Sing and Sew Club Elects Donna Jandera

Donna Jandera was elected president of the Sing and Sew 4-H clothing club in west Salem Monday afternoon at the home of the club leader Mrs. John Glodt, 669 Riverview Drive.

Nancy Tribble was selected vice president; Alice Mittelstedt, secretary; Evelyn Lowen, song leader; Mary Lou Kosak, yell leader.

Other members of the club are Barbara Glodt, Sylvia Momyer, Celia Hogue.

The club will meet again next Monday after school at the leader's home and then every other week. By use of the sewing machine and the girls will make pot holders, headscarfs, or kerchiefs and drawstring aprons.

U. S. Destroyers at Half Mast, Matthews

Singapore (AP)—Six destroyers of the U. S. Atlantic fleet arrived here Tuesday en route to their Norfolk, Va., base after several months in Korean and Formosan waters.

The warships' flags were half-masted immediately on arrival in tribute to former Navy Secretary Francis Matthews who died October 18.

The surnames Johnson, Brown, Williams, Jones and Miller have been among the leaders in popularity in the United States but ranking behind the name Smith.

Ray Milland Hates to Act but Craves to Become a Director

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood (AP)— Found: A movie star who hates to act.

In my years of picking grapes in these vineyards, I have talked to every film celebrity.

Nearly all of them have some complaint.

Some hate the folderol that goes with acting — the autograph fiends, the cranks, the lack of privacy. Many hate their studios, the actors playing opposite them.

But I never found one who said he really hated acting. Until I talked to Ray Milland.

• • •

I found him on the set of "Love Song," where he was about to play a tense scene with Jane Wyman.

I remarked about the announcement that he will direct as well as star in his next picture. Milland has been trying to wangle a director's job for several years, and I asked him why.

"Why?" he snorted. "For two very simple reasons: 1. I think directing would be much more stimulating than acting; 2. I hate acting."

• • •

This was no wisecrack tossed off in an idle mood. I could tell by the glint in his eye that he did hate acting.

"I never have liked to act," he explained. "It makes me terribly self-conscious. Whenever I have to go into a scene, I tense up. I get a frog in my throat. I break out in a sweat and I begin to twitch all over.

"I view each new picture with dread. When I finish a day's work, I say to myself, 'Well, there's one less day to suffer through.'"

• • •

If he hates acting so, how did he get into that line of work?

"Do you want to know the truth?" he asked.

"Certainly."

The answer was simple and frank: "I was romancing a movie actress at the time."

That was 20 years ago, and his years of so-called suffering have brought him a fortune and Hollywood's highest prize.

His rye-soaked role in "The Lost Weekend" won him the Oscar in 1945.

But despite all this, he is eager to get behind the camera and leave acting to others.

• • •

Milland finally landed an actor-director contract at his old home lot, Paramount.

"So what happens?" he asked.

"Paramount was planning 28 pictures for next year. Then 14 of them were dropped, and one of them was the picture I was supposed to direct."

The actor offered his services to other studios with scant results. Finally, Bill Pine and Bill Thomas assigned him to "Run for Cover" as director and star.

"It's a beautiful script—just what I've been waiting for," Milland enthused. "A fellow came in off the street with a 30-page story. Pine and Thomas read it and loved it. The guy expected two or three thousand, but they wrote him a $10,000 check right on the spot.

"It's a Western, but with a different twist. It's as good as "Ox-bow Incident" or better. The only thing I'm not wild about is acting in it. I'd rather just direct."

• • •

He was interrupted by a call to play a scene in "Love Song." His face grew sour and he walked into the set like a boy going to school in trout season.

"Just one less day," he muttered.

Rites for Waterman

Corvallis (AP)—Funeral services were held here Tuesday for Ivan Waterman, 64, who died in a Portland hospital Sunday. Waterman was associate professor of civil engineering at Oregon State College for 33 years.

Death was due to a heart attack.

Admits Slaying — Police Chief J. E. Lawrence of Seattle, Wash., has announced that Carl E. Jones (above), 23-year-old Seattle truck driver, has signed a confession admitting the 1944 slaying of Frances Redecop, 18, when she discovered him prowling in her home. Jones said he'd been haunted for eight years by the girl's death and was glad to get it over. (AP Wirephoto)

Land Reform Law In Effect Today In Japan

Tokyo (AP) — Japan Tuesday adopted legalized land reform, one of the most successful programs of the allied occupation.

The land reform law upholding all occupation changes went into effect Tuesday.

The Japanese government bought about 4,900,000 acres and gave them to share croppers during the past six years.

Woman, 101, Always Democrat, Out for Ike

Los Angeles (AP)—Miss Lavine Stover, who is celebrating her 101st birthday today and who has been a life-long democrat, will cast her ballot for Gen. Eisenhower on November 4.

Miss Stover, who has voted democratic since 1919, when women were given balloting rights, explained that her switch is prompted by the fact she is distantly related to the general.

Chicago Livestock

Chicago (AP)—A cutback of 2,000 head in the hog market Tuesday wasn't enough to stem the tide of downdrifting prices.

An unsold holdover of 1,500 offset any stabilization which might have been effected by the reduced supply.

Consequently most sales of hogs were 10 to 25 cents lower at $18.50 to $18.65 on butchers and $16.50 to $18.00 on sows.

A top of $18.80 was paid only sparingly and was at a new low level since May 1.

Cattle were mixed, varying from steady to strong on cows and top quality yearlings to as much as 25 cents lower on most steers and heifers. Sheep were not established in early efforts.

Good to prime ed steers and yearlings generally brought $26.50 to $35.00 with some prime loads meriting up to $35.50 to $36.50. Good to low prime heifers and mixed yearlings were taken at $25.50 to $34.00. Cows topped practically at $19.00.

Portland Livestock

Portland (USDA)—Cattle 325, holdover 300; few utility beef cows 14-15; canner-cutter cows 11.50-13; Monday good-choice 1030 lb. fed steers 32.50; other good-fed steers 31.50-32; good light feeder steers 22.50-23.

Calves 35, holdover 80; good-choice light vealers 26-28; good slaughter calves 23-24.

Hogs 300; choice 180-235 lb. butchers 20.50-21; choice under 400-lb. sows 16.50-17.

Sheep 300, holdover 300; choice 118-lb. wooled lambs 21; good-choice lightweight around 22; choice-prime 81-lb. No. 1 pelt lambs 22.50; good feeders 18; good ewes 5.50-6.

Chicago Grain

Chicago (AP)—Grains moved ahead a little toward the close of Tuesday's board of trade session after showing minus signs during the earlier trading.

Wheat moved ahead on prospects Germany will be in the market soon for some wheat and the continued drought in the southwest.

Feed grains made a little headway, influenced by the action of wheat. Soybeans advanced with grains.

At the finish wheat was ⅝ to 1⅜ higher than Monday's close, December $2.38¼; corn was ½ to ¾ higher, December $1.67⅞-⅝; oats were ⅛ to 1¼ higher, December 86⅝-¾; rye was 2½ to 3⅛ higher, December $2.02¾; soybeans were ¾ to 1½ higher, November $2.98¼-.99 and lard was 5 to 17 cents a hundredweight lower, October $8.97.

Hoover Commission Savings Said to Be Exaggerated

By JOHN CHADWICK

Washington (AP) — A Senate committee credited the Hoover commission today with helping to improve the efficiency of the federal government but said the resultant savings proposals had been greatly exaggerated.

A report of the Senate committee on government operations summarized action taken by the last two Congresses on recommendations of the commission on government reorganization set up under the chairmanship of former President Herbert Hoover.

• • •

The Senate committee said the Hoover commission made 281 specific recommendations, adding that an estimated 90 per cent of these "have been fully considered and have received direct action by the Congress or its committees" — either favorable or unfavorable.

Still remaining are 28 recommendations "which will require further action by the Congress if adequate consideration is to be given to them," the report said.

• • •

The committee report, submitted by Chairman McClellan, D-Ark., took sharp exception to what it called "extravagant claims of tremendous monetary savings" that would be brought about by adoption of the commission's proposals for streamlining the executive branch of the government.

The committee said it had been unable to find any sound basis for some of these claims, which it said have varied "from an ultra-conservative figure of a few million to as much as 10 billions of dollars in annual savings."

• • •

"Even if all the Hoover commission's recommendations had been found to be of practical application, these estimates are not based on facts and are grossly unfair to the Congress," the report added.

Turning directly to the Citizens committee for the Hoover report, the Senate committee said this group had failed to offer "any support for its claim that eventual annual savings would aggregate four billion dollars."

• • •

The senators also disputed a statement attributed to the Citizens committee that economies of $1,244,600,000 were being realized as a result of the Hoover report recommendations.

"The citizens committee failed to specify the basis for such estimates and submitted no facts to substantiate its claims that savings of 800 million in the military and more than 400 million in other reorganizations were related to specific Hoover Commission recommendations," the Senate report said.

The committee report said, however, that the Hoover Commission studies "served to focus public attention upon the many deficiencies in the operations of the federal government which the Congress had been unable to correct because of the lack of any general or united support."
