

Burnt Out—J. B. Kelley, 63-year-old Molena, Ga., farmer, stands with his mule in the middle of his drought-ravaged cornfield and looks in vain for rain. "This is the first time in 50 years that I failed to raise corn," said Kelley. Seven additional states may be added to the drought disaster area already touching 10 states in the south and New England. (UP Telephoto)

$13,000 Still Waiting for Mr. Baumert

Chicago, Ill. — What happened to Heinrich (or Henri) Baumert?

It's a $13,000 question and Walter C. Cox, probate referee, 208 South La Salle Street, Chicago, is searching the state of Oregon for the answer.

Years ago Baumert left $13,000 in the custody of others who have not heard from him since.

They say he would be about 80 years old in the event he is still living. If he is not, then his heirs would be entitled to claim the money if they can be located.

"The little that is known about Baumert," Mr. Cox said, "indicates that he was of German origin, probably born in Alsace-Lorraine."

"Search for him is being centered in Oregon because he is known to have lived and worked at an unidentified local in the state for many years."

"Should he be dead, his children or grandchildren, if any, would have first claim to the money, with brothers and sisters or nieces or nephews next in line."
