The house now standing on the property will be removed by the end of this month, he said today, and construction will start immediately. A contractor has not yet been selected, he said. This is the project that was first located at 555 North Summer street, but which was transferred to the Chemeketa street location because of objections raised in connection with extension plans for the capitol zone. Coates readily consented to the transfer and got FHA approval. The state of Oregon reimbursed him for costs in his purchase of the Summer street property and preparation of plans. The apartment house will be of 36 living units.

Denied by Official

Budenz said on the witness stand yesterday that McCarthy's accusation on that score was not technically accurate. But he did back up the senator's contention that the communists exercised disciplinary power over Lattimore. A former high-ranking army intelligence officer followed Budenz to the stand and bluntly disputed that Lattimore was a communist. Lattimore, a Johns Hopkins university professor, has flatly denied McCarthy's charges against him. He withheld comment on Budenz's testimony, but is expected to make a formal reply at a public hearing next week. The inquiry into McCarthy's assertions that communists and fellow travelers have infested the state department is being handled by a senate foreign relations subcommittee. Budenz said that Browder, former head of the communist party in the United States, "referred to Lattimore as a communist."

The affidavit was distributed to newspaper offices by Lattimore's attorneys last night. Never Met Lattimore. In it, Dr. Dodd said she was expelled from the communist party in 1948 because she did not agree with certain of its policies. She added: "I have never met Owen Lattimore. I never heard of him until the present controversy. In all my association with the communist party I never heard his name mentioned by party leaders or friends of the party as a party member or friend of the party. McCarthy has urged that the committee dig behind Budenz's story. McCarthy noted that Budenz, a former communist, testified that his information about Lattimore came from men he said were high in the party—Earl Browder, Frederick Vanderbilt Field and Jack Stachel. "I think the investigating committee ought to subpoena those men and get their story," McCarthy told reporters. Attorneys for Lattimore already had asked that Field be subpoenaed so his testimony could be matched against Budenz's. McCarthy has accused Lattimore, far eastern affairs expert, of being Russia's top spy in this country. Denied by Official. Kosonovic said any solution to the Trieste problem must be "mutually advantageous" to both Italy and Yugoslavia. Violations Charged. Charging the United States, Britain and France with "grossly violating" provisions of the Italian peace treaty designed to make Trieste a free territory under United Nations supervision, a Soviet note insisted on "liquidation of the illegal Anglo-American naval base" it said had been established in the port city. The note was handed here last night to diplomats of the U. S., Britain and France by Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. Published by the Soviet news agency Tass, it charged Trieste "has been converted... into a military springboard occupied by the armed forces of the United States and Britain, which constitutes a threat to the peace and security of Europe." (In Washington, American officials said the U. S. and Britain were within their legal rights in keeping troops in Trieste until the free territory is established. They asserted Russia was chiefly responsible for the delay in setting up the territory because, they charged, the Soviets would not agree on a governor to administer the area under a United Nations mandate.) Alarm at State House—Fire equipment was rushed to the State House Friday morning. Firemen reported that a short circuit occurred in the emergency system, causing the alarm to sound. Bridge Damages Paid—Received by the Marion county court Friday was a $149.97 check from the National Farmers Union Automobile and Casualty company for damage to a bridge over the Abaque. The damage to the bridge occurred when an International 1948 truck of Bielenberg Bros. went through the bridge December 28, 1948. The bridge, known as Galloway bridge, is the second covered bridge over the Abaque located about seven miles above Silverton just east of the Brier Nob district. Production of petroleum from U. S. public lands tripled between 1933 and 1948.

"In reply to the United States government's note of April 18, 1950, the USSR government considers it necessary to state the following: "As already reported in the note of the Soviet government of April 11, the American aircraft which violated south of Lepaya, Latvia, the Soviet frontier, according to verified data was a four-motored military aircraft B-29 Flying Fortress (sic), which not only failed to obey the demand of the Soviet fighter planes to follow them and land at an aerodrome but opened fire on the Soviet planes. "After the leading Soviet fighter aircraft had been compelled to fire in reply, the American aircraft turned in the direction of the sea and disappeared. "These are the facts established by proper verification." Czech Chicago (Continued from Page 1) It said the U. S. was compelled to review the scope of the activities of Czech establishments in the U. S., and as "an immediate result" of the review the Chicago consulate general must close by May 1. The consulates normally handle trade, business and travel matters. Other Consulates Czechoslovakia also has consulates in New York City, Cleveland, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. The latest available records list the Chicago consul general as Ladislav Hynko. The New York consulate general distributes several Czech publications. Action against their circulation also has been under consideration by the state department because of the USIS shutdown. The note was a 1,000 word, hard-hitting attack on the Czech action. It charged that the communist regime is "obliged to seek excuses" for an attempt to "isolate the Czechoslovak people from the outer world" along the same lines followed by other communist-dominated countries of eastern Europe. Card of Thanks We wish to express our deep appreciation to all friends, neighbors and relatives who visited, sent cards, gifts and letters to our mother thru her illness and for the respect paid at her passing. Realtors Told of Sales by Auction

The sale of real estate by auction can be a success if the right type of property and correct methods are used in the process, asserted James Payne of Eugene during the weekly luncheon program of the Salem Board of Realtors Friday noon. Payne admitted that some auctions were failures but expressed the belief that in most instances the sales were not correctly advertised or handled. He said that auctioneering of real estate dates back to antiquity. Fees charged are usually 10 percent of the first $10,000 and five percent on anything above that. The Salem board will sponsor a real estate clinic Wednesday, May 3, when all brokers of the central valley will be invited to listen to discussions on selling, advertising, listing and financing. No One Hurt in Inverted Car—No one was hurt, even slightly, when this car turned over on its back on Highway 99E four miles north of Albany Thursday morning. The driver was Robert H. Atkinson of Portland. He told police he was trying to pass another car when his vehicle went into soft gravel on the shoulder of the road with brakes on. His car skidded and hit an embankment, bounced back in to the middle of the road and turned over. The other vehicle was not involved. (Photo by Lavern C. Keir)
