Mrs. Sigrist, Active in Salem Library Founding, Tells of Life

By STEPHEN A. STONE

Caroline L. B. Sigrist of Portland, who told in yesterday's Capital Journal the story of the beginning of Salem Public library, has been a student and a woman of books all her life. She has traveled considerably.

After reading her manuscript about the library, Cornelia Marvin Pierce asked her to fur sinsh a sketch of her eventful career.

She holds degrees in medicine and in law and is a graduate librarian. Wherever she has lived, she has given of her time and enegry and money to the community good.
