Access Roads Sought to Open Cobalt Ore in Central Idaho

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—Congress was told today that access roads are needed to open up huge deposits of strategically important cobalt ore in the Blackbird district of east-central Idaho.

Congress Plans Recess Sept. 23

Washington, Sept. 20 (AP)—The senate democratic policy committee decided today to try for a recess of congress Saturday night until Nov. 20, after the elections.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill.), the committee chairman, said he had also discussed the plan with House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) and that Rayburn was "not too much opposed."

Rayburn will discuss the plan with Rep. Martin (R-Mass.), the house minority leader, Lucas told reporters.

House leaders have been insisting on adjournment of congress without any plan for meeting again this year.

Lucas said that if the plan to quit until Nov. 20 goes through, the senate, before shutting up shop, will make the pending business the house-approved bills providing statehood for Hawaii and Alaska.

That procedure would rule out and chance for action on those measures before the recess but would give them No. 1 priority when the law-makers return.

Cobalt is used as an alloy in special steels. At present about 95 per cent of the country's requirements are imported, principally from the Belgian Congo and Rhodesia.

J. S. Vhay, a geologist for the Geological Survey, estimated that deposits of cobalt and copper ore in the Blackbird district, just west of Salmon City, Idaho, probably are in excess of 4,000,000 tons.

Vhay testified before a house public lands subcommittee on a bill to authorize expenditure of $3,000,000 in the next two years for highways in national forests to open up proved mineral deposits.

He said that the Howe Sound company of New York, and its subsidiary, the Calera Mining company, have acquired reserves in the Blackbird district totaling at least 1,750,000 tons of cobalt-copper ore.

Improved highways will be needed, however, to bring ore concentrates from the mines for shipment to a refinery at Garfield, Utah, he stated.

Vinton H. Clark, executive mining engineer for the Howe Sound company, and Edwin B. Douglas, manager of the Calera company, also emphasized the need for an improved highway in the area.

Clark put the cost of improving 50 miles of the present access road to the cobalt deposits at around $500,000. He said the road would benefit other mining companies, logging companies and the forest service itself. The Howe Sound company plans to have its concentration mill in the Blackbird district and the refinery at Garfield in operation by July or August of next year, he said.

By the time the company begins operations, it will have invested around $6,000,000 in the cobalt mining project, and it expects to produce around 2,000,000 pounds of cobalt a year, according to Clark.

Mrashall Gets Senate Approval

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—The senate late Wednesday approved the nomination of Gen. George C. Marshall to be new defense secretary.

The vote came after democrats hailed the appointment of the former army chief of staff and secretary of state as a major step in meeting a "crisis" of confronting the nation.

Some republicans opposed the appointment on grounds it violated a traditional American concept of civilian control of the military establishment and strengthened the hand of those in government who favor a "soft" policy toward the Chinese communists.

Marshall is expected to take his oath of office within 48 hours. His predecessor, Louis Johnson, resigned under fire last week. Johnson bowed out of office yesterday.

Retiring Deputy Defense Secretary Stephen T. Early is acting secretary until Marshall is sworn in.

Senate republicans made a last-ditch effort to block the Marshall nomination, but failed. Republican Senators William F. Knowland, Calif.; Arthur V. Watkins, Utah, and Harry P. Cain, Washington, argued that Earlier, Senator Robert A. Taft (R., O.), also had protested the nomination.

Onions Growers Meet Here on September 28

Onion growers and property owners in the Lake Labish district are advised of a public hearing to be held in the circuit court room on the third floor of the Marion county courthouse on Thursday, September 28, at 8 p.m.

Remonstrances will be heard concerning the amendment of Control Area Order No. 9 (onion yellow dwarf control) now in effect in the Lake Labish district, according to Frank McKennon, chief of the division of plant industry, Oregon department of agriculture.

"Discussion will probably center around the inclusion of an anti-dumping clause in Control Area Order No. 9," states County Extension Agent D. L. Rasmussen. "This clause would prohibit dumping of cull and waste onions within the area described by Control Area Order No. 9."
