Attlee Denies

Britain is arranging to be kept informed of the Paris talks which begin next week among western Germany, France, Belgium, Italy, Luxembourg and The Netherlands. However, the labor party statement flashed a caution light on further programs for European political or economic union. It stressed that European unity was not an "overriding end in itself" and that national sovereignty and Britain's obligations to her commonwealth must come first.

No British Plan

Foreign office spokesmen have said Britain is preparing a plan of her own, but Attlee told parliament "there is no question of putting forward any alternative British proposal at the present time."

This is the nub of the British objections — commitment in advance to the plan. The fact that the French announced the plan only a few hours after showing Britain its outline caused some London misgivings.

Though not an official government declaration, the party statement was seen as an answer to critics that Britain is impeding the progress of European recovery by a "go slow" attitude toward European unity proposals.

The statement, issued by the party's national executive committee, made plain that the socialist governors fear mergers with Europe may jeopardize their welfare state program of full employment and mounting production through government planning.

It expressed the party's traditional distrust of capitalistic free enterprise.

Reclamation

The state game commission has filed a petition with the federal government for the setting aside of 21,000 acres of government-owned land in Warner valley, for recreational purposes.

This petition was filed after the state board had filed a request with the government for the exchange of some state owned land for swamp land adjacent to a number of lakes in the 157,000 acre Warner valley.

Board Visited Area

Members of the land board, composed of Governor Douglas McKay, Secretary of State Earl T. Newbry and State Treasurer Walter J. Pearson, toured the Warner valley area last week for a close up view of the situation.

E. T. Pierce, secretary of the land board, said that he does not believe development of the 1600 acres in the Petri marsh, adjacent to Hart lake, will be harmful to wild life propogation.

"There are many lakes within the 8-mile valley," Pierce said, "and the wild fowl will have plenty of watering spots in which to rest, even if the Petri valley project is approved. However, the matter is before the land board for decision."

No Progress

McColloch admitted annoyance to residents along the street and a complication of automobile traffic on intersecting streets. "The difficulty," he said, "is a basic one, caused by the location of the main line where it is on 12th street. Union street is only part of a very large picture, and should await solidifying of various plans that have been suggested by your long-range planning commission."

Douglas Fir Center Here

To swing the line along Front and Trade streets, he said, would throw it into a district twice as busy as Union street.

"If you don't renew our franchise," McColloch said, "there are only two things we can do—operate from day to day by sufferance or go through Albany."

Stressing the importance of the traffic in logs from the west side, he said "the Douglas fir industry of the world is concentrated in Oregon."

W. J. Cameron, speaking for the railroad brotherhoods, said it would be practically impossible to swing the line via Front and Trade streets because of curvature. He said the line is responsible for the employment of 221 persons who get wages of $535,892 a year. He listed Salem industries dependent on the line and said others were planning to come in if the franchise is renewed.

Hopkins said that "considering all things, the only thing we can do is put ourselves at your tender mercy."

In reply to a question by Mayor Elfstrom he said he would come to Salem any time to discuss any idea anyone may have for solution of the problem.

No More Ideas

"Will the Southern Pacific continue to work toward a solution, or will it wait for the city to suggest something?" Alderman James H. Nicholson asked.

'We have exhausted all our ideas," Hopkins said.

Alderman Albert H. Gille recalled that when Governor McKay was mayor of Salem he had said something should be done to relieve the city from the four rail lines that surround the city center.

"We have been talking about it ever since," Gille said. "Not only do we have that, but the center of the city is a maize of switch tracks that slow traffic and endanger lives. To dieselize the line is no solution at all. Elimination of the Union street line would remove 11 grade crossings."

Gille said he was informed that the SP had made the Tile road crossing an industrial crossing so the state industrial accident commission and not the railroad would be responsible in event of accident. He was also informed, he said, that the interstate commerce commission had criticized the SP severely for the number of grade crossings in Salem.

Planning Board Opposed

A Southern Pacific employe declared that "Alderman Gille has always opposed everything that would put men to work in this town."

A letter from the state capitol planning commission, opposing extension of the franchise, was read.

Alderman David O'Hara declared "there is no foundation in fact for such a letter."

"It isn't the only recommendation the capitol planning commission has made that has no foundation in fact," added Mayor Elfstrom.

Gille also commented that there was discrimination against other utilities doing business in the city in that they pay a gross earnings tax of 3 per cent while the Southern Pacific pays nothing for its franchise.

Sewage Disposal

Other projects in the list are: North trunk sanitary sewer, start June 26, be completed December 1, estimated cost $94,504. Church street bridge, to start August 20, and be completed November 1, $30,000. Madison avenue drain, start August 20, complete December 31, $82,708. West Salem drain, start September 5, complete December 31, $40,402. West Salem interceptor sewer, start September 25, complete January 15, $52,835. South Salem extension, started May 1, complete December 31, $30,000. South 23rd street bridge, start September 5, complete November 15, $30,000.

Bids were called for some time ago on the North Church street bridge, but the lone bid by the Werner Construction company fo Eugene, $43,000, was rejected as too high.

Bids were accepted by the council Monday night on the manager's recommendation for accessories of the sewage disposal plant. They were:

Two bar screens, Link Belt company, $8121; also two grit collectors, $6696, and a skimmer, $3391. Bid of the Jeffrey Manufacturing company for two sets of sludge collectors, $13,306, was accepted.

The pepper vine may reach 20 feet in the wild state, but is generally cut to half that height under cultivation.

Rushlight Wins $99,225 Suit

The state supreme court ruled today that the Rushlight automatic Sprinkler Co. of Portland can't be penalized for a $99,225 mistake it made in bidding on a Portland sewer project.

The company submitted a low bid of $429,444 on the project, but after bids were opened, it discovered the mistake. The next higher bid was $671,600.

The Portland city council then awarded the job to the Guy F. Atkinson company, the higher bidder. The city kept the $21,472 check which the Rushlight company had deposited with the city with its bid.

Today's opinion, which upholds Circuit Judge Walter L. Tooze of Portland, orders the city to give the company its check back.

The decision said that the city attempted to "take an unconscionable advantage of an inadvertent error."

In an appeal from Baker county, the court gave $1,227 damages to Victor J. Carlson, Baker chiropractor, against Emma Weber Steiner.

Carlson, who leased his office from Mrs. Steiner, sued her because she failed to provide hot water and heat as provided by the lease.

The decision upheld Judge Forrest L. Hubbard of Baker.

McKenzie Pass Open Thursday—Two major Oregon highways, closed by winter snow, will be open Thursday. The Mount Hood loop road will be open to travel between Hood River and Government Camp, F. T. Young, assistant division highway engineer, said. McKenzie Pass, between Eugene and Bend, will open at the same time, F. L. Crowe, AAA touring department manager, announced.

Dwyer of 780 Myrtle street, San Jose, Calif., signed the certificate. By filing their name in this county, the large concern prevents any other firm from legally using its name in Marion county.

Hansens File — Herbert B. Hansen, Jr., 560 Ewald avenue, and William A. Hansen, Route 8, Box 111, Tuesday filed an assumed business name certificate for Hansen Bros., a concern to deal in display advertising, color printing and signs.
