Flag Goes Up—The flag is raised on a shining mast on the rusting hulk of the battleship Arizona which was sunk at her berth when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor. The bodies of 1,092 of the crew remain in the hulk of the ship. The new flagpole, erected on the ship's superstructure which still juts above the water, was dedicated recently. ## Group Confirms Dr. Kleinsorge

Dr. R. E. Kleinsorge of Silverton has been confirmed for a second nine-year term as a member of the state board of higher education.

But confirmation by the senate interim committee on executive appointments came only after Sen. Austin Fliegel, Portland democrat, accused the board of ignoring the legislature's directive for distribution of $6,000,000 for buildings on state university and colleges.

In making the $6,000,000 appropriation, the legislature had directed that $2,500,000 be used for a new teaching hospital at the University of Oregon medical school in Portland. The board of higher education, with approval of the state emergency board and state board of control, took $1,000,000 of that sum and used it for buildings at Oregon State college.

Fliegel maintained throughout that the board should have put the whole sum of $2,500,000 into the hospital, estimated to cost $4,500,000 to $5,000,000, but he voted with the other three committee members who attended the meeting for confirmation of Dr. Kleinsorge. Dr. Kleinsorge told Fliegel he believed the hospital will be built just as fast with $1,500,000 set aside for it as it would if $2,500,000 were "lying idle." He said it will take six months to a year just to complete the plans. Federal funds and private gifts are expected to swell the total fund for the hospital.
