of familiar faces are missing from baseball's spring training camps. It's the same every year, this business of youngsters replacing veterans.

It's not so noticeable at first with one or two fellows missing from this camp and maybe a half dozen from teams on Florida's west coast. But when you begin to take stock of the ever changing baseball situation, collectively you find an imposing list of name players missing.

Take the Athletics, in training here under 87-year-old Connie Mack who is starting his Golden Jubilee year as manager of the Philadelphians. Normally, the Grand Old Man of Baseball vould make room for such sea soned veterans as Augle Galan and Taft Wright, but there eems to be a limit to the numper of veterans a team should carry.

Both Galan and Wright were released during the winter. Both probably have seen the end of their big league playing career unless some club recalls them to strengthen their bench. at 37, will be remembered as popular outfielder who consist Guerre and the Legion of Honor. ## Rickey Loses Optimism In 1950 Dodger Outlook

Vero Beach, Fla., March 14 President Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers expre ed "apprehension" about his all clubs today.

After watching the 1949
National league pennant winners work out for 10 days he lost the optimism which had characterized his off - season statements. During the winter he even went so far as to predict that the Dodgers not only would repeat, but also would win the world series.

But now he isn't so sure; he isn't at all satisfied with what "I can't put my finger or it," he said, "but there is an air of complacency around this camp I do not like. May-be we have too many con-tented ball players. "Remember it has been 1944 since any club in either league has ever repeated in winning a pennant.

"There is just something that winning a pennant does to players.
