

General Ike Quizzed On National Defense

Washington, March 29 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today he believed "we could do a great deal more" for the nation's defense by readjusting items within the present military budget rather than increasing the total spending.

Appearing before a senate appropriations subcommittee considering defense funds for the fiscal year starting July 1, Eisenhower stressed the need for a strong air force, anti-submarine weapons, Alaskan air defense, and industrial mobilization.

He said that after the war defense officials hit upon 70 air groups in the regular army and 27 in the National Guard. He added, however, that these figures were not sacrosanct because the number of planes and men in each group was the important thing.

He said he considered a "safe minimum" the maintenance of 48 regular and 11 or 12 National Guard air groups, but that he had been told that new money to be provided would not maintain such a number.

If these are not maintained, he asserted, "we will begin to dip over the line between economy and security."

The former army chief of staff was called before the committee after he had said in a speech last week that this country had disarmed in some ways beyond the point which he, "with deep concern for her present safety," could possibly advise.

In advance of the hearing, he disclaimed any knowledge of differences with President Truman and the Defense Secretary Johnson over military spending plans.

Eisenhower, now president of Columbia university, was asked by a reporter if there were any differences between him and administration officials about the size of the defense fund.

"If there are any differences, I don't know about them," the general replied quickly. "That's what I'm down here for, any questions that senators may have."

The committee first met in a closed session then quickly decided to throw open the doors to reporters and the public generally. It had heard previous witnesses, including Johnson, at closed meetings.

Before the session started, however, Chairman Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.), had said he understood Mr. Truman wanted the Eisenhower testimony to be open to the public.

Bridges was indicted for perjury, charged with falsely swearing at his 1945 citizenship hearing that he had never been a communist. Two other union officers, his witnesses at the hearing, were indicted for conspiracy.

"If these men are convicted, many things will be lost," MacInnis asserted.

LATE SPORTS

Liska Here on Way to Corvallis

Ad Liska, player manager for the Salem Senators, reached Salem Wednesday en route to Corvallis where he will take over direction of spring training for the local club.

Liska, brown and apparently in excellent physical condition, indicated he would take the mound on occasion during the season which will open April 18 at Waters park.

Spring training will begin at 10:30 Thursday morning on the Oregon State campus with about 40 prospective players taking part.

2 Million Germans Missing in Russia

Wiesbaden, Germany, March 29 (AP)—Two million Germans still are missing five years after the war, and of these only 100,000 are known to be prisoners, a west German federal agency announced today.

The figure does not include Soviet zone Germans who may be unaccounted for or in prison camps.

Youths Confess Auto Robberies

A varied list of crimes from church burglary to car theft was written off as solved Wednesday by Salem detectives as they completed interrogations of two teen-agers who were taken into custody by Eugene police.

The youths were Gordon G. Herman, 417 East Madrona, and a 16-year-old companion, ward of juvenile court as the result of burglary and larceny arrests last August.

The pair was nabbed by Eugene police who caught them prowling through autos in a used car lot.

Under questioning by Salem detectives, the two admitted stealing a 1949 model car last Saturday, driving to Portland with the auto, and abandoning it there.

In Portland, the pair also stole another car.

In the list of crimes admitted by the youths were house burglaries, the search of Leslie Methodist church for money, burglary of Salem Heights and McKinley school, shoplifting and numerous petty thefts from parked automobiles.

A watch, one of several items of jewelry stolen from a Salem home, was traced to a Portland pawn shop.

Young Talks on Hoover Plan

Some startling figures—at least to those persons who have not taken the time to study the situation—were told to members of the Salem Rotary Club Wednesday noon. The speaker was Hal Young of the Oregon Business and Tax Research of Portland.

Young informed his audience that the federal government took out of Oregon during the 1949 fiscal year more than $414 millions of dollars in taxes of all sorts. Of this amount there were returned to the state for various causes, such as grants in aid, aid payments to individuals, crop loan subsidies, etc., $122 million or 29.4 cents out of every dollar.

The figures were released during a discussion of the Hoover plan which was characterized by Young as a "blueprint for the solvency of the American republic."

Five out of the 18 major segments of the Hoover recommendation have been adopted, said Young.

Hearing Called on Lange Removal

Eleven Marion county cattlemen have written to the county court asking that Dr. Fred W. Lange be discharged as one of Marion county's veterinarians, and that a replacement be made immediately.

The stockmen allege that Lange fails to cooperate with them, and that he is arbitrary and abusive. The protests were aimed particularly at Lange's handling of Bang's disease and tuberculosis testing. The letter stated that Lange's handling of animals caused the stock to be frightened and unmanageable.

The court has called a hearing on the situation for April 19 at 10:30 a.m. It is hoped that the complainants and Lange will be on hand to present their respective arguments.

Signing the letter of protest were Paul T. Thomas, M. F. Webb, R. C. Baker, D. S. Riches, Tom Webb, W. Jay Denham, D. J. Gilliam, L. D. Roberts, Jr., K. A. Purdy, Harlan M. Bones and O. H. Spiva.

Willamette, Carnegie Tech Make Agreement on Degrees

A five-year program agreement has been reached between Willamette university and Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh, Pa., which will result in students being able to receive the bachelor of arts degree from Willamette and the bachelor of science degree in engineering and science from Carnegie Tech.

The plan, to become effective with the entering class at Willamette next September, was approved here during a faculty meeting Tuesday afternoon. Carnegie Tech had previously approved terms of the agreement.

Briefly, the plan calls for three years of liberal arts at Willamette with a major in one of the fields of science, followed by two years training in one of the branches of engineering or science at Carnegie Tech. Both degrees will be granted at the end of the fifth year.

The arrangement is considered as constituting a distinct honor and indicates further recognition of Willamette on a national basis, it was stated during the faculty meeting. To date only a half dozen or so liberal arts colleges in the entire country have been approved for this plan by Carnegie Tech.

Carnegie Tech was founded in 1905 through a donation by Andrew Carnegie, then one of the greatest steel makers in the world. The campus consists of 40 acres while the institution has an endowment of $33,000,000.

Although the Gregorian calendar was started in 1582, it was not adopted for the British Empire, including the American colonies, until 1752.

Champion Viks Exchange Guests

The state championship basketball team from Salem high, its coach and assistants made another stop on the victory tour of luncheons Wednesday when they were entertained by the Salem Exchange club.

Otto Skopli, a Viking fan outlined the progress of the Salem team through the tournament and introduced Coach Harold Hauk and his assistants.

Hauk, who described his team as a "great bunch of kids," pointed out that the tough schedule of the Vikings during the regular season play had helped bring the championship cup to Salem.

He explained that mistakes made during a tight game with Lebanon during the season provided the answer to the toughest game in the tourney, the second round meeting with Jefferson of Portland.

Players who attended the luncheon were Larry Baggett, Wayne Walling, Dick Norton, Jim Rock, Daryl Girod, Larry Chamberlain, Doug Rogers, Layton Gilson, and Larry Paulus.

Makes 3 Trips To Rob Bank

Seattle, March 29 (AP)—A strong-nerved gunman made three trips to a bank teller's window late yesterday before calmly walking out clutching a paper bag stuffed with $22,618.

Police efforts to head him off with road blocks at bridges and ferry landings, and thorough searches of city buses in the vicinity were unsuccessful.

The scene of the holdup was the West Seattle National bank.

When the lone bandit first entered the bank, he approached the window of Teller Jack Frost.

The employee was busy counting pennies and thinking the man a customer, told him to come back later.

Some 10 minutes later he did, checked the safety on a German Luger pistol and told Frost:

"You know what I want."

Frost walked to the front of the bank where Cashier Thomas C. Erhart was standing. Both men then were ordered back to the cage, the bandit talking so quietly that other employees were unaware of what was happening.

After Frost handed over the money in his cage, the gunman turned to Teller Paul B. Allen in the next cage, asking for more. Allen said he had very little money there and closed the drawer.

Thus rebuffed, the bandit turned and walked quickly from the bank and disappeared into a parking lot a short distance down the street.

He was gone by the time police, summoned by telephone, arrived.

Rains Mud in Virginia

Danville, Va., March 29 (AP)—It rained mud here today. Pedestrians' umbrellas and raincoats were speckled with mud-stains after the moisture dried. A dust-laden atmosphere, caused by gusty March winds, had produced raindrops of mud.

Defense Ends In Bridges Trial

San Francisco, March 29 (AP)—The last word was spoken today in the defense of Harry Bridges.

James MacInnis, one of the attorneys for the CIO longshore union leader in his trial for perjury, ended the defense final arguments at noon.

"We don't want cases like this to happen again," he told the jury of eight men and four women. "We want to make our country safe for our own generation and for the next."

Bridges was indicted for perjury, charged with falsely swearing at his 1945 citizenship hearing that he had never been a communist. Two other union officers, his witnesses at the hearing, were indicted for conspiracy.

"If these men are convicted, many things will be lost," MacInnis asserted.

2 Million Germans Missing in Russia

Wiesbaden, Germany, March 29 (AP)—Two million Germans still are missing five years after the war, and of these only 100,000 are known to be prisoners, a west German federal agency announced today.

The figure does not include Soviet zone Germans who may be unaccounted for or in prison camps.

Willamette, Carnegie Tech Make Agreement on Degrees

A five-year program agreement has been reached between Willamette university and Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh, Pa., which will result in students being able to receive the bachelor of arts degree from Willamette and the bachelor of science degree in engineering and science from Carnegie Tech.

The plan, to become effective with the entering class at Willamette next September, was approved here during a faculty meeting Tuesday afternoon. Carnegie Tech had previously approved terms of the agreement.

Briefly, the plan calls for three years of liberal arts at Willamette with a major in one of the fields of science, followed by two years training in one of the branches of engineering or science at Carnegie Tech. Both degrees will be granted at the end of the fifth year.

The arrangement is considered as constituting a distinct honor and indicates further recognition of Willamette on a national basis, it was stated during the faculty meeting. To date only a half dozen or so liberal arts colleges in the entire country have been approved for this plan by Carnegie Tech.

Carnegie Tech was founded in 1905 through a donation by Andrew Carnegie, then one of the greatest steel makers in the world. The campus consists of 40 acres while the institution has an endowment of $33,000,000.

Although the Gregorian calendar was started in 1582, it was not adopted for the British Empire, including the American colonies, until 1752.

Champion Viks Exchange Guests

The state championship basketball team from Salem high, its coach and assistants made another stop on the victory tour of luncheons Wednesday when they were entertained by the Salem Exchange club.

Otto Skopli, a Viking fan outlined the progress of the Salem team through the tournament and introduced Coach Harold Hauk and his assistants.

Hauk, who described his team as a "great bunch of kids," pointed out that the tough schedule of the Vikings during the regular season play had helped bring the championship cup to Salem.

He explained that mistakes made during a tight game with Lebanon during the season provided the answer to the toughest game in the tourney, the second round meeting with Jefferson of Portland.

Players who attended the luncheon were Larry Baggett, Wayne Walling, Dick Norton, Jim Rock, Daryl Girod, Larry Chamberlain, Doug Rogers, Layton Gilson, and Larry Paulus.

General Ike Quizzed On National Defense

Washington, March 29 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today he believed "we could do a great deal more" for the nation's defense by readjusting items within the present military budget rather than increasing the total spending.

Appearing before a senate appropriations subcommittee considering defense funds for the fiscal year starting July 1, Eisenhower stressed the need for a strong air force, anti-submarine weapons, Alaskan air defense, and industrial mobilization.

He said that after the war defense officials hit upon 70 air groups in the regular army and 27 in the National Guard. He added, however, that these figures were not sacrosanct because the number of planes and men in each group was the important thing.

He said he considered a "safe minimum" the maintenance of 48 regular and 11 or 12 National Guard air groups, but that he had been told that new money to be provided would not maintain such a number.

If these are not maintained, he asserted, "we will begin to dip over the line between economy and security."

The former army chief of staff was called before the committee after he had said in a speech last week that this country had disarmed in some ways beyond the point which he, "with deep concern for her present safety," could possibly advise.

In advance of the hearing, he disclaimed any knowledge of differences with President Truman and the Defense Secretary Johnson over military spending plans.

Eisenhower, now president of Columbia university, was asked by a reporter if there were any differences between him and administration officials about the size of the defense fund.

"If there are any differences, I don't know about them," the general replied quickly. "That's what I'm down here for, any questions that senators may have."

The committee first met in a closed session then quickly decided to throw open the doors to reporters and the public generally. It had heard previous witnesses, including Johnson, at closed meetings.

Before the session started, however, Chairman Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.), had said he understood Mr. Truman wanted the Eisenhower testimony to be open to the public.

Bridges was indicted for perjury, charged with falsely swearing at his 1945 citizenship hearing that he had never been a communist. Two other union officers, his witnesses at the hearing, were indicted for conspiracy.

"If these men are convicted, many things will be lost," MacInnis asserted.

LATE SPORTS

Liska Here on Way to Corvallis

Ad Liska, player manager for the Salem Senators, reached Salem Wednesday en route to Corvallis where he will take over direction of spring training for the local club.

Liska, brown and apparently in excellent physical condition, indicated he would take the mound on occasion during the season which will open April 18 at Waters park.

Spring training will begin at 10:30 Thursday morning on the Oregon State campus with about 40 prospective players taking part.

2 Million Germans Missing in Russia

Wiesbaden, Germany, March 29 (AP)—Two million Germans still are missing five years after the war, and of these only 100,000 are known to be prisoners, a west German federal agency announced today.

The figure does not include Soviet zone Germans who may be unaccounted for or in prison camps.

Youths Confess Auto Robberies

A varied list of crimes from church burglary to car theft was written off as solved Wednesday by Salem detectives as they completed interrogations of two teen-agers who were taken into custody by Eugene police.

The youths were Gordon G. Herman, 417 East Madrona, and a 16-year-old companion, ward of juvenile court as the result of burglary and larceny arrests last August.

The pair was nabbed by Eugene police who caught them prowling through autos in a used car lot.

Under questioning by Salem detectives, the two admitted stealing a 1949 model car last Saturday, driving to Portland with the auto, and abandoning it there.

In Portland, the pair also stole another car.

In the list of crimes admitted by the youths were house burglaries, the search of Leslie Methodist church for money, burglary of Salem Heights and McKinley school, shoplifting and numerous petty thefts from parked automobiles.

A watch, one of several items of jewelry stolen from a Salem home, was traced to a Portland pawn shop.

Young Talks on Hoover Plan

Some startling figures—at least to those persons who have not taken the time to study the situation—were told to members of the Salem Rotary Club Wednesday noon. The speaker was Hal Young of the Oregon Business and Tax Research of Portland.

Young informed his audience that the federal government took out of Oregon during the 1949 fiscal year more than $414 millions of dollars in taxes of all sorts. Of this amount there were returned to the state for various causes, such as grants in aid, aid payments to individuals, crop loan subsidies, etc., $122 million or 29.4 cents out of every dollar.

The figures were released during a discussion of the Hoover plan which was characterized by Young as a "blueprint for the solvency of the American republic."

Five out of the 18 major segments of the Hoover recommendation have been adopted, said Young.

Hearing Called on Lange Removal

Eleven Marion county cattlemen have written to the county court asking that Dr. Fred W. Lange be discharged as one of Marion county's veterinarians, and that a replacement be made immediately.

The stockmen allege that Lange fails to cooperate with them, and that he is arbitrary and abusive. The protests were aimed particularly at Lange's handling of Bang's disease and tuberculosis testing. The letter stated that Lange's handling of animals caused the stock to be frightened and unmanageable.

The court has called a hearing on the situation for April 19 at 10:30 a.m. It is hoped that the complainants and Lange will be on hand to present their respective arguments.

Signing the letter of protest were Paul T. Thomas, M. F. Webb, R. C. Baker, D. S. Riches, Tom Webb, W. Jay Denham, D. J. Gilliam, L. D. Roberts, Jr., K. A. Purdy, Harlan M. Bones and O. H. Spiva.

Willamette, Carnegie Tech Make Agreement on Degrees

A five-year program agreement has been reached between Willamette university and Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh, Pa., which will result in students being able to receive the bachelor of arts degree from Willamette and the bachelor of science degree in engineering and science from Carnegie Tech.

The plan, to become effective with the entering class at Willamette next September, was approved here during a faculty meeting Tuesday afternoon. Carnegie Tech had previously approved terms of the agreement.

Briefly, the plan calls for three years of liberal arts at Willamette with a major in one of the fields of science, followed by two years training in one of the branches of engineering or science at Carnegie Tech. Both degrees will be granted at the end of the fifth year.

The arrangement is considered as constituting a distinct honor and indicates further recognition of Willamette on a national basis, it was stated during the faculty meeting. To date only a half dozen or so liberal arts colleges in the entire country have been approved for this plan by Carnegie Tech.

Carnegie Tech was founded in 1905 through a donation by Andrew Carnegie, then one of the greatest steel makers in the world. The campus consists of 40 acres while the institution has an endowment of $33,000,000.

Although the Gregorian calendar was started in 1582, it was not adopted for the British Empire, including the American colonies, until 1752.

Champion Viks Exchange Guests

The state championship basketball team from Salem high, its coach and assistants made another stop on the victory tour of luncheons Wednesday when they were entertained by the Salem Exchange club.

Otto Skopli, a Viking fan outlined the progress of the Salem team through the tournament and introduced Coach Harold Hauk and his assistants.

Hauk, who described his team as a "great bunch of kids," pointed out that the tough schedule of the Vikings during the regular season play had helped bring the championship cup to Salem.

He explained that mistakes made during a tight game with Lebanon during the season provided the answer to the toughest game in the tourney, the second round meeting with Jefferson of Portland.

Players who attended the luncheon were Larry Baggett, Wayne Walling, Dick Norton, Jim Rock, Daryl Girod, Larry Chamberlain, Doug Rogers, Layton Gilson, and Larry Paulus.

Makes 3 Trips To Rob Bank

Seattle, March 29 (AP)—A strong-nerved gunman made three trips to a bank teller's window late yesterday before calmly walking out clutching a paper bag stuffed with $22,618.

Police efforts to head him off with road blocks at bridges and ferry landings, and thorough searches of city buses in the vicinity were unsuccessful.

The scene of the holdup was the West Seattle National bank.

When the lone bandit first entered the bank, he approached the window of Teller Jack Frost.

The employee was busy counting pennies and thinking the man a customer, told him to come back later.

Some 10 minutes later he did, checked the safety on a German Luger pistol and told Frost:

"You know what I want."

Frost walked to the front of the bank where Cashier Thomas C. Erhart was standing. Both men then were ordered back to the cage, the bandit talking so quietly that other employees were unaware of what was happening.

After Frost handed over the money in his cage, the gunman turned to Teller Paul B. Allen in the next cage, asking for more. Allen said he had very little money there and closed the drawer.

Thus rebuffed, the bandit turned and walked quickly from the bank and disappeared into a parking lot a short distance down the street.

He was gone by the time police, summoned by telephone, arrived.

Rains Mud in Virginia

Danville, Va., March 29 (AP)—It rained mud here today. Pedestrians' umbrellas and raincoats were speckled with mud-stains after the moisture dried. A dust-laden atmosphere, caused by gusty March winds, had produced raindrops of mud.

Defense Ends In Bridges Trial

San Francisco, March 29 (AP)—The last word was spoken today in the defense of Harry Bridges.

James MacInnis, one of the attorneys for the CIO longshore union leader in his trial for perjury, ended the defense final arguments at noon.

"We don't want cases like this to happen again," he told the jury of eight men and four women. "We want to make our country safe for our own generation and for the next."

Bridges was indicted for perjury, charged with falsely swearing at his 1945 citizenship hearing that he had never been a communist. Two other union officers, his witnesses at the hearing, were indicted for conspiracy.

"If these men are convicted, many things will be lost," MacInnis asserted.

2 Million Germans Missing in Russia

Wiesbaden, Germany, March 29 (AP)—Two million Germans still are missing five years after the war, and of these only 100,000 are known to be prisoners, a west German federal agency announced today.

The figure does not include Soviet zone Germans who may be unaccounted for or in prison camps.

Youths Confess Auto Robberies

A varied list of crimes from church burglary to car theft was written off as solved Wednesday by Salem detectives as they completed interrogations of two teen-agers who were taken into custody by Eugene police.

The youths were Gordon G. Herman, 417 East Madrona, and a 16-year-old companion, ward of juvenile court as the result of burglary and larceny arrests last August.

The pair was nabbed by Eugene police who caught them prowling through autos in a used car lot.

Under questioning by Salem detectives, the two admitted stealing a 1949 model car last Saturday, driving to Portland with the auto, and abandoning it there.

In Portland, the pair also stole another car.

In the list of crimes admitted by the youths were house burglaries, the search of Leslie Methodist church for money, burglary of Salem Heights and McKinley school, shoplifting and numerous petty thefts from parked automobiles.

A watch, one of several items of jewelry stolen from a Salem home, was traced to a Portland pawn shop.

Young Talks on Hoover Plan

Some startling figures—at least to those persons who have not taken the time to study the situation—were told to members of the Salem Rotary Club Wednesday noon. The speaker was Hal Young of the Oregon Business and Tax Research of Portland.

Young informed his audience that the federal government took out of Oregon during the 1949 fiscal year more than $414 millions of dollars in taxes of all sorts. Of this amount there were returned to the state for various causes, such as grants in aid, aid payments to individuals, crop loan subsidies, etc., $122 million or 29.4 cents out of every dollar.

The figures were released during a discussion of the Hoover plan which was characterized by Young as a "blueprint for the solvency of the American republic."

Five out of the 18 major segments of the Hoover recommendation have been adopted, said Young.

Pictured Here Are Workers of the Browning Amusement Company of Salem in the process of erecting their merry-go-round on the parking lot next to Berg's in preparation for the free rides to be given to kiddies beginning Thursday morning. This is a part of the Berg's anniversary celebration. Seated is Fred Browning while an unidentified man works on the top.

Willamette, Carnegie Tech Make Agreement on Degrees

A five-year program agreement has been reached between Willamette university and Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh, Pa., which will result in students being able to receive the bachelor of arts degree from Willamette and the bachelor of science degree in engineering and science from Carnegie Tech.

The plan, to become effective with the entering class at Willamette next September, was approved here during a faculty meeting Tuesday afternoon. Carnegie Tech had previously approved terms of the agreement.

Briefly, the plan calls for three years of liberal arts at Willamette with a major in one of the fields of science, followed by two years training in one of the branches of engineering or science at Carnegie Tech. Both degrees will be granted at the end of the fifth year.

The arrangement is considered as constituting a distinct honor and indicates further recognition of Willamette on a national basis, it was stated during the faculty meeting. To date only a half dozen or so liberal arts colleges in the entire country have been approved for this plan by Carnegie Tech.

Carnegie Tech was founded in 1905 through a donation by Andrew Carnegie, then one of the greatest steel makers in the world. The campus consists of 40 acres while the institution has an endowment of $33,000,000.

Although the Gregorian calendar was started in 1582, it was not adopted for the British Empire, including the American colonies, until 1752.

Champion Viks Exchange Guests

The state championship basketball team from Salem high, its coach and assistants made another stop on the victory tour of luncheons Wednesday when they were entertained by the Salem Exchange club.

Otto Skopli, a Viking fan outlined the progress of the Salem team through the tournament and introduced Coach Harold Hauk and his assistants.

Hauk, who described his team as a "great bunch of kids," pointed out that the tough schedule of the Vikings during the regular season play had helped bring