AAUW Board Entertained; Plans Events

Members of the board of Salem branch, American Association of University Women, met this week at the home of Mrs. Reginald Williams, and made plans for the spring activities.

Next meeting for the general group will be a luncheon March 18 as annual fellowship day. Miss Mirdza Timma, of Latvia, student at Reed, to be the guest speaker. The luncheon will be at the Marion hotel, Mrs. F. A. Masee, fellowship chairman, in charge.

Mrs. Ervin W. Potter has been named chairman for state convention plans from the Salem branch.

Announcement is made by Miss Elise Schroeder, president, that the Salem branch now has 261 members.

Camp Fire Birthday Week

Marking the organization's 40th anniversary, Camp Fire national birthday week will be celebrated between March 12 to 18. Highlighting the birthday week theme "Discovery Unlimited—An Adventure in Creative Living," a Camp Fire "hobby lobby" will be on display in Salem March 17 and 18 at the Chamber of Commerce, through the courtesy of Joe Randall of the Golden Pheasant. The display will be open to the public on Friday afternoon, March 17 and Saturday until 3:00 p.m., giving each group a chance to show what it has found and done in "Discoveries Unlimited."

Sunday, March 12 is designated as "Go to church" Sunday. At this time Camp Fire Girls in the Willamette area will join other Camp Fire friends all over the world in religious services. Dressed in their red, white and blue service costumes the girls will attend their own church, or will go as a group to the church of their selection.

In addition, during the week groups all over Salem will be holding birthday parties for Camp Fire, either singly or in school parties.

The presentation of birthday honors given for the special achievements of the girls during Birthday Week will take place at the grand council fire on April 22 in the Leslie Junior high school auditorium.

THE REGULAR fellowship no-host dinner for the West Salem Methodist church will be Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the church, Clayton Jones is to be guest speaker to show pictures of his trip to Alaska over the Alcan highway.

FIFTY-TWO members and friends attended the no-host supper and entertainment of the First Spiritualist church Tuesday evening at Mayflower hall. On the committee for the event were Mrs. Sarah Vrooman, Mrs. Florence Zeller, Mrs. Amy Pierpont and Mrs. Anna Simmers.

Winter term classes have now dwindled down to a few remaining as students prepare to dig in for the big tests next week—final examinations. The real test this term was to find out if anyone could learn anything scholastically with the heavy social schedule for the term. However, it will soon be over and students can take a week breather before starting out on spring term.

Bubbling cauldrons, devils, black lights, and weird murals, provided an air of mystery and enchantment at the junior prom, "Demon Aires," Friday night. Stepping out of a huge keyhole, Dona Lee Greiner was crowned queen of the junior beauties with more than 1200 students gathered to dance in her honor.

Dona Lee, a 5 foot 4 inch brunette from McMinnville, looked quite regal in her aqua strapless formal and the crown upon her head. Four other members of the junior class composed the court.

Authentic costumes from San Francisco with vivid colors and flashing swords helped to make a success of the speech department play, "Androcles and the Lion." The ridiculous and deliberate historical errors introduced by Bernard Shaw into his play, theoretically dealing with ancient Rome, were well brought out by the cast and director. In one scene the gladiator fights are announced over a loud speaker system. Mary Jo Ogle took the part of the nagging wife of Androcles.

Six graduates of the OSC school of home economics, each representing a decade in the history of that school, will be featured at the 60th anniversary program here this week-end. Alumni from all over the United States are expected to attend what is planned to be a gala affair for all home economists and homemakers. Speaker for the fifth decade (1929-1939) will be Mrs. Mary Ferguson Thomas, class of 1939, Salem interior decorator and former president of the Home Economics honor society.

Refreshments were served by the committee: Mrs. Anna Sion, Mrs. Bill Hadley, Mrs. Anna Woodward and Mrs. Cliff Woodward.

Luncheon On Thursday

Mrs. A. D. Woodmansee was hostess Thursday for an informal luncheon party, places being marked for 10. Arrangements of yellow flowers were used in decorating.

Guests included Mrs. Lynn Lambeth and her guest, Mrs. George Larson of Coos Bay; Mrs. Estes L. Morton, Mrs. A. L. Adolphson, Mrs. David Bennett Hill, Mrs. Ralph Campbell, Mrs. T. A. Windishar, Mrs. Harris Lietz, Mrs. W. J. Braun.

Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Woodmansee and Mrs. Charles Heltzer were hostesses at the home of the former for a neighborhood tea honoring Mrs. Harry S. Dorman, who recently moved here from Portland. Mrs. Douglas McKay and Mrs. George H. Flagg poured.

OMT Event On Friday

The Salem branch of the Oregon Music Teachers association will hold its March meeting at the North 21st street home of Mrs. George E. Allen, this Friday night, March 10, at 8 o'clock.

A member of the teachers will present students in a short recital at this meeting, and the remainder at a later date. Parents of the students participating in the program have been invited to attend and remain for a short social hour following.

Lois Plummer Schmidt is president of the Salem organization, and Miss Ruth Bedford is social and program chairman for the March meeting.

Students taking part are: Pamela Clayton, Joyce Garlick, Kay Ruberg, Max Morris, Suzanne De Arnold, Toni De Sart, Sara and Molly Allen, Marilyn Taylor, and Donna Satter, accompanied by Virginia Benner.

Teachers of these students represented are Mrs. E. Donald Jessop, Miss Helen MacHirron, Mrs. W. H. East, Mrs. Charles O. Hargrave, Miss Margaret Hogg, Mrs. Ronald Craven, Miss Ruth Bedford, Lois Plummer Schmidt, and Miss Lena Belle Tartar.

There will be a short business meeting following the program and social period for the associated teachers.

HAYESVILLE—The Hayesville Woman's club will hold its annual family night no-host dinner at the Mayflower hall, Saturday at 6 o'clock. Mrs. Charles McAllister will be in charge of the refreshments and Mrs. Harry Miller is chairman in charge of the program.

Civic Players Presenting Show

Salem Civic Players are giving their play, "A Manhattan Honey-moon," comedy drama, three times this week before groups in the county.

On Friday evening the play will be presented at Salem Heights and on Saturday evening in the new Washington school on Lansing avenue, Wednesday evening the play was given at Oak Grove. Earlier, the production has been put on at Keizer, Middle Grove, at the state tuberculosis hospital, at Stayton and at Pringle school.

In the cast are Dr. D. D. Craig, Sally Jo Greig, Dorothy Hill, Eleanor Finden, Frank Hamstreet, Theresa Blackwell, LeRoy Krueger, James Baer, Agnes Drummond and Bud Parkes.

On Monday evening the Civic Players and friends gathered at the Mayflower hall for a no-host dinner and initiation. Dr. D. D. Craig, Sally Jo Greig, Theresa Blackwell and Frank Hamstreet were initiated as new members.

IN PORTLAND Tuesday were five Salem women to attend the meeting of the Women's auxiliary for the diocese in the Episcopal church, the event being at St. Mark's church in Portland.

Mrs. George H. Swift of Salem is president of the auxiliary for the diocese and presided at the meeting. Others attending from here were Mrs. Clark McCall, Mrs. W. S. Van Meter, Miss Marjorie Harris and Mrs. George Corwin of Independence.

Mrs. Mabel Hayles of Salem talked to the group on her work as librarian and recreation worker at the state institutions, and Father Slocum, vicar of the Woodburn church, also told of his work at the state institutions.

MEMBERS of Salem Neighbors of Woodcraft are to have their regular meeting Friday at 8 p. m. in the Salem Woman's club house. Each one attending is to take a sack lunch.

District No. 21 of the NOW met Tuesday evening at Monmouth, the district team and officers exemplifying the work. Two candidates were initiated for Independence circle. A banquet followed, 104 attending, including 19 from Salem. Next district event is to be at Amity May 8 when a school of instruction will be given.

Party for Mrs. Feig

Mrs. Grant C. Rogers is to be hostess for an informal bridge party this evening honoring her daughter, Mrs. Myron V. Feig of Portland. Guests for three tables of bridge have been invited and a late supper will be served.

Mrs. Feig and children, Roger and Sandra Sue, are visiting here for a few days at the Rogers home.

BPW Group

Silverton—Thirty members of the Business and Professional Woman's club met for the dinner program at Toney's, Tuesday evening. Miss Thora Arsted presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. Irene Roubal, Miss Stella Dybek served as secretary.

The guest speaker was Mrs. H. Gordon McCall, a Portland business woman and formerly of Silverton. Her talk was centered in the theme "Building Better Business."

Supplemental numbers were a reading by Mrs. Mary Kleeman, and a vocal selection by Mrs. Ina Selga with Mrs. Lela Quintal at the piano.

During the brief business hour the club voted a resolution opposing "socialized medicine." In deference to the planned concert being sponsored by the JayCettes for the Willamette university choir, the club voted to cancel the Sigurd Nelson annual concert until a later date.

HONORING Willis Ellsworth Vincent, III, who is leaving for Alaska, the Credit Bureau staff gave an informal party Wednesday at the offices, presenting Mr. Vincent with a shower of handkerchiefs. Refreshments were served.
