Beauties of the Blue Grass

Horses Are Still Kings In Dashing Circus Display

Horse lovers the country over lean forward in their seats at performances in the world's largest big top when the gay, equestrian display of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus fills the rings and the hippodrome track, and the pretty girl riders are not the attraction.

Circus to Have Long March

The Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus will unload early Thursday morning at the State Fairgrounds siding, and then move the three miles or so by truck and tractor to city airport property where the big top will go up.

That means Salem circus lovers will see something very much like an old-time circus parade.

The unloading will start at around 5 a.m., and the trucks and tractors loaded with animals, performers, equipment, etc., will move, probably along Capitol, State and 25th streets to the location on city property on South 25th.

For some years circuses have set up on State Fair property, but that location wasn't available this time because of the nearness of the fair opening date September 1.

Average of $370 Paid For Columbia Rams

Salt Lake City, Aug. 21 (AP)—Columbia stud rams sold for an average of $370 at the 26th annual national ram sale Monday. Stockmen from all of the sheep growing states and Canada crowded the sales ring at the North Salt Lake stockyards.

W. A. Denecke, Bozeman, Mont., paid top price of $560 for yearling ram offered by Shelley Brothers of Billings, Mont.

Chris Anderson, Sheridan, Mont., paid $475 for a yearling ram sold by C. W. Dorney of Monte Vista, Colo. J. A. Ririe of McGrath, Canada, bought a yearling from Pete Thomas, Malad City, Idaho, for $460.

Sale of pens of registered rams followed the auctioning of the Columbias. Other breeds will be auctioned later.

Goodwill Call Meets Rejection in Egypt

Cairo, Egypt, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Egyptian government says it has rejected a proposed goodwill call of eight British warships to Alexandria, but denies it left unanswered a British note suggesting the visit.

Foreign Minister Mohammed Salah Eddin said Egypt told the British embassy a week ago that "present circumstances would be incompatible with the projected visit."

A British foreign office spokesman said last week that Egypt had ignored the London proposal.

RAH, RAH-RUSSELL!

Jane Defies Paris Style—She'll Leave Skirts Short

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 21 (AP)—Servicemen of America, you have a friend. Her name is Jane Russell. Some friend, huh?

It seems that the sentiment of most red-blooded American men, particularly those to whom the availability of feminine charms is limited, is dead set against lowering the female hemline. Lt. Tom Hamrick, late of Charleston, S. C., but now residing near the 38th parallel, so informed AP Columnist Hal Boyle.

The lieutenant assailed the dictate of French designer Christian Dior, who has sent the skirts of his new dresses lower than the value of a U. S. Nickel.

When I informed the ample Miss Russell of the Dior dive, she replied:

"Horrors!"

She thought the thing over again and commented:

"Horrors!"

When she recovered from the shock, I asked her if she would follow the Dior decision.

"Absolutely not!" she replied.

"Down again, up again! Down again! I'm through altering my dresses. They're going to stay just the way they are now. I'm not going to change them for anybody." (Do I hear cheers from Korea?)

The buxom brunette admitted that she succumbed to the "new look" a few years back, as did all women (the sheep). "We had to," she argued. "A woman would look like a freak in those days if she didn't have a long skirt."

"But I'm not going to change now. I think the skirt is in just the right place—that is, exactly in the middle of the calf. To wear a skirt at your ankles is stupid and to wear it at your knees looks ridiculous. (Does it now, men?) The mid-calf position gives the most graceful line possible to the legs."

While rehearsing a dance number, she described her costume: "It's cut 'way up here (pointing). It's going to look as though I'm all legs, because my legs usually look as though they extend up to my neck, anyway."

I hinted that something should be done about this latest French sabotage of American male pleasures. I asked Miss Russell if U. S. women shouldn't revolt against the dictate of Paris. "Haven't they already?" she replied archly.

Rah, rah, Russell! Fooh, pooh, Paree!

San Marino Blockade Lifted

San Marino, Aug. 21 (AP)—Italy lifted her two-year-old blockade of this 26 square mile communist republic today.

Italy, which entirely surrounds the independent state, acted after San Marino agreed to close its gambling casino.

Ease Payment on Smaller Homes

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP)—Senate-house conferees on housing legislation had agreed today to relax down payment requirements on all homes costing $12,000 or less.

The provision, contained in a compromise defense housing bill which congress is expected to approve this week, would:

1. Forbid the federal reserve board to require down-payments of more than 10 per cent on homes costing $7,000 or less; 15 per cent on homes costing up to $10,000, and 20 per cent on those costing up to $12,000.

2. Force the Veterans' Administration to relax its down payment requirements on GI housing. Down payments would be held to four per cent on homes costing up to $7,000; six per cent on those up to $10,000, and 8 per cent on those ranging up to $12,000.

The VA now requires 15.8 per cent down on $12,000 homes. For non-veterans the federal reserve board now requires a 23 per cent down payment on a $10,000 home, and 25.8 per cent on a $12,000 home
