all ages and they will be maintained and staffed by auxiliary members.

Miss Arnold Wed

Miss JoAnn Arnold and Don T. Williams, the latter of Seattle, exchanged their marriage vows this afternoon at a charmingly arranged service in the First Congregational church, Dr. Seth R. Huntington reading the ceremony at 2 o'clock. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Eulela Arnold of Salem and Judge E. G. Arnold of Albany. Mr. Williams is the son of Mrs. John Harold Belden of Seattle.

Baskets of mixed white blooms and daffodils, and lighted tapers in candelabrum decorated the church for the wedding. Lighting the tapers were Miss Zeta Awylward, Albany, in a rose dress, and Miss Eileen Wilson, in yellow.

For the music, Mrs. Clyde Williamson of Albany was the soloist and Lural Burgraff of Albany played the organ.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, entrain, the dress having a sheer yoke; long, tight-fitting sleeves; a row of buttons down the back and a bustle in back. The fingertip nylon veil was arranged from a tiara of seed pearls. The bride carried a white Bible with white orchid.

Miss Beverly Lytle was the honor attendant for the bride. She wore an aqua gown and carried a corsage of pink carnations.

Miss Laraine Baron, in a pink sheer, and Miss Elaine Baron in a blue over pink sheer, were the bridesmaids. They carried nosegays of mixed flowers.

Jack Moore of Seattle was the best man. Ushering were Dick Hazelton of Albany, Bud Herberger of Salem and Bob West of Albany.

For the wedding the bride's mother wore a navy blue suit with pink accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother wore a tan suit with black accessories and corsage of the pink roses.

The reception following was in the church also. Miss Shirley Schantz passed the guest book.

Mrs. Walter Keyes was at the coffee urn and Mrs. Ralph Skopil served the cake.

In charge of gifts were Mrs. S. E. Spencer, Mrs. Frank Senz and Miss Barbara Keyes.

For traveling the bride wore a navy club suit with pink accessories and her bridal orchid.

The couple will make their home in Seattle.

Among affairs for Sunday is the informal at home for which Miss Elizabeth Lord and Miss Edith Schryver are to entertain at their home to honor Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Dorman, recent newcomers to Salem.
