These talks, the governor said, reveal that no real emergency exists. He said that it appears that the federal communications commission's ruling is "not a matter of special order."

"There are two steps that a commercial user would have to take," the governor said. "First, he would have to apply for modification of the order setting aside channels for non-commercial use. Second, if this were done, application would then have to be made for the channel."

To Get a Hearing
"All parties, including the states, would be given an opportunity to a hearing," Gov. Paterson continued. "It is Senator Cordon's opinion that if Oregon notifies the FCC of our interest, and of the fact we are studying the problem, we should be given every opportunity for a hearing."

The governor cautioned earlier that the state should approach the problem of educational TV carefully. Today, he added: "Many things have to be answered—cost, feasibility, operational mechanics. . . . We need to know all we can learn before we can determine whether it is a good and proper thing for the state."

Those who conferred with the governor late Monday were Rep. Maurine Newberger, chairman of the house education committee; Senator Robert Holmes, chairman of the senate educational committee; Senator Eugene Marsh, president of the senate; House Speaker Rudie Wilhelm, Jr.; James Morris, director of KOAC, and Elmer McClure, master of the state grand.

Albany Gets TV Network

Albany, Ore. (AP)—Work on a coaxial network to distribute television programs here will start about April 1, an official of the corporation sponsoring the project said Wednesday.

Chet Wheeler, manager of radio station KWIL and president of the Albany Television Distributing corporation, said a 90-foot antenna would be erected atop the six-story Albany hotel to receive programs from KPTV, Portland. Cables would be mounted on existing power and telephone poles.

Residents of this city can receive KPTV now only by installing 50 to 75 foot antennas costing $100 to $150 and even then the reception is poor.

An ordinance granting the corporation a franchise was passed on first reading Wednesday. The ordinance set a maximum installation charge of $150 for residents and $200 for business houses. Maximum service charges are $3.50 and $8.

Evajeau (Left) and Susie have begun the practice of "brotherhood" early in life. Evajeau, a blonde, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. David Blum, and Susie, an Oriental of undetermined parents, pose in front of the altar of the Keizer Church of the Nazarene. Susie is to be adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Nebrija, 3780 North River road.

Oriental Child Happy In Peter Nebrija Home

By FRED ZIMMERMAN
altar for a picture. Nebrija, a welder by trade, has his roots in the Philippines but the name indicates he is of Spanish extraction. The family has an attractive home on North River road. Currently Nebrija is unemployed, because of a slack season in his trade. The Keizer Nazarene church has a membership that includes a number of different nationals.

Brotherhood is not a matter of a single week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Nebrija, 3780 North River road, but extends over the entire year. In addition to having two children of their own, a daughter of 17 and a son of 10, the Nebrijas have a second boy living with them as well as a 2½-year-old girl whom they expect to adopt. The little girl, named Susie, is from the Waverly Baby Home. Her parentage is unknown. And one foster parent has been unable to determine her nationality, beyond the fact that she is an Oriental—perhaps Korean or Japanese.

Susie was taken to the baby home shortly after being born. She has fitted in well at the Nebrija home, where she is loved as one of their own flesh and blood. Susie has the appearance of being from good Oriental stock, with well-formed features and of cheerful disposition. Susie has become attached to the 18-month-old daughter of Rev. and Mrs. David Blum of the Keizer church of the Nazarene. Evajeau Blum is a blonde. They play together with apparent enjoyment, but were a bit shy when they confronted a camera in front of the church

Pay Hikes

After defeating several motions by Senator Gibson for reductions in his sub-committee's recommendations, the committee by a seven to five vote approved increases to $10,000 a year for the secretary of state, the state treasurer, the attorney general and the superintendent of public instruction.

Senator Holmes and Senator Walker both spoke in favor of the increase in the salary paid the superintendent of public instruction, now receiving $7,920 to $10,000, explaining that many extra duties have been placed on this officer during the past few years, making him one of the most important officials in the state.

Sen. Gibson abandoned his role of dissenter in the case of the commissioner of labor and made an unsuccessful effort to bring this office in the $10,000 a year bracket. But he was unsuccessful in this move too, the committee voting to pay the labor commissioner $9,000 a year in place of $7,920 now paid.

Wrangle Over Judges
The longest argument of the session came over the proposed raise for supreme court and circuit court judges. Rep. Alva Goodrich, Bend attorney, moved to raise the supreme court justices to $12,500 but this move was defeated. Goodrich contended that the supreme court justices were career men who could seldom re-enter private practice after serving on the high court. The committee, however, adopted the recommended salary of $12,000 in place of $10,450 now paid.

It was Rep. Goodrich who made the main plea for an increase for the circuit judges in the state, in fact he moved to boost the salary of the judges to $11,000 in place of $10,000 recommended by the sub-committee. Rep. Francis Ziegler, of Benton county motion to amend by making the salary $10,500 was adopted.

Before this was done however, several members of the committee complained about the uneven case load carried by various judges, and Sen. Walker

'Skyscraper' Tax

Both President of the Senate Eugene E. Marsh and Speaker of the house Rudie Wilhelm, Jr., are calm and cheerful and mighty easy to get along with. But the ire of both legislative leaders was aroused to fever pitch the other night when for the second or third time, witnesses to hearings were unable to find a place to sit or stand in hearing rooms and were forced to stand in the corridors of the capitol. The hearing rooms available were just so small to accommodate the people who wanted to attend them.

But down in the basement of the capitol is a large room, designed as hearing room for the legislature. For years it has been occupied by a section of the secretary of state's office and of late a small force from the department of finance. At the opening of the session President Marsh intimated that this room might be taken over by the legislature for which it was intended.

But the sight of people, who had traveled many miles to attend a hearing standing in the hallways, unable to get into the hearing room, brought some speedy action. Jointly, Marsh and Wilhelm, served notice on the respective heads of the departments having workers in the hearing room, to "get out, and get out right now." They moved and legislature, for the first time in years, has a large hearing room.

Contract Awards—Associated Oil was given the contract for providing the county's requirements of gasoline during the next 12 months period during a county court hearing Thursday. The bid of Associated on gasoline is a fraction of a cent more than 21 cents a gallon for delivery at the county shops where storage facilities are sufficient to handle a truck and trailer load.

Held for Larceny—Bill Joseph Wagner, 1245 Mill street, was arrested by a Marion county deputy sheriff Wednesday on a Thurston county, Washington, warrant charging petty larceny. He will be held for Washington authorities.

The proposed increases for state employees would amount to an additional $1,125,212 for the next biennium and represents an increase of 0.92 per cent over the present total salary paid, or $122,081,083.28.
