Shirley Temple To Quit Movies

San Francisco, Dec. 21 (AP)—In a honeymoon mood, Shirley Temple declares she has made her last motion picture, she has definitely retired from films and "I have signed a new contract—with Charles—the only contract I have."

Her husband, Charles Black, nodded. She and the Los Angeles television station executive were married last Saturday at Carmel.

Yesterday the couple met newsmen in the San Francisco apartment of the parents of the bridegroom.

Earlier in the day the young couple escaped injury in an automobile collision here.

As far as they know now, Miss Temple said, they will live in Los Angeles—then she mentioned "the present world situation" uneasily. Her husband is a lieutenant commander in the active naval reserve.

Warehouse Owners Mt. Angel Residents

Mt. Angel—S. C. Schmitt and A. F. Schmitt, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schmitt, purchased the Fred Schwab Commission Company from Louis and Leo Schwab this week and are returning to Mt. Angel to reside.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Schmitt, three sons and a daughter, came here about a month ago and have moved into the former E. G. Unger home. They lived for 15 years in Pomeroy, Wash., where he was engaged in farming.

S. C. Schmitt was manager of the Co-operative Warehouse in Redmond, Ore., for nearly two years. Prior to that he was manager of the Mt. Angel Farmers Union Warehouse company for about 15 years, with time out for a short time with the Klammath Falls cooperative warehouse, and before chosen as manager of the Farmers Union here was an accountant for a Portland Automotive firm.

After graduation from Mt. Angel college, S. C., as he is known, took a bookkeeping position with the present Mt. Angel Farmers Union Warehouse when it was still housed in the old creamery building. Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Schmitt, three daughters and a son, will move to Mt. Angel.

The Schmitts will continue the large operation in hop storage and hop supplies at the warehouse.

Young Adults Class At Christmas Party

Liberty—Rev. and Mrs. Elery Parrish were hosts to the Young Adult Sunday school class of the Liberty Christian Church of Christ at a Christmas party Tuesday evening at their home on Liberty road.

Games were played during the evening and gift was presented to Rev. Parrish and his wife. There were also gifts for each member under the tree. Mrs. Dean Withers was chairman of the social committee and Mrs. Arthur McClellan was chairman of the refreshments.

Present were Mrs. Lewis Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hammond, Mrs. Robert Evans, Mrs. Patty Thogmartin, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Helman, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Blackmore, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kurth, Mrs. Arthur McClellan, Mrs. Kenneth Miller and Rev. and Mrs. Elery Parrish.

Ask OCE Expert's Help

Monmouth—University of Portland and Pacific university at Forest Grove has requested Mrs. Dessa Hofstetter, OCE librarian, as a member of the department of education committee to evaluate their elementary teacher training program this week. Mrs. Hofstetter served on a similar committee for evaluation of the programs at the two universities last year. Her wide experience and skilled knowledge of educational librarianship brought the request for her inclusion in the committee again

DP Woman Sad and Happy

New York, Dec. 21 (AP)—A frail Latvian widow plucked with nervous fingers at her worn plaid coat, then said "I'm so happy, I laugh a little and then I cry a little."

Bewildered and excited by all the fuss, Mrs. Zinaida Supe and her four young children were greeted by a welcoming committee of state and federal dignitaries as they stepped ashore Wednesday from the navy transport Gen. S. D. Sturgis.

The 37-year-old mother was the 200,000th displaced person to be brought to this country under the 1948 D.P. act.

And she was greeted accordingly.

Camera flashbulbs popped—and so did the eyes of the Supe children, Edmund, 11, Richard, 10, Irene, and Marguerita, 7.

The careworn woman spoke nervously into a battery of microphones:

"It is not easy to describe my feelings on arriving here today. My children can look forward to a life of liberty and happiness. For the rest of our lives we will be grateful for all you have done for us."

The Supes will leave by plane tomorrow for Colorado Springs, Colo. The Catholic Daughters of America found a job for her there as a waitress.

Lodge Elects Officers

Albany—Election of officers highlighted the meeting of the Royal Neighbors of America when the lodge met Tuesday evening at the Knights of Pythias hall. Mrs. Lillian Brown was elected oracle. Other officers chosen are: Mrs. Charles Leland, past oracle; Mrs. Walter Erby, vice oracle; Mrs. Gertrude Dowling, recorder; Mrs. Joe Neely, receiver; Mrs. Golda Vehrs, chancellor; Mrs. Leonard Crispin, marshal; Mrs. Roy Adamson, inner sentinel; Mrs. Guy Adamson, outer sentinel, and Mrs. John Carriek, manager.

They saw her halt her south-bound car and run to the rail. Bernard said that as he and the drivers Walters Jones and William Dandy struggled with her, she lunged over the railing.

As she landed on the girder, Mrs. Griffin was knocked unconscious, and was prevented from falling off by Capt. Bernard and the drivers. She was pulled to safety on a rope lowered from a highway patrol truck.

In her auto, police said they found a note addressed "To whom it may concern," saying: "I have a feeling something is going to happen to me..." The note said whatever happened would be the fault of a San Francisco utility employee.

Church Celebration

Seio—The Story Hour group recently held a Christmas party and gift exchange at the Baptist church basement. Leaders for this group are Mrs. Howard Shelton and Mrs. Elvin East. E. East also helped with the entertainment.

This year, Miss Joy Hills, state department of education director of certification, is in charge of the evaluation tours this

Putnam Puts Kind of Schools for Oregon Up to People of State

Education in Oregon is faced with some very serious problems, Rex Putnam, Oregon State Superintendent of Education, told members of the East Salem Lions club Tuesday noon at the Senator hotel.

These problems include not only the kind of education to be provided our children, but also the quantity which our growing population makes necessary.

From 1940 to 1947 the school census increased about 73,500, 52,713 of whom were outside of Portland. "This number amounts to the same as if we added 11 new school districts the size of our largest 11 districts outside of Portland. The result is that current expenses to run our schools have increased from about twenty million to over sixty million dollars in this period."

Part of this increase is due to a substantially higher birth rate. Mr. Putnam went on. In 1933 there were 12.3 children born per 1000 population. In 1949, there were just about twice this number—23.8 children per 1000 population. Births tripled in number from 12,000 in 1933 to 36,000 in 1947.

"Another source of this increase is immigration of people to Oregon. We're all proud of the growth of our state, but we have to face the implications involved in having many young parents and potential parents coming to Oregon at the rate of 81,000 people in the fiscal year 1947-1948, including about 13,500 school children. These 13,500 children added about ten million dollars to our school costs—and that has been happening every year since the war.

"Before ten years will have gone by, we will have spent $170,000,000 for buildings alone, on a very, very conservative estimate, to keep the children out of the rain during their school hours. Our resources even now are stretched to the bursting point—many children are only getting a half an education because of the shortage of school-room space, for only half of them can be accommodated at a time, and the schools are run for two half-day shifts. We are not proud of that quality and quantity of education, but it is the best we can do right now."

Passage of the increase in the basic school allowance is helping some, but it has not solved the basic problem, said Mr. Putnam.

"There is no way out. Either we are going to provide an education for our children as we have become used to it, and as we are and can be proud of, or we will have to reconcile ourselves to having our children grow up without this service. The people of the state are not going to stand for that, and they should not, for it is a basic essential to the existence of a healthy, vigorous democracy, and a birthright which is due the children.

"But some people say that our economy just can't stand the strain of all this spending. Can it, or can't it?"

"We are now spending more money every year for alcoholic liquors than for public education. Oregon is apparently able economically to support liquor to the extent of 4.4 cents out of every dollar of its income, while it spends only 2.5 cents out of every dollar for public education," according to figures for 1948-1947.

"It is a question of evaluating the various needs and wants of the people of the state. When we think we can afford to spend as much money for education as we seem to think we can afford to spend for alcoholic liquor, and other things, we will be able to have an education for every child in Oregon that he needs and can have if we want him to have it."

UN Employee Has Short Visit at Independence

Independence—Anna W. Fairweather, daughter of Senator Dean Walker, was a visitor here last week, arriving by plane last Monday from Washington, D. C., where she is employed as secretary to the U. S. delegate to the United Nations Conciliation commission to Palestine.

Mrs. Fairweather spent six weeks in Geneva, Switzerland, last summer while the conciliation commission attempted to iron out the differences between the Arabs and Jews in the Holy Land.

She expects to return with the commission to Palestine shortly after the first of the year, making the trip by plane. She has been with the diplomatic service in Washington for the past two and a half years.

The National Geographic society says the best estimate of Tibet's population is about 3,000,000.
