For the music, Wayne Meusey played the organ and sang.

Mr. Kloos gave his daughter in marriage. Her wedding dress was of satin and lace designed with slight train. The bodice was fashioned with round neckline and long sleeves pointed over the wrists. The lace formed a deep yoke that extended over the shoulders, and on down the front of the skirt on either side of an accordion pleated tulle panel. The same lace was in a wide border around the hem. Sequins and seed pearls were worked in design on the lace. The bride wore a pearl and diamond pin on a chain, the ornament having been worn by her great grandmother at her wedding. The fingertip veil of net was arranged from a small cap of satin covered with lace and trimmed with seed pearls and sequins. The bride carried a white Prayer book with American Beauty roses on it.

Misses Darlene Jardee of Portland, Patricia Condon of Portland and Mrs. Leonard Giesler were the bridesmaids. All wore satin frocks in American Beauty rose shade and their nosegays were of violets, shattered pink carnations and the roses matching their dresses.

The bride's mother wore a purple lace over satin dress with a hat of purple lace trimmed with roses in pink and purple shades, purple accessories and a corsage of violets and pink roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue crepe dress with matching bolero and rhinestone button clip, pink and navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Charles H. Kloos, brother of the bride, was the best man. Ushering were David Nudo of Portland, Frank Friday of Forest Grove and Robert Wilson of Portland.

At Reception
The reception was arranged for later this afternoon at the Catholic Center. The bride's table was set with a pink satin cloth. The heart-shaped cake was topped with a nosegay of violets and shattered pink carnations and American Beauty roses. Nosegays of violets and pink candles also decorated the table. The punch table was covered with an American Beauty rose satin cloth with pink ribbons at the corners.

FROM Peg in Washington

BY ALENE (PEG) PHILLIPS

Washington, D. C.

Dear Marian:

Again it has been old home week. Miss Mathilda Gilles, of Salem, and Chester Squire, of Ashland, who are in the east for the meeting of the National Association of Elementary Principals, dropped in. "Tillie" is third vice president of the National association and a former president of the Oregon group. Mr. Squire is president of the Oregon association this year. After some meetings here, they will attend the conference in Atlantic City. Paul McKee, Portland, who will head one of the groups to study the Mutual Security program overseas for Harold Stassen, was a luncheon guest of the Secretary one day and the following day Miss Dorothy Johnson, Portland, Mr. McKee's secretary, who came east with him and Mrs. McKee lunched with me. Our joke was that after talking over the telephone in Oregon with each other many, many times, and exchanging letters, we had to come to Washington to actually meet.

Stanley Earl, city commissioner of Portland, well-known in Salem, and Tom Michos, owner of the Jolly Joan restaurant in Portland, were in for a chat. Mrs. Henry Roe Cloud, West Linn, Oregon and American Mother of 1950, discussed Indian problems with Mr. McKee and as she left ran into some friends among a group of Yakima Indians who were calling on the Secretary with Congressman Hal Holmes, of Yakima. L. D. Winters, Portland, brought Admiral Merila O'Neill in for a luncheon meeting with Mr. McKee, C. C. Curt, Pendleton; Walter Duffy, Portland; Clyde Todd, Tule Lake; and State Senator Truman Chase added to the Oregon list of callers this week.

Salem Zionians will be interested in the report I received today of a former member, Miss Edna Lucker. She is now in Buffalo and getting along splendidly, renewing acquaintances with former friends in that city. She may be in Washington for Easter, according to her sister-in-law, Mrs. Marquerite Lucker, who called me to extend a welcome to Washington.

Miss Ethel Johnson, ex-Oregonian who still votes in Oregon, but who has lived here for many years, was a luncheon hostess for me recently. Her mother, Mrs. J. R. Johnson, Corvallis, is visiting Ethel now. Ethel's brother was Earle Johnson, who represented Benton county in the legislature so ably several years ago, and who lost his life in 1948 in the airplane accident that took the lives of three other members nominated to serve the 1949 session. Mrs. Johnson will remain here until Easter and visit in Kansas and California enroute home. Ethel has had interesting assignments here, serving first as secretary to Congressman Homer D. Angell, then doing special research work, later assisting on the McCarran Committee, and now on a special job for the American Enterprise Association while awaiting processing for a State Department assignment under the famous Mrs. Shipley, in the Immigration Division. Ethel left the Washington scene to work during the campaign last fall on the Nixon train.

R. H. Baldock and Ray Conway were here for lunch with Secretary and Mrs. McKay, with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Singer, of Washington, as special guests. Mr. Singer is head of the local office of the American Automobile association, of which Mr. Conway serves as Portland manager.

One of my interesting callers this week was Baroness Constantine Stackelberg, who for all of her title is a down-to-earth Oregonian with a glamorous background of experience since the days when she was a Theta at Oregon State in the thirties, as Garnett Butler. A columnist for Florida papers, a lecturer, writer, and traveller, she knows the Washington story thoroughly and is refreshing in her comment on its intricacies, stratas, and the social whirl. A good friend of the Lowell Stockmans, she mentioned that she missed them now that they have returned to Oregon. She spent ten years in the Orient and hopes to return to Hong Kong for another visit and more material for her lectures.

Every Oregonian one runs into here this week says "See you at the Oregon State Society" dinner Friday night and of that I'll write later.—Peg.
