Dewey Pleads for Genuine Bi-Partisan Foreign Policy

Princeton, N. J., April 13 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey assumed the role of political conciliator today in an attempt to get democrats and republicans rowing together for a "genuine bi-partisan" foreign policy.

He called on President Truman to give the GOP a real chance to help guide the current cold war, and then chided his fellow republicans for trying to rock the boat.

The former republican presidential candidate made his proposal last night in the third of his series of four Princeton university lectures on the American political system. He will conclude the talks tonight with a discussion of the nation's domestic policies.

Dewey listed strengthened bi-partisan planning as the nation's number one need in the prosecution of the cold war. He said it required "a radical improvement in the attitude of both the democratic national administration and sections of the republican party."

The New York governor said that bi-partisanship in foreign policy had been converted by the democrats into "a shadow instead of a reality."

But he said he saw some improvement in the recent appointment of the republican John Foster Dulles to serve as consultant to Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

He cautioned fellow GOP leaders that "to any sincere offer of bi-partisanship at a time like this, the republican party must of course respond."

And this, he said, was no time for rocking the boat even if it was run mainly by democrats. "Before any republican rejoices at the possible shipwreck of the foreign policy of the democratic administration," Dewey said, "he should remember that we are all in the same boat."

He said he was "profoundly convinced that American initiative can save our freedom and that of much of the world. But the hour is very late."
