

Halfway Up — Laminated wood construction of the new addition to the bulk grain elevator of the Farmers Cooperative Warehouse at Dallas is now about halfway towards its ultimate 80-foot height. The structure is under general contract to A. S. Fetterman and company, and will hold 70,000 bushels when completed. In the rear, standing as a model for the new building, is the 140,000-bushel aluminum-sheeted elevator which was built four years ago. Its facilities were soon outgrown and the addition was necessary to handle local grains, according to M. M. Giles, manager of the cooperative. (Abel photo).

Asks Removal Of County Dump

Removal of the county dump from the Macleay area and consideration by the Marion county court of locations found by a Macleay citizens committee is asked in a letter received from Norman Winslow, attorney for the group. The letter, dated April 18, points out that the Macleay committee has found two or three locations, as suggested by the county court and asks consideration of these locations. It further states that legal action may follow if no steps are taken by the court in removing the dump. County Judge Grant Murphy stated Friday that he was arranging a conference with Winslow to discuss the matter and that the court had viewed three different sites, but in some instances had not been able to contact owners. One site, Murphy said, is located on the Geer Road and was given to the court as being on the Fred Hersch property, whereas it was on the property of A. C. Hersch, who informed the court that he had changed his mind about selling the property for a dump. A second location is on the McAlpine-Macleay road and located on the Miller place. The court as yet has been unable to confer with Miller on this location. Still a third site was found by the Macleay committee. This is located on the McAlpine road about three and a half miles east of the McAlpine school and would be such a great distance from Salem that Murphy is not sure that it could adequately serve those areas just outside Salem's city limits. In noting the distance he pointed out that the Salem city dump served only that part of Salem within the city limits.

Solomon's Hearing Set at Salt Lake

Washington, April 21 (AP)—The nominations of Willis W. Ritter and Gus J. Solomon to be U. S. district judges will be considered at public hearings in Salt Lake city next month. Chairman McCarran (D-Nev.) of the senate judiciary committee has announced a hearing for May 1 on Ritter's nomination as district judge for Utah. The Solomon hearing for an Oregon judgeship has been set for May 4. Both men now are serving under temporary (recess) appointments. Members of the subcommittee which will hold the hearings are Senators McCarran, Withers (D-Ky.) and Langer (R-N.D.). McCarran said the hearings were set for Salt Lake City because it would be more convenient for witnesses to appear there than to come to Washington.

Talent Show Slated

Unionvale — The Unionvale Community club April meeting will be an educational talent show to be given at the Community club pie social Friday evening. Beaver Falls, Pa., April 21 (AP)—Dr. Charles Marston Lee, former Pacific northwest resident, became the 14th president of Geneva college yesterday. A native of Corvallis, who also lived in his youth at Pendleton and Seattle, he was installed as president in campus ceremonies witnessed by representatives of 250 other colleges. He formerly was head of the department of Greek and Latin at Geneva college, a Reformed Presbyterian school.

Truman Changes Press Meetings

Washington, April 21 (AP)—President Truman has scrapped White House press conferences as Washington reporters have known them since the days of Woodrow Wilson. He decided to move his weekly meetings with newsmen from his own office to a drab, musty conference room on the fourth floor of the old state department building next door. Newsmen no longer will be permitted to stand against the edge of the president's desk and fire questions at him with machine-gun speed. The correspondents will be seated. And before asking a question, a reporter must stand, get recognition from the president and then give his name and that of the organization he represents. White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said the changes were made for the convenience of the reporters, as well as the president. But practically none of the reporters regularly assigned to the White House favored the change and preferred to keep the conferences in the president's office. Mr. Truman was aware of their attitude beforehand since they had been sounded out in advance by Ross.

Soviet Trade Pact With Red China

Moscow, April 21 (AP)—Russia and the Chinese People's Republic (the communist government) have entered into a broad-scale trade arrangement, it was announced today. The Soviet union will exchange equipment for raw materials from China under terms of an accord signed Wednesday in Moscow. This is the first trade agreement to be announced between the two governments. The accord calls for: 1. A general trade agreement. 2. Agreement on mutual trade for 1950. 3. A protocol fixing the equipment and materials quotas which China will receive from 1950 to 1952 inclusive under terms of the 30-year treaty of friendship, alliance and mutual assistance

Rossellini Expects Green Light On Marriage from Sweden Soon

Rome, April 21 (AP)—Roberto Rossellini said today that he expects to get a green light from Sweden for his marriage to Ingrid Bergman within the next five or six days. "We intend to marry as soon as possible thereafter, but no date has been set yet, nor do we know where we will get married," the Italian movie director said.

Dr. Lindstrom Seeks Divorce

Los Angeles, April 21 (AP)—Ingrid Bergman is charged with deserting her husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, in the latter's counter divorce suit. But Roberto Rossellini, the other man, goes unmentioned. The Swedish surgeon's suit filed yesterday also specifically asked the court to issue an order forbidding Miss Bergman to take their daughter, Pia, 12, out of the United States at such times when the actress will have custody of the child. Dr. Lindstrom, who also alleged mental cruelty, stated that on April 15, 1949, his wife "in violation of her vows, left her home here" and "deserted and abandoned him." The petition explained that Miss Bergman actually left the Beverly Hills home March 15, 1949, but a month elapsed before the husband realized she had gone for good. The suit made no mention either of Rossellini or the Mexican divorce which the actress obtained Feb. 9, a week after a son, which Rossellini claims is his, was born to her in Rome. But Lindstrom's attorney, Isaac Pacht, told reporters the Mexican decree is a "complete nullity."

County Courts Discuss Issues

Problems and questions frequently confronting county courts were discussed at a District No. 5, Association of Oregon Counties, meeting in Corvallis, attended by Marion county court members Thursday. Also given attention at the meeting were possible future problems and legislation to come in the future. Approach roads and the new law passed by the 1949 legislature governing them were taken up by the group. The law sets up requirements for approach roads which make it necessary for a person building such a road (driveways into homes are included) to secure a permit from the county court before constructing such a road. It also provides a penalty for those persons not getting a permit. Coming in for much discussion was the cost of maintaining and constructing county and market roads, with a federal government man speaking on the subject. The speaker suggested first the maintenance of roads and then a four-point program. The program would include: a set-up for priority; consideration of base and drainage before construction or improvement; colling only those roads adequately prepared; and education of the public through the newspapers and constructing roads. The question of muzzling dogs was also brought up at the meeting and the Marion county court is going to check on the law and its application in this county.

Fined $100 for Drunken Driving

Albany — Garritt Vandersee, 42, Monroe, was fined $100 in city court Monday after being found guilty of a drunken driving charge. City Judge Edwin Fortmiller also suspended his driver's license. Vandersee was arrested Sunday morning in downtown Albany on a tip from Corvallis police who learned that the Monroe man was driving this way. To Represent Woodburn — Mrs. A. E. Austin has been appointed by Mayor Elmer Mattson to represent Woodburn in the Oregon Historical society recently organized in Salem. Mrs. Austin, a long-time resident of Woodburn and Marion county, is well versed in Oregon history.

Labor Government Boosts Taxi Rates

London, April 21 (AP)—London's taxi fares were boosted today for the first time in 16 years. The government approved an increase of 3 1/2 cents per trip to meet increased gasoline costs. Gasoline went up to 42 cents a gallon Tuesday after the labor government's new budget added 10 1/2 cents per gallon to the gas tax. The increase, Home Secretary Chuter Ede announced, is a temporary relief for taxi drivers pending decision on their request for all-round fare increases.

This is especially true when the teeth or tonsils are the offender, but it is also true of diseases involving other bodily organs. Doctors of course, through experience are alert to such deceptive pain. By examination they check thoroughly for the true cause. And having found it can prescribe the medicine that will alleviate it.
