Weinberg Wins Japanese Crisis Half Of Case

Washington (AP) — Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff today dismissed one of two perjury charges against Dr. Joseph W. Weinberg, the so-called "Scientist X."

Holtzoff acquitted Weinberg of the charge that physicist lied when he told congressional investigators he had never attended any communist meetings except one. Holtzoff said the prosecution had failed to present sufficient evidence to back up the charge. The case against Weinberg now has been reduced to the single question of whether he lied when he told the House Un-American Activities Committee that he had never been a communist. The defense immediately moved for dismissal of the count.

Valley Needs Series of Dams

The Willamette valley urgently needs a multi-purpose system of dams which would be built primarily for flood control and irrigation but which would serve several other important purposes, Ivan Oakes, executive secretary of the Willamette Basin Commission told the Kiwanis club today at the Hotel Senator. Members invited farmer friends as guests.

Half a million acres can be irrigated from the dams built and proposed to be built, Oakes said. Other benefits will be re-creation, a better supply of domestic water, urgently needed in several localities, navigation, abatement of stream pollution, and power.

Several farmers asked questions concerning costs, whether land owners would be obligated to buy water for irrigation, rights of way, time required to secure irrigation water, etc.

February Operations Double at Airport

Operations at McNary field during the month of February more than doubled those of the previous month.

Total operations for February stood at 2,116, when the reports of the CAA control tower were completed, while during January there were only 914 operations. February, 1933, also topped the operation figures for those of February, 1932, when they stood at 1,652. Total operations for February, 1931, however, were 3,860.

Civilian planes showed a considerable increase in February, with 551 civilian itinerant and 588 civilian local. Other figures were 400 navy local, 179 navy itinerant, 318 air carriers, 40 air force itinerant, and 42 air force local.

Decision Asked

The board of control has requested an appropriation of $500,000 from the legislature, a request that is now before the joint ways and means committee. Of this amount, it was anticipated that $371,000 would be utilized for the purchase of the church property.

Governor Paul Patterson said that he did not believe the board should take final action until it had a recommendation from the capitol planning commission. He agreed, however, that a conference with the church committee as soon as possible.

Francis Keally, New York architect, who designed the state capitol, and who is retained as a consulting architect for the development of the capitol mall, is known to oppose allowing the church to remain in the mall area.

Reason for Belton Smile Found Out

State Senator Howard Belton of Clackamas county was wearing a broad smile the last day or two and Tuesday his fellow senators found out the reason.

Late last Saturday night his daughter, Mrs. R. D. Berkeimer of Canby, presented her husband with a 10 pound, 13 ounce baby boy at the Emanuel hospital in Portland. "Everything we raise in Clackamas county wins top prizes," the senator declared, "and my new grandson is a prize winner, too."

Senate Group

Senate Republican Leader Taft, asked if the changed resolution didn't "mean a floor fight" replied: "The would be a floor fight anyway."

Taft presumably meant there were Republicans who would have fought for a change if the resolution had not been amended in committee. Taft himself and others had taken a stand that the resolution should make clear congress was not by implication giving approval to the agreements the Roosevelt and Truman democratic administration made with Russia.

Queen's Right to Name Challenged

London (AP)—Four Laborites challenged in the house of commons today the queen's right to style herself "Elizabeth II" in Scotland.

They, and Scots Nationalists generally, say it should be Elizabeth I, holding that the first Queen Elizabeth did not rule Scotland. The government hoped to ram through a bill which gives the queen the styles and titles: "Elizabeth II by the grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Ireland and of her other realms Great Britain and Northern Territories, queen, head of the Commonwealth, defender of the faith."

Ike Pins War

Afterwards, Van Fleet was Eisenhower's guest at a luncheon attended by military and congressional leaders. Van Fleet arrived at the Washington National airport in a cold drizzling rain and after brief ceremonies he was driven to the White House accompanied by Gen. Bradley.

It was met at the airport by Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, along with members of the corps, representatives of the President and members of the United Nations.

An honor guard of several hundred troops of the three armed forces and a saluting battery welcomed Van Fleet as he stepped from his plane. Van Fleet reviewed the troops pausing several times to say something to men in each of the units. He also greeted each of the diplomats and military officials with a handshake.

Secretary Wilson contributed a new note to formal military protocol when he kept his civilian hat on but brought his hand up to a military salute.

Bids Asked for Bridge On South Umpqua

Portland (AP)—A bridge to open the South Umpqua river on Buckeye Creek road 15 miles northeast of Tiller will draw bids to March 17, the bureau of public roads reported Tuesday.

It is to be a 120-foot reinforced concrete bridge. The road leading from it up Buckeye Creek is to be built by the company harvesting timber in the area. W. H. Lynch, division engineer, said.

Coon Introduces Stored Food Bill

Washington (AP)—Exemption from federal transportation taxes for temporarily stored food intended for export was proposed Monday by Rep. Sam Coon (R., Ore.).

He said that during harvest periods fruit growers sometimes are required to put carload lots of fruit in temporary storage outside the producing area. Under present regulations, this fruit is taxed.

These growers are entitled to the same consideration that is given growers who store fruit in warehouses in the growing area and then export it untaxed, he said.
