Frank Troeh Wins PITA Class A Doubles Crown

Frank Troeh of Portland added to his long list of trapshoot accomplishments by winning the Oregon PITA class A doubles championship at Salem Gun club Thursday.

Troeh scored a 92, three better than posted by John Simpson of Portland and Don Peters of Sublimity, who tied for second in class A with 89.

Frank Simpson of Cornelius won class B honors in doubles competition with a 90. John Willener of Eugene was second with 88, and tied for third with 87 were Charles Skeeters of Prospect and Dick Baker of Eugene.

An 85 was all Frank Opsal of Vancouver, B.C., needed to win class C doubles honors. Bud Harris of Baston fired 83 for second spot, while N. R. Gilbert of Bend was third with 82.

An irregular wind played havoc with the shooters most of the day.

The wind came up after a few squads had shot, hampering the shooters in later squads. Weather was the big factor in holding the scores down.

The wind made the path of the targets irregular and low in altitude. Many shooters were forced to shoot at low targets, often just a few inches from the ground.

(In doubles, two targets are released at one time, the shooter attempting to hit both before they hit the ground. Each target that is hit counted.)

In addition to the registered doubles competition, many shooters participated in 16-yard and handicap non-registered events, tuning up for the shooting to follow in the four-day meet.

In the tune-up sessions, four shooters broke 50 straight birds at 16 yards. They were R. R. Thompson of Carlton, Chris Neitling of Stayton, Orley Milligan of Coos Bay and George Jantzer of Medford.

C. C. Hiltibrand of Salem was high among the informal handicap shooters, with 48.

Class championships occupy tournament action all day Friday. The first half of the Oregon state championship will be conducted Saturday morning, with the preliminary handicap Saturday afternoon. Sunday morning will be devoted to the second half of the state championship, while the Oregon state handicap will be fired Sunday afternoon.

A total of $11,000 in prizes is in store for the more fortunate marksmen.

FAN FARE

Head-On Crash Highlight Of Auto Stunt Competition

The crash of two solid objects smashed head-on into each other with an 80-mile-per-hour impact, the hiss of steam and gasps from excited spectators will punctuate the head-on collision between two stock sedans as one of the featured events of the 1952 International Open Championship Stunt and Joie Chitwood Thrill Circus at Hollywood bowl.

The head-on collision has never lost any of its appeal to the fans, especially since the daredevils have taken to holding their positions behind the wheels of their careening mounts throughout the ordeal. In the early days they used to jump before the moment of impact, but now the stunters, members of the International Stuntmen's association, have signed to stay behind the wheels of their mounts until removed from the wreckage.

The cars start in opposite directions around the track, gradually gaining speed until each is traveling at least 40 miles an hour. Although that is the speed prescribed, the daredevils have learned the folly of easing up a bit, as the machine traveling the slowest receives the worst beating. Hence the tendency for the stunters to keep their foot down on the accelerator.

The head-on crash will vie for stop spot with the ramp-to-ramp rocket leap on a new automobile and Lucky Walters, who will blow himself up in a casket with 20 sticks of dynamite. These are only three of the 30 stunts to be performed by the Chitwood troupe with their fleet of 1952 Ford sedans. In addition to this, the Chitwood artists will compete with Bill Ward's Canadian aces, Harry Woolman's Hollywood stunt drivers, Angel Lopez Diablos Del Timon, of Mexico City, and Aki Kimura's dragon drivers from Tokyo, Japan for point standings in rollover crashes, broadjumping new automobiles and precision driving for the ISA gold trophy and a purse of $10,000 added.

Oregon State College Gets Wade Halbrook

Portland (AP)—Lincoln High School's Wade "Swede" Halbrook, the 7-foot, 1-inch basketball ace, will enroll at Oregon State college this fall.

He reported his college choice Thursday night following his graduation. Earlier he had said he would pick one of three Oregon schools.

Halbrook, who scored 1,035 points in 27 games last season and led his team to the state championship, said he thinks OSC Hoop Coach Slats Gill can "help him a lot."

Woodburn Jr. Legion Team Faces Mt. Angel

Woodburn — The Woodburn American Legion baseball team, loser in the district opener here last Sunday to Salem 2-0, will travel to Mt. Angel Sunday, June 15, for a game at 2:30 p.m.

Salem Legion Juniors Win By Forfeit

Salem's Junior American Legion team, sponsored jointly by Valley Motor company and Capitol post No. 9, won a ball game the easy way yesterday.

Salem and Parkrose were slated to play a 5:30 contest at Waters park. Only a portion of the Parkrose team showed up on time. The other Parkrose players were an hour late.

By that time, the umpires had awarded the victory to Salem by forfeit.

Brosch Takes Early Lead In United States Open

By OSCAR FRALEY

Dallas, Tex. (U.P.)—The pappy guys of par proved Friday that they weren't quite ready to give up the golfing ghost.

As the field went out for the second round of the event in American golf, there wasn't a young feller among the first five showing the way over the torrid hills and hollows at murderous Northwood club.

Front and center was a decrepit old army corporal of 40 named Al Brosch, with a dazzling 35-33—68 which put him two strokes under par and one stroke ahead of 39-year-old Ben Hogan. Little Ben, who fought his way back from a near-fatal accident to win the last two opens, was one stroke ahead of three other creaking veterans.

Plodding through the enervating heat and exasperating wind which shook apart the games of the young hopefuls, 38-year-old Sam Snead and two ancients of 44—Horton Smith and Dick Metz—were banked at even par 70.

Probably the two most highly touted youngsters in the current golfing glamor group are young Jackie Burke, the curly-haired Adonis out of Houston, Tex., and muscular young Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y. Each stepped out and sweated out a 74.

That was no better than the rounds turned in by 42-year-old Jimmy Demareet and 38-year-old Jim Ferrier, the Australian who labors with a kangaroo knee. And those 74s left the young guys a shot back of 44-year-old Tony Penna, 44-year-old Paul Runyan, who seems to have been playing since the baffie was invented, and the 38-year-old two-some of Chandler Harper and Johnny Bulla.

Brosch, who has a freckle on his pleased pan for each of his 40 years, and just about that many hairs decorating his pate, did more than just lead the first round for the pappy guys.

Here at Northwood the sixth hole is called the "Pecan Narrows." And it just about drove everybody completely nuts. It is only 430 yards, par 4, with a slight dogleg left to the green.

Well, there was only one birdie scored at "Pecan Narrows" Thursday—and that was by Brosch
