

Pro Team Asks Post-Season Game in Challenge to Army

Los Angeles, Oct. 21 (AP)—As a result of his uncomplimentary evaluation of professional football, Earl (Red) Blaik, head coach at Army, today faced the unhappy prospect of having to prove it.

The colonel may now include among his dissenters about every pro coach in the country; his No. 1 pupil at Army, Glenn Davis; pro players, some college coaches, an assortment of plain citizens and the American Legion.

If Blaik's Simon Pures are better than the pros, a Legion group said here yesterday, let him prove it on the gridiron.

When the colonel wrote in a national magazine (Collier's) that the pros play "a showman's game and not football," the effect was tantamount to what happens when you spit tobacco juice on an ant hill.

Bring your army team out here, challenged Harry Myers, director of events for the Legion's Los Angeles county council. Let the cadets meet "the third best team in the national football league" in a December charity contest.

"I am sure the country will be interested in your response," wrote Myers, who went to high school with Blaik in Dayton, O. Myers went on to say that thousands of people "who know professional football to be superior to college football" will deeply resent Blaik's statements.

Davis, Blaik's most famous performer at West Point, submitted his resignation politely. "I have a sincere respect for Colonel Blaik," said the onetime Mr. Outside, now starring for the Los Angeles Rams. "However, I have found pro football to be a much more demanding sport than the college game."

Blaik's other critics weren't so polite. In fact, some were downright rude, notably Joe Stadahar, head coach of the Rams. Said he: "To point out a few absurdities, Blaik says a 190-pound lineman fresh from college can do everything better than a 250-pound pro. That's like saying an amateur lightweight could whip Joe Louis in his prime."

"Were we able to drop the Eagles and Bears from our schedule when we found them too tough—as Blaik dropped Notre Dame—we might run up a 23-game unbeaten streak, too."

George Halas, under whom Stadahar played with the Chicago Bears, merely said, "I didn't know Blaik was that stupid."

Jato C-54 Takes Off—The first Jato-equipped Coast Guard land plane, a Douglas C-54, takes off from the Oakland airport on a test flight. The plane, one of four being converted at a cost of $140,000 was airborne after a run of only 1000 feet. A former air force ship, the plane was to leave after tests completed, for search and rescue work on the east coast. (AP Wirephoto)

Greece to Receive Six U. S. Destroyers

Athens, Greece, Oct. 21 (AP)—An authoritative government source said today the United States will turn over six destroyers to Greece under its military aid program.

Four of them are old-type vessels and are scheduled to be transferred by the end of 1950. The other two are modern ships and will be handed over later, the government source said.

He added that crews already en route to America for training before they man the destroyers.

It's All Free Apple Pie for Red But Real Hard Cash for U. S.

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Oct. 21 (AP)—It's all free apple-pie for the Russians when a non-communist country begins to totter.

The more it totters, the easier it is for the local communists to take over. And, when they do, they seize property and industry, set up their kind of business, and hitch their country to the Moscow wagon.

None of the overthrow could cost Russia much, except perhaps pay for the local communist leaders and cash for bribes and propaganda. So, for little or nothing, Russia gets a new ally and satellite.

It works the other way around for the United States, which also needs allies. The U.S. can't get by with apple-pie. It has to put out cash and plenty of it to win allies and keep them out of Russia's camp.

Although a tottering country is a potential victim of communism, the U.S. can't go in and take over. It's committed to a policy of helping other nations remain independent.

But in this age, when poverty and distress give the communists their best chance, a nation can remain independent only so long as it has some kind of prosperity or, at least, some hope of it.

So it is to the interest of the U.S. which wants to stop communism and needs allies, to help distressed nations. That means pumping in cash. It's been doing that, by the billions, and will have to do more.

That brings up some nice questions:

1. How long can the U.S. stand the drain of pouring out billions without wrecking itself, which is just what the communists want?
2. But can the U.S. afford to take a chance on not pouring out the money, since it might mean losing a big part of the world to communism?

At this moment the plans seem to call for pouring out the money for some time to come.

Just heaps of money alone won't solve the problem. There's also the question of where and how well the money is spent.

For instance, if the U.S. concentrated on Europe alone and gave Asiatic countries a drizzle, Asia might wind up in Moscow's pocket.

So the planners don't have a cinch. In fact, on their plans the future of the world seems to depend.

Meanwhile, in addition to the billions to be spent in economic aid, the U.S. plans to spend vast billions on arming itself and its allies.

The Russians, of course, have to spend a lot of their money on arms, too. So in that way, at least, there's a drain on them.

In western Europe alone so far this country has spent $9,828,930,000 through the Marshall plan—ECA, the economic cooperation administration—which is the economic help for Europe.

In Asia, with its many hundreds of millions of people, in much poorer economic shape than the Europeans and in danger of being overrun by communism, this country, through ECA, has spent far less: $318,773,000.

Korea ($129,000,000); China, before the communists took over, and later Formosa ($186,784,000); Indochina ($1,957,000); Indonesia $859,000; and Thailand ($373,000).

For the fiscal year which began last July 1 and ends next June 30, congress voted ECA another $2,200,000,000 to spend around the world. Of that sum about $185,000,000 is being set

Escalator 'E' Bond Plan Made To Cut Heavy Redemption Run

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—People have been cashing in their savings bonds faster than they have been buying new ones. Most of the selling has been to finance war-scarce buying of goods. But some of the drop in "E" bond buying is because people are wondering about their value as investments.

You can't buy as much with the dollar you get from redeeming your bonds as you could have bought at the time you put the dollar into them (unless you bought them in 1948).

And at least one economist urges the treasury to tie the redemption value of savings bonds to the cost of living so that bondholders would get back their full dollars' worth of buying power.

The treasury has other "E" bond headaches, in addition to their loss of popularity as investments. Redemptions will soar from now on, to a peak of $7 billion worth of the 10-year paper coming due in 1954, since 1944 was the top year in sales.

This comes at an embarrassing time. Outstanding "E" bonds total around $31 billion. The treasury wants you to hold them, exchange maturing bonds for new ones, and buy still more out of your present income. It thinks that's one of the best ways to finance rearmament, fight inflation by reducing the money for buying goods, and keep bank credit from soaring as it would if the treasury has to borrow from the banks instead of from you.

The question is: Can the treasury reverse the present trend (cash-ins in September exceeded sales by $104 million) by public appeals and hoopla drives? Or must it offer more attractive terms? And if so, what?

The escalator bond proposal is by Sumner Slichter, Harvard economist. He told the National Savings and Loan league here this week that holders of "E" bonds and paid $31.5 million for securities with a present redemption value of $34.7 billion. "But in the purchasing power of the year in which the bonds were purchased they had a redemption value on July 30, 1950, of only $27.7 billion." This was a loss in purchasing power of $3.8 billion, or 12.1 per cent.

He urged that the treasury offer savings bonds payable in constant purchasing power. That is, if living costs go up 50 per cent after you buy a $100 bond, you should get $150 for it when you cash it in.

Critics of this proposal to tie redemption value to some such thing as the consumer price index say it might lead to tremendous inflation, rather than curbing it. They also stress the strain on the treasury, which would never know how much it really owed until redemptions were made.

Some even question whether the government has the moral obligation to guarantee the purchasing power of any investment—every form of savings has its own peculiar risk or risks.

Another proposal—given much more consideration at the treasury—is that holders of maturing bonds be offered one per cent interest for each additional four months held.

Still another is that a flat rate of interest be set. At present the return is only 1.33 per cent the first year held. This increases the longer you hold the bond until the return at maturity is 2.9 per cent a year. Some argue that the bonds would be widely attractive with a flat 3 per cent interest through their entire life.

Some propose that the treasury offer tax incentives for saving. This would allow persons to deduct so much from their income taxes if they can prove they save a certain portion of their incomes.

And there is talk of forced savings. This would use the present payroll-savings plan, except that there would be nothing voluntary about it. Your boss would buy the bonds for you on a compulsory basis and you couldn't cash them until the government says the danger of inflation is over.

Small Town Seeks Release of Doctor

Cadiz, O., Oct. 21 (AP)—Petitions are being circulated in this eastern Ohio town of 3,000 seeking the release from the army of its only full-time physician.

Dr. Donald Tippitt, an army reservist, was called to active duty recently. The petitions asking his release will be sent to Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio). Cadiz still has three doctors, but the hours of practice of two are limited because of age and the third is ill.

Bear-Napping of Mascot Stirs Up Baylor Campus

Waco, Tex., Oct. 21 (AP)—A freshman guard kept close watch today over Barney, the mascot bear, who had the entire Baylor university campus in an uproar over his "kidnaping."

Barney and his twin brother, Bailey, were stolen from the Baylor bear pits early yesterday, but Bailey managed to escape his captors and return to the campus after four hours.

Last night, as hundreds of Baylor students sought Barney, an anonymous call to the men's dorm informed them they could "find the bear tied to the eighth telephone pole south of the Waco transmitter on the old 12th street road."

Sure enough, Barney was pacing impatiently about the pole when Bill Off, bear trainer, and Charles Kilmer of Fort Worth arrived.

Any connection between the "bear-napping" and the Baylor-Texas Tech football game today was still unestablished.

Community Property Law Confuses Cat

Liberty—Has there been a kidnapping or is it just fatherly instinct?

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Seeger, who live at r. 9, Box 232 have a tomcat who has the habit of bringing home baby kittens. He takes them to the barn and hides them in the hay. He is five years old and is named Tiger.

Last summer he brought home the first one which the Seegers found, fed and cared for. Twice later he brought home kittens, but they died before the Seegers found them.

A couple of days ago he brought home a fourth. This one has its eyes open but was not able to drink milk yet by itself. Sharon Knepper, age 5, donated her doll bottle and nipple to the cause. The kitten takes the nipple, wraps both paws around the neck of the bottle, and nurses. Tiger then lies down by the kitten, keeping it warm and comfortable. No one has reported a missing kitten and the Seegers have no idea where it came from.

Can this be fatherly love?

Middle Grove Extension Unit Formed After Division

Middle Grove—A new extension unit was organized this past week with the Middle Grove unit making the 33rd in Marion county. The organization meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Harold Anglin. Most of the members of the new unit were members of the Central Howell unit, which had grown until the membership list was too large for the meetings to be held in homes. At their last meeting the entire membership voted in favor of the division.

Officers elected were: Chairman, Mrs. Lewis Patterson; vice chairman and treasurer, Mrs. Sara Smith; secretary, Mrs. Leo Hammer; publicity, Mrs. Wilbur Wilson. Named as a membership and hospitality committee were Mrs. Emory Goode and Mrs. Norman Fletcher; recreation, Mrs. John Anglin, Sr., and Mrs. William Massey; cheer committee, Mrs. Harry Phillips and Mrs. Howard Miller. Project leaders for the November meeting, Mrs. Harold Anglin and Mrs. Leo Hammer. Meeting to be with Mrs. Harry Phillips. Meetings the second Thursday of the month.

A meeting of the Boy Scout troop 42 was held at the school house Tuesday night. A new leader will be named soon.

With the second hunting season opened, several men of the community who hunt are hoping for better luck than the deer season brought. Spending several days over the week end at Vail hunting pheasants were Ernest Crum, Earl Malm and E. A. Raboin. They brought home some birds. Each year Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Valluis of Nehalem rent a large ranch in the fall for the hunting season near Vail and hunting there is by invitation.
