Leadership Studied; 3 Groups Initiate Members

By BARBARA JACKSON
Capital Journal Correspondent

Willamette students are busy this week as the school is preparing for concerts, plays, and other programs. Six weeks tests are just around the corner, too, keeping life busy.

Leadership training program will begin Saturday in the State library with a speech on "Why Leadership?" Following at 10 there will be a discussion on "What Is Leadership?" stressing the qualities and responsibilities of leadership.

After a coffee break at 11:15, effective types of leadership will be discussed. At 2 p.m., discussion groups, led by students of the university, will begin. They will include "campus communications," "program planning," and "parliamentary procedure."

Three other discussions will be held later in the day. They will be "organization finance," "student-wide participation," and "orientation programs." The conference will be brought to a close with an informal banquet at Lausanne hall. State Senator Phil S. Hitchcock, Klamath Falls, will be the featured speaker, according to Donna Means of Roseburg, chairman of the leadership training program.

Ten members of the Willamette university forensic squad will participate in the annual intercollegiate tournament of champions, to be at Linfield college next week. Representing Willamette are Tom Scheidel, Jim Wood, Lewis Hampton and Caroline Matter of Salem; Paul Johnson of Albany; Fenton Hughes of Hillsboro; Marian Rutledge of Portland; Dick Lewis of Lebanon; Gay Kent of Deadwood, S.D.; and Ray Owens of Boise, Ida.

"Pygmalion," a play by George Bernard Shaw, will be presented in Waller hall tonight, tomorrow and Saturday at 8:15. According to Director Dean Graunke, the production style will be a "severely modern and experimental treatment of staging." Teddy Ruth Gordon of Salem will fill one of the leading roles, and John Bone, also of Salem, will play the masculine lead.

Twenty-five pledges of Phi Beta Phi were initiated in ceremonies held over the weekend. The new members include Marjorie Little, Coralie Doughton, Sharon Laverty, and Helen Callaghan, all of Salem.

Alpha Chi Omega initiated six this weekend, too. Those who now wear the pin of Alpha Chi include Nancy Taylor and Margie Knochenhauer, both of Salem.

Initiated into Sigma Alpha Epsilon this weekend were 11, including from the area, Dick Roy of Newberg.

A heartbreaking game for the Willamette Bearcats took place Saturday night when Lewis and Clark beat Willamette by nine points to win first place in the conference. Willamette took second place.

A sum of $25 has been added to the tuition price for students entering Willamette, and the fee is an "incidental student fee." The increase will go toward raising the salaries of the faculty, which will be made effective next September. The fees will be effective in February of 1954.

Pledged to Mu Phi Epsilon, national music honorary for women, Tuesday, were Amy Girod, Coralie Doughton, Audrey Roblin and Marvel Coleman, all of Salem; Lollie Coffey of Portland; Catherine Kennedy of Medford; Rosemary Weaver of Grants Pass; Doris Aspinwall of Bend; Jean Thom-

Brown-Smith Rites At Jefferson Home

Jefferson — The home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith on the Greens Bridge road was the scene of a wedding Wednesday night when their daughter, Miss Paula Mae Smith, was wed to Paul A. Brown, son of Mrs. Nola Brawn of Corvallis. The Rev. Mervin McGill, a friend of the family, read the double ring ceremony at 7 o'clock. Pastel shaded stocks and potted ferns formed the background for the ceremony.

The bride wore an afternoon dress of silver blue taffeta and a white orchid. Miss Ruth Hart, a niece of the bride, was her attendant. She wore silver pink taffeta and her corsage was pink roses and bouvardia.

Wilmer Roth of Albany was the bridegroom's attendant. Mrs. Paul Smith, mother of the bride, wore a navy blue taffeta dress and a purple orchid. The mother of the bridegroom wore a black crepe dress, also an orchid.

A reception followed the ceremony. Mrs. Smith was assisted in serving by her daughter, Mrs. Henry Thiessen, and Miss Irene Lansing.

The couple motored to California on a wedding trip and will be at home in Albany.

The bride is a graduate of Jefferson high school in the class of 1951. She is an employee of the Ice and Storage company and will continue her work there. The bridegroom recently returned from Korea after two years service in the armed forces. He is a carpenter in Corvallis.

Handling of Stalin News Shows Confusion, Doubt in Kremlin

Editor's Note: William L. Ryan, AP's Russian-speaking specialist on the news of communism, has long been a close student of what will happen in the Soviet Union when Stalin dies. Now observing communist operations in Europe, Asia and Africa, he carries these views from Paris on the Soviet dictator's illness and what it presages.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Paris (AP)—Moscow seems to be playing it straight with the story of Stalin's illness, and this in itself indicates there is division and uncertainty among the rulers of the Soviet Union.

If there were perfect concord among the powers of the Kremlin—that is, if there were someone at the top whose authority was unquestioned—it seems unlikely that Stalin's illness, apparently his final one, would have been announced so quickly.

The stroke was sudden. Indian Ambassador K. P. S. Menon saw the Soviet leader only a few days ago and reported him in apparent good health.

Soviet authorities held up the announcement of his illness only two days. For most Soviet leaders, such a grave illness is usually announced in the obituary.

Maybe the would-be heirs were unable to hold the news up long and feed such a profound shock to the Soviet public in small doses. While one faction may be pre-eminent at the present time, the chances are it is far from secure in its pre-eminence.

As at the time of Lenin's death, there is every chance for a struggle for Stalin's mantle, even though he has appeared to have chosen Deputy Premier Georgi M. Malenkov as his successor. But the man who succeeds Stalin will need a mighty buildup.

Stalin was all-powerful in a way Lenin never was. Those under Stalin have been virtually robots. Under Lenin there were many who were not—Trotsky, Bukharin, Kamenev, Zinoviev and Stalin himself, to name a few.

In a struggle for power, it would be dangerous for the Soviet Union if Stalin lingered on, only just alive. This would permit the rumor mills to get in motion as they do quickly in totalitarian countries. It would generate a feeling of insecurity among the people, and above all, among members of the communist party, high and low.

In a country like Russia, such a feeling could lead to an explosion. If Stalin hovered between life and death, there would be suspicion, gossip and quarrelling in advance of the succession, instead of a sudden stroke which could present the country with an accomplished fact—a new leader. But for a new leader to seize power before Stalin actually has passed on would be dangerous, like blasphemy to those in the party and state who believed in Stalin's role as a demigod.

So it seems likely that behind the scenes there will be a struggle for power, if, in fact, it is not already in full tilt. Malenkov thus far may be assumed to have the upper hand, but to keep it he may have to out-Stalin Joe. A situation like that could lead to fearful bloodletting.

If Malenkov proves a winner, the West can look for a most cautious regime while he consolidates himself and his adherents—a regime, in fact, which could be almost conservative. Malenkov would take no chances with his power.

His adherents are among the younger element in the communist party.

Memphis, Tenn. (AP)—A 325-pound divorcee was convicted last night of repeatedly beating the 90-year-old, 90-pound widow who worked as her housekeeper. A Criminal Court jury reduced the charge against Miss Rosalie Rice, 49, to assault with intent to commit voluntary manslaughter and recommended a sentence of not more than 1½ years in prison.
