Young Denies

In opening the hearing, Chairman Fulbright (D., Ark.), said the aim is to "show we were not talking through our hat" when the subcommittee made its charges of political influence and favoritism in RFC loan operations.

Days of Questioning

Young faced possibly days of questioning concerning his swift rise since 1940 from assistant messenger in government service to an industrial executive drawing $28,000 a year from two firms that didn't get along.

Young's wife is employed as a White House stenographer. The subcommittee in a recent report to the senate said "close personal relationships exist" between Young and Dawson in a group of those "who appear to have exercised influence over the RFC."

It accused RFC directors Walter L. Dunham, William E. Willett and C. Edward Rowe of subservience to Young, Dawson and others, including William M. Boyle, Jr., democratic national chairman. All denied it except Dawson, who has not commented.

Enemy Blocks

On the west central front, advance patrols were moving ahead north of Chipyong where a French-American force last week smashed a massive Red counter-attack.

40,000 Reds in Arc

Scattered in an arc north of the Wonju salient were 40,000 communist troops who had pulled back from the attack to lick their wounds.

U.S. Fifth air force planes roared out again Wednesday in support of ground troops.

Big naval guns rocked both coasts of Korea.

The battleship Missouri bombarded the Tanchon area in far northeastern Korea all day Tuesday. Other allied naval forces bucked strong shore batteries around Wonsan on the Sea of Japan coast for the seventh straight day.

The U.S. cruiser St. Paul stood off Inchon port on the Yellow Sea and poured heavy fire into Red concentrations north of the thawing Han river around Red-held Seoul.

Capture Chanchon

In their first big lunge since General MacArthur ordered his troops to resume the initiative, allied troops swept northward 10 miles and captured Chunchon town.

Chunchon is 10 miles north of Chechon, objective of a communist slash a few days ago on the east central front. The area has been a no-man's land.

The U.S. eighth army communique Wednesday said the allied troops had encountered no enemy troops in the northward thrust.

Field dispatches said the Reds were pulling back so fast that they were leaving equipment and dead in the snow.

A U.S. 10th corps spokesman said there was evidence of a hasty enemy retreat on the central fronts.

War Prevention

He added he knew what he was talking about because he has studied history. "I know we are going through some of the things that were gone through in 1860, 1916, and 1941," he said.

"We have to understand," Mr. Truman said, "that we are faced with an unmoral force which does not keep its agreements, which does not believe in the things for which this government stands and for which the other free governments of the world do stand."

With Mr. Truman at the breakfast were almost all his cabinet officers, justices of the supreme court and congressional leaders.

Speakers preceding the president gave him such a buildup, that at times it sounded more like a political convention than a gathering of the Masonic order.

Mr. Truman seemed to think so, too, for he began by saying:

"This looks like a fixed-up proposition." But, he said, he'd merely wanted the cabinet officers to explain what this country is up against.

Secretary of Defense Marshall called for support of the manpower bill before congress which provides for the drafting of 18-year-olds.

Marshall said the program is essential for this country's defense and that "here at long last we finally can do it (pass a universal military training bill). Let's not get led off on every little thing that comes along."

Secretary of State Acheson praised Mr. Truman's courage and said "We owe a duty to him to show similar courage ourselves."

Hubbard—The St. Agnes Altar society met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wencel Doubrava, president. Election of officers was held and Mrs. Doubrava was re-elected president. Wins $655 by Answering Quiz

Mrs. George E. Amundson, 2325 Pringle road, decided to make a cherry pudding Wednesday morning. She was cracking nuts for the pudding at about 10:20 a.m., when her telephone rang.

It was Mel Vanter calling from San Francisco on Mutual's "Tello-Test" radio quiz program.

Mrs. Amundson was asked, "Who was the Shakespeare of music?"

Mrs. Amundson promptly answered "Beethoven." She was right. She won the radio program's $655 jackpot.

For the next half hour, Mrs. Amundson was swamped with calls from friends calling to congratulate her.

Mrs. Amundson, who has five children and eight grandchildren, plans to give 10 percent of her prize to her church. The rest she'll put in the bank until she decides what to do with it.

Cracks Nuts, Hits Jackpot—Mrs. George E. Amundson, 2325 Pringle road, is shown in her kitchen cracking nuts, just as she was doing at 10:20 a.m. Wednesday when her telephone rang. She answered the telephone, was asked a question by a network radio quiz program, supplied the right answer, and was $655 richer in less than a minute.

Junior Farmers Need Support, Conclave Told

Woodburn—Steps to strengthen the Junior Farmer's Union program should be taken at once, Ronald E. Jones, president of the Oregon State Farmer's Union warned members at its 41st annual convention in Woodburn yesterday.

Jones pointed out that the junior program is now dependent upon national support and should be brought under state finances to insure its continuation.

The state president urged social security for farmers; family sized farms and small business; watchful guarding of the control of rural schools and a closer relationship between the organization and state lawmakers. He favored pay as you go policies.

Further danger to the Junior union was seen by J. Ralph Beck of the Oregon State college extension service who said that it is becoming increasingly difficult for young farmers to get a start because of a flood of urban capital seeking farm investments.

Many New Members

Lyle Thomas, state secretary, called attention to a healhful condition of the union pointing to a 60 per cent increase in membership during the last year.

Elmer McClure, Master of the Oregon State Grange, greeting the convention delegates in the name of his organization and discussed legislation related to farmers.

Junior activities were outlined to the gathering by Judy Howland of Beaver Creek.

Entertainment was provided at the Junior banquet Tuesday night by school students. A pageant was presented under the direction of Mrs. Marjorie Brewster of Salem.

Torchbearer awards presented by Herbert Rolfe, national vice president, were received by Evelyn Boje, Ronald Moeller, Clifford Moeller, Anna Barton and Robert Butler.

The senior union banquet will be held tonight. Tomorrow the convention will be brought to a close by election of officers.

Members of the house tax committee estimated that the state could weather the first year of the biennium by applying corporate and personal income tax revenues together with all miscellaneous receipts, estimated in all at $66,800,000 to meet the first year's share of the budget. Unless this budget is reduced by the ways and means committee, $86,000,000 would be required in the first year.

Deducting the estimated surplus in the property reduction fund of $31,800,000 the state would wind up its first year with a balance of $11,700,000 .

The total requirements for the second year of the biennium are estimated at $93,000,000 due to an expected increase in the basic school distribution due to additional school enrollment.

The state will have an estimated revenue from all sources of $63,000,000 in the second year to which the $11,700,000 balance will be added, leaving a deficit of $18,400,000.

There are several sources of additional revenue that may be used to reduce this estimated deficit, including $4,000,000 to be saved through an error in the estimated school census reducing the number of school children from 396,000 to approximately 360,000 for the next school year. A proposed cigarette tax would yield approximately $5,000,000 to meet bonus payments.

The committee also expects to pick up $2,500,000 from the World War II veterans fund, in which there is a present surplus of more than $7,000,000. Also a saving in the first year of bonus payment estimated at $1,500,000 is believed possible by committee members.

Rep. Rudie Welhelm, chairman of the house tax committee and also a member of the ways and means committee expects the latter committee to make drastic slashes in the budgets of the welfare department and the board of higher education which will further reduce the amount of money that must be raised by state property tax.

Attention was called by Wilhelm and others on the committee that the voters had been warned repeatedly before the last election that adoption of the revenue measures on the November ballot would result in state property taxes.

Stock Market

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—Only a modest volume of business was generated today in the stock market by rising prices.

Cross current of selling from time to time cut back many of the gains and gave a ragged appearance to the list.

Gains and losses spread out around $2 either way, but plus skins predominated.

The volume of trading came to an estimated 1,800,000 shares, one of the slowest days in weeks. Yesterday's total was 2,010,000 shares.

Buyers were the most active during the early part of the session, a carry-over from the strength shown near the close yesterday.

In the absence of strong pressure from general economic developments, individual issues in the list responded readily to corporate news.
