Lemon-Glazed Carrots
Ingredients: 1 bunch (7 to 10) medium-size carrots, 1/2 cup boiling water, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup lemon juice (1 large lemon), 4 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Method: Pare or scrape carrots and cut into coin-shaped slices about 1/4-inch thick. Put in small saucepan and pour water over them; add salt, cover and cook rapidly until barely tender—about 5 minutes. Remove carrots with slotted spoon. To liquid remaining in saucepan, add lemon juice, sugar and butter; stir until sugar is dissolved. Boil gently, stirring several times, until sauce is reduced to about 1/4 cup. Add cooked carrots and reheat rapidly, watching carefully, until sauce is almost entirely reduced and carrots are glazed; this will take only a few minutes. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Some Notations

By M. L. F.

Interesting visitor in Salem over Sunday was Mrs. John Snellstrom of Eugene who returned recently from a trip around the world. . . . Mrs. Snellstrom has many friends in Salem, her husband, the late Representative Snellstrom, having served several terms in the legislature. . . .

Visitor in Oregon this week is Tillie Lewis, president of Flo-till Products and the "Woman of the Year" in business in the 1951 poll of Associated Press among the nation's women editors. . . . Mrs. Lewis is in Portland on a trip to tell women with weight problems how to lose their excess pounds, but not their patience. . . . Her company is producer of a new line of diet foods that have been "taking the country" — enough so, anyway, to make a $20,000,000 canning business from a girlhood dream for Mrs. Lewis. . . . Tuesday afternoon the women editors and food page editors in Portland and nearby will be guests at a party honoring Mrs. Lewis at the Multnomah hotel between 4:30 and 7 o'clock. . . .

An unusually pretty tea table was the one at the tea for which Mrs. Paul L. Patterson, Oregon's first lady, was honor guest when Mrs. Wolcott E. Burns, Mrs. Wallace Carson and Mrs. John B. Casagell entertained Friday afternoon at the Buren home. . . . The table was covered with a Chinese embroidered linen cloth. . . . The centerpiece was a large tiered arrangement of violets, pink and red, roses and greenery in antique crystal compotes, little fluffs of pink tulle arranged among the blooms. . . . At either side of the centerpiece, to the front, were crystal goblets with the same flowers, violet ribbons leading from the center arrangement. . . . Flanking the centerpiece were mulberry candles. . . . Spring blooms in the same colors—snapdragons, tulips, heather and anemones—were arranged in bouquets in the living room. . . . The tea was one of the large ones of the early spring, many town women calling to meet and greet Mrs. Patterson. . . .

Set for March 28 and 29 in Salem is the annual spring workshop for Oregon Press Women. . . . Headquarters will be at the Senator hotel. . . . Margaret Thompson Hill, publisher of the Parkrose Enterprise, Portland, is president of the group. . . . The morning and afternoon sessions on that Saturday will be given over to workshops dealing with various phases of newspaper, advertising and other journalistic fields. . . . At the banquet that evening, awards in the annual contest of the group among dailies and weekly newspapers will be given. . . .

Known as the "world's largest knitting program" is the project undertaken by the American Legion auxiliary through its national child welfare committee. . . . The project is to provide help for Korean war orphans. . . . Mrs. Percy A. Lalson of Fort Madison, Iowa, child welfare chairman for the auxiliary, has launched a movement that will put the million women members in 14,000 units of the auxiliary to work on knitting sweaters and gloves. . . . all to go to the youngsters who are victims of the communist war in Korea. . . .

Miss Ruth Holtzman and Harold H. Saltzman Are Wed in Portland Rites

An impressive wedding ceremony was that solemnized in Portland Sunday evening when Miss Ruth Elaine Holtzman, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David G. Holtzman of Salem, was married to Harold H. Saltzman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Saltzman, of Portland.

An all-white setting was arranged for the service solemnized in the grand ballroom of the Multnomah hotel at 5 o'clock with Rabbi Julius Nodel of Temple Beth Israel officiating.

For the music, Verne Each of Salem sang, Abe Bercovitz of Portland played the violin and Mrs. Bercovitz was at the piano. The Bercovitzes also played for the wedding ceremony.

Lighting the candles were Mrs. Harry Merin of Salem and Mrs. Albert Gilbert of Portland. They wore aqua tulle frocks designed with halter necklines and worn with matching stoles. Their flowers and shoes were in pink.

Wears Satin and Lace
The attractive brunette bride wore a handsome gown of ivory satin, lace and tulle. The bodice was of handcut applique lace and nylon tulle over the satin, iridescent pearls being sprinkled on the lace. The dress was fashioned in drop-shoulder line effect, an illusion yoke forming the high neckline. The full skirt and court train were trimmed with applied diamond shaped medallions of the lace, shimmering with iridescents. The court length illusion veil was arranged from a pillbox headpiece trimmed with the iridescent pearls. The bride carried a white Bible with two white orchids.

Mr. Holtzman presented his daughter in marriage. Adding contrast to the all-white setting were the orchid and pink dresses of the attendants.

Five Attendants
Mrs. Herbert Adler was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a floor length frock of orchid tulle over taffeta, fashioned with halter neckline and bouffant skirt, a matching stole attached to the waist in puffs.

All four wore dresses styled identically to that of the matron of honor, but in pink, and their flowers were cascading clusters of orchid roses. All five attendants wore coronets wound in taffeta matching their dresses.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Holtzman wore a powder blue crepe dress with matching short jacket, the bodice trimmed in Battenburg lace and rhinestones. The bridegroom's mother wore a gold crepe dress trimmed in bugle beads of gold and gold thread embroidery.

To Live in Portland
A dinner in the Rose Bowl of the Multnomah followed the service, and later there was a dance in the grand ballroom of the hotel, Joe Dardis' orchestra playing.

Decorations for the dinner and dance carried out the pink and orchid theme featured in the frocks of the wedding party.

The couple left on a trip to Reno, Los Angeles, Laguna Beach and Mexico. For traveling the bride wore a powder blue tailored suit with cardigan jacket that was styled with three-quarter length sleeves and white pearl buttons for trim. With the suit the bride wore a stole that had wide — cut fringe, a hat matching the suit and trimmed with iridescent pearls, navy blue accessories and white gloves.

The couple will be at home at 4950 S. W. Barbour boulevard, Portland.
