Lutheran Aid Outlines Work

Silverton—The officers and department secretaries of Trinity Lutheran Ladies Aid met at the parsonage to discuss working plans for the remainder of the year.

The president, Miss Nettie Hatteberg, was in charge of the meeting. Other executive officers are Mrs. Lawrence M. Larson, Mrs. Oscar Satern and Mrs. Adolph M. Haugen. The department secretaries in attendance were Mrs. O. H. Moen, Mrs. M. O. Hatteberg, Mrs. Ed Holden, Mrs. Olaf Anderson, Mrs. Marie Rivness and Mrs. Alvin Legard. Mrs. Joseph A. Luthro served refreshments during the afternoon.

Among events considered was the Oregon Circuit Woman's Missionary Federation convention to be held at Longview, Wash., early in May. If sufficient numbers in Silverton are interested in attending it may be possible to charter a bus for local transportation.

Mrs. Beryl Kelly of Fairbanks, Alaska, visited at the parsonage home of Rev. Joseph A. Luthro and Mrs. Luthro. Mrs. Kelly is a member of the Lutheran congregation served by the Luthros before coming to Silverton serving the Trinity pastorate since last month.

The Luther League of Trinity Lutheran church voted at their meeting Sunday evening to sponsor the serving of breakfast after the early worship hour on Easter Sunday, April 9.

Miss Martha Storruste, League president, expects to announce committees for the program working personnel of the reorganized League at the meeting of Sunday evening, March 19.

Professor Says N. W. Headed For More Jarring Quakes

Seattle, March 16 (AP)—Is the Pacific northwest headed for more bone-jarring earthquakes?

Yes, says one University of Washington professor who made a study of the quake which rocked this region loose from its chimneys last April 13.

It's impossible to say, another earthquake authority at the university said. It's something we absolutely cannot predict; nobody can do that.

The gloomy view is taken by Prof. Alfred L. Miller, of the civil engineering department and chairman of the earthquake committee of the Pacific Northwest Conference of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

His committee issued a statement today urging the adoption of a building code which would cope with the earthquake potential of this area.

"Studies demonstrate conclusively," the committee statement said, "that earthquakes are normal natural phenomena of this region, to be expected from time to time with equal or greater severity than those of record in the 109 years of documented history."

This, the committee believes, should be acknowledged by mandatory requirements of earthquake resistant design and construction in all building codes of the Pacific northwest.

Geology Professor Howard Coombs, who is considered one of the most earthquake-conscious and informed men on the campus, is "sorry that such a statement has been made."

"Nobody knows whether we will have equal or greater earthquakes," he said, "I don't care who they are. The only thing we have to go on is the past record."

"It is fairly complete for the past 100 years and I would say that the most we can anticipate is some more of the same."

By this he meant that last year's quake, which he calls an "eight" because it has that rating on a scale of 12 different intensities, may be repeated. "We've had three eights," he explained. "One was in 1904, the second in 1909 and the one last year. An eight knocks chimneys off buildings and bricks from walls. A 'nine' would topple buildings and tear walls from structures, generally."

Checking his records, Coombs

65 Farm Units For Homestead

Sixty-five farm units totaling 7273 acres will be opened to homestead entry in the northwest in 1950, with World War II veterans offered priority, the Oregon department of veterans' affairs was informed this week.

Eleven of the farms covering 723 acres are located in the Roza division of the Yakima project in Washington and 54 units amounting to 7000 acres are in the Riverton, Wyoming, project, according to a brochure received here from the federal bureau of reclamation, which administers public openings on irrigated lands.

An additional 974 acres comprising 50 farm units also will be sold by the reclamation bureau this year in the Burbank unit of the Columbia basin irrigation project. These are lands purchased from private owners and irrigated by the government. Here again, veterans of World War II will have first chance to acquire the land.

No homestead openings are scheduled for this year in the Klamath project at Tule Lake, nor in the Boise project in Idaho, but the reclamation bureau says future projects in the 17 western states "now under construction or to be constructed will create an additional 100,000 family-sized farms."

A total of 802 public land farm units consisting of 74,133 acres have been opened to homesteading since World War II, according to the reclamation bureau.

Veterans' priority on homesteads and on public irrigated lands for sale amounts to a 90-day application period before other applications are considered. Requirements generally include two years of farming experience, health and character qualifications, and capital amounting to between $2000 and $3500.

Applications for public notices, when openings are announced, should be made to the regional

Church Women Have Election

Jefferson—The W.S.W.S. of the Evangelical United Brethren church met at the home of Mrs. George Kihs with Mrs. Don Davis devotional leader.

The lesson was read by Mrs. Davis. A short play, "The Good Samaritan Woman" was acted out by Mrs. A. E. Bashford and with the leader gave the lesson, "Right attitudes toward the nations and peoples."

Current events were given by Mrs. William Lake and Anna Mae Barnes gave a special number, "The History of a Dollar Bill."

Fourteen members and four guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Knickerbocker, Mrs. Frank Rehfeld, Mrs. D. L. Davis and seven children were present.

Nine members have completed the reading course for the year. Prayer was offered by Bernice Kiks, Rev. Duhrkoop, Mrs. Geneva Meyers, Anna Klampe and Mrs. A. E. Bashford for missionaries and members having birthdays during the month of March.

During the business session the new officers elected were, president, Mrs. George Kihs; vice president, Mrs. Geneva Meyers; secretary, Mrs. Anna Mae Barnes; treasurer, Mrs. Betty Hague; children's missionary education, Helen Kihs, and Little Herald, Geneva Meyers.

said the Pacific northwest had "sevens," or lesser quakes, in 1920, 1939, 1945 and two in 1946. This, he feels may mean a building up or may be merely because modern instruments and information are much more complete.

"I'd say," Prof. Coombs concluded, "that anyone who predicts heavier quakes than the ones we have had is playing it up a little. Maybe they are right but nobody can say although many have tried."

FAMOUS COOK BOOKS SAY...
...no difference between beet and cane sugar

A long time ago when Americans started to make beet sugar the results were not always consistent. At that time the sugar made from beets was different from the older, established cane sugar.

However, for the past generation the two sugars have been just the same, and today food experts agree that there is no finer sugar than that made in our own Western beet sugar factories.

One of our most widely used cook books says:
"Granulated sugar, whether from sugar cane or sugar beets, can be used interchangeably."
