the awards presentation ceremonies.

The event will be held at the RKO Pantages Theatre in Hollywood March 19, and will be broadcast and televised over the combined facilities of the National Broadcasting Company with the RCA Victor division of the Radio 1. If the set is completely dead, make sure the plug did not get pulled out of the wall by "Junior" or during house cleaning. (Schulman admits this may sound obvious, but says lots of people forget it).

2. If you have a picture but no sound, check the volume considerable and will eave the chassis in the set protected by the cover.

In obtaining Hope for the program the Academy will have the services of one of the first motion picture stars to claim added fame in television, Green pointed out. Hope has been appearing regularly on NBC television for the past three years.

Hope is a veteran at emceeing Academy Award presentations, having acted in that capacity for the 1939, 1944, and 1945 awards. In 1940 he was given a special award by the Academy for his unselfish service to the motion picture industry, and in 1944 he was granted a life membership in the Academy for many services to the organization.

Hope is currently in New York, where he will be honored by the Friar's club for his 15 years as an outstanding radio performer.

Nominations for the various categories were drawn from a list of 435 feature pictures declared eligible on the basis of seven consecutive days of playing time in Los Apgeles. The five nominations in each group are:

Best production: "The Greatest Show on Earth" (DeMille-Paramount); "High Noon" (Stanley Kramer-United Artist); "Ivanhoe" (MGM); "Moulin Rouge" (Romolus Films-United Artists); "Quiet Man" (Argosy-Republic).

Best performance by an actor: Marlon Brando in "Viva Zapata" (20th Century-Fox; Gary Cooper in "High Noon"; Kirk Douglas in "The Bad and the Beautiful" (MGM); Jose Ferrer in "Moulin Rouge;" Alec Guiness in "The Lavender Hill Mob" (Rank-UI).

Best performance by a supporting actor; Richard Burton in "My Cousin Rachel" (20th Century-Fox); Arthur Hunnicutt in "The Big Sky," (Winchester-RKO); Victor McLaglen in "The Quiet Man"; Jack Palance in "Sudden Fear" (Joseph Kaufman-RKO); Anthony Quinn in "Viva Zapata"

Best performance by an actress: Shirley Booth in "Come Back, Little Sheba" (Wallis-Paramount); Joan Crawford in "Sudden Fear;" Bette Davis in "The Star" (Bert Friedlob-20th Century); Julie Harris in "The Member of the Wedding" (Stanley Kramer-Columbia); Susan Hayward in "With a Song in My Heart" (20th Century-Fox).

Best performance by a supporting actress: Gloria Gra-hame in "The Bad and the Beautiful;" Jean Hagen in "Singin' in the Rain" (MGM); Colette Marchand in "Moulin Rouge;" Terry Moore in "Come Back, Little Sheba;" Thelma Ritter in "With a Song in My Heart."

Televiewers and radio listeners will join the elite of the motion picture world at the RKO Pantages Theater in Hollywood as the sealed envelopes containing the name of the winner in each category is drawn. The "Oscar" ceremonies have been broadcast since 1930, but this will be the first year televiewers can watch the awards.
