Camp Fire District Board Meets

Ways and means of raising the necessary funds to start work on a new Blue Bird lodge at Camp Kilowan was the main subject of discussion at the March meeting of the Salem District board of Camp Fire Girls, Tuesday evening. The project is to start this summer if sufficient donations are received. Mrs. A. E. Ullman and Frank Kolsky, co-chairmen of the camp committee, reported that although the camp is in fairly good condition after the severe winter, there are still minor repairs to be made and trails to be cleared before the summer opening. Week-end camp-outs and Sunday picnics were planned for those who volunteer to help with the clean-up. Merrill D. Ohling and Mrs. Paul Morse, area representatives, reported on the Camp Fire area meeting held in Corvallis in February, at which time the resignation of Mrs. George Bagnall was accepted and Mrs. Milton Hartwell appointed as the new executive director.

Several new members have been added to the extension committee, according to Mrs. Charles Ladd, chairman, but representatives are still needed from McKinley, Englewood, Garfield and Washington districts. It is the function of the members of this committee to secure new Camp Fire leaders in the districts.

A new member of the district board was reported by Mrs. E. A. Carleton, chairman. Mrs. Mike Steinback will replace Miss Dorthea Steussloff as social chairman. The social chairman is responsible for the annual Salem dad-daughter banquet, and a discussion was held on this event.
